Dear Parishioners,

Last week, I joined Mrs. Clark on a conference call with the commissioner of the RI Department of Education and private school administrators. The commissioner is confident that the state will be able to meet the governor’s 5 metrics for the reopening of schools. Data and metric announcements will be made public on Monday, August 31st. Say a prayer and if all goes well, we will be able to begin our school year!

The school will begin its year as scheduled on September 2nd for the early childhood development program (prek 3, prek 4, and kindergarten). These students will have a three day orientation, which will help us acclimate our youngest students to the new routines and schedules. Grades 1-8 will begin in-school education on Tuesday, September 8th. These plans do remain subject to change if the state or local community does not meet the required metrics.

I have seen our teachers in the building getting things ready for the new academic year. There are a few classes that have full enrollment and we are now accepting names for their wait-lists. I believe there’s a only a couple of seats available in our early childhood development program and some of our other grades. Please call Mrs. Kelly at the school office, which will be open Monday to Friday, from 9AM-1PM.

Our parish school is entering it’s 97th academic year. Five Sisters of Divine Providence began teaching 135 students at Saint Joe’s in 1923. It has faced difficult times and trials throughout its history. I’m confident that Mrs. Clark and her team are well prepared and ready to address the many needs of education in 2020. Thank you for all of your support of our parish school.

Have a great week and stay safe!

God Bless,
Father Stowe
