PENTECOST SUNDAY

POPE BENEDICT PREDICTED GENDER IDEOLOGY WOULD BE FINAL REBELLION AGAINST GOD

Simon Caldwell For the Catholic Herald

Pope Benedict XVI predicted that gender ideology would be the next great challenge to the Church and the final rebellion against God, a US moral theologian has revealed. Dr John Haas, a former member of the Pontifical Academy for Life, said the late pope made the “unsolicited” observation during a private conversation at the Vatican in 2014, the year after Benedict relinquished his petrine office. He said the Pope Emeritus told him that “the next great challenge the Church is going to face is gender ideology, and it will be the ultimate rebellion against God the Creator”. Dr Haas told 114 students during his commencement address at the 2023 Christendom College graduation ceremony in Front Royal, Virginia, that he was “surprised” by Benedict’s remarks because they were so spontaneous. But he said he could now see his words were “prophetic”. “We have been hit with a tsunami of transgender ideology,” Dr Haas said, adding that today “Catholic health care institutions are being sued because they refuse to perform mutilating surgeries on men who want to be surgically altered to look like women or women who want to appear as men”. “Catholic academic institutions are also being sued and attacked as they simply try to continue to give witness to the truth of their students being either male or female,” added Dr Haas, the former president of the US National Bioethics Center. One of the final acts of Pope Benedict’s pontificate was to speak forcefully against the emerging threat of gender ideology, which dismisses biological and scientific categories of male and female in favor of an individual constructing a “gender” of their own choosing. In an address to the Roman Curia given at Christmas 2012, less than two months before he stepped down, the German pope noted that “the very notion of being – of what being human really means – is being called into question”. He said that according to the “new philosophy of sexuality”, sex is “no longer a given element of nature, that man has to accept and personally make sense of: it is a social role that we choose for ourselves, while in the past it was chosen for us by society.” He said: “The profound falsehood of this theory and of the anthropological revolution contained within it is obvious. “People dispute the idea that they have a nature, given by their bodily identity, that serves as a defining element of the human being. They deny their nature and decide that it is not something previously given to them, but that they make it for themselves. “According to the biblical creation account, being created by God as male and female pertains to the essence of the human creature. This duality is an essential aspect of what being human is all about, as ordained by God. “This very duality as something previously given is what is now disputed. The words of the creation account: “male and female he created them” (Gen 1:27) no longer apply. No, what applies now is this: it was not God who created them male and female – hitherto society did this, now we decide for ourselves. “Man and woman as created realities, as the nature of the human being, no longer exist. Man calls his nature into question. From now on he is merely spirit and will.

“The manipulation of nature, which we deplore today where our environment is concerned, now becomes man’s fundamental choice where he himself is concerned. From now on there is only the abstract human being, who chooses for himself what his nature is to be. “Man and woman in their created state as complementary versions of what it means to be human are disputed. But if there is no pre-ordained duality of man and woman in creation, then neither is the family any longer a reality established by creation. Likewise, the child has lost the place he had occupied hitherto and the dignity pertaining to him.” Pope Benedict added: “When the freedom to be creative becomes the freedom to create oneself, then necessarily the Maker himself is denied and ultimately man too is stripped of his dignity as a creature of God, as the image of God at the core of his being. “The defense of the family is about man himself. And it becomes clear that when God is denied, human dignity also disappears. Whoever defends God is defending man.” His successor, Pope Francis, has also repeatedly spoken against gender ideology, implicitly condemning it in paragraph 155 of Laudato Si, his 2015 papal encyclical on the environment, and describing it publicly as part of a “global war on the family”. The Pontiff’s most recent criticisms came during a speech in Budapest, Hungary, last month when he denounced gender ideology as an example of “ideological colonization”. Some senior figures within the Church believe, however, that the gravity of the threat posed by gender ideology warrants a papal encyclical to clearly elucidate Catholic teaching on the truth and meaning of human sexuality. They include Cardinal Willem Eijk, the Archbishop of Utrecht, who specifically requested an encyclical earlier this year when he went to Rome for the four-yearly ad limina visit of the Dutch bishops. “I have asked if it would not be good for the pope to issue an encyclical on gender thinking”, the cardinal said at a press conference afterwards. “Gender theory is being pushed in all kinds of organizations and we as a Church have not said that much about it.” His request was formally lodged with Cardinal Kevin Farrell, the American prefect of the Dicastery for Laity, Family and Life. Gender ideology is convulsing western societies in particular, with record numbers of young people asking for drugs or surgery that will enable them to live in the so-called gender of their choice. Cardinal Eijk, a former hospital doctor and a member of the Pontifical Academy for Life, made a similar call for an encyclical during a speech in Oxford in 2016, arguing that the Church had a duty to remind Catholics of the truth of its teaching about the human body. “Perhaps a document only on this problem might be an urgent question,” Cardinal Eijk said. “It is spreading and spreading everywhere in the western world and we have to warn people,” he said. “From the point of moral theology, it’s clear – you are not allowed to change your sex in this way,” he added.

UNIQUE WAR MEMORIAL FOR OSSINING’S CATHOLIC WAR HEROES.

At the end of World War I, Rev. Cornelius V. Mahoney, Pastor of St. Augustine Church from 1903—1931, honored the young boys from Ossining who sacrificed their lives for our country by having four statues erected in the large circle at the entrance of St. Augustine Cemetery.

The first statue is called the Acceptance of the Sacrifice and typified the agony of our Lord in the Garden of Olives. It is a memorial of the enlistment of these boys, which was their acceptance of the sacrifice when they virtually agreed to lay down their lives for their country.

The second statue represents the Consummation of the Sacrifice, which is typified by the crucifixion of our Lord, and, on the part of the boys, by giving their lives for their country.

The third statue represents the Victory of the Sacrifice in the Resurrection of our Lord, which compares to the return of the conquering heroes to their homes.

The fourth statue represents the Sorrow of the Sacrifice, which is represented by a statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary with her dead son in her lap after he was taken down from the cross ~ representing the sorrows of the mothers whose sons did not return from World War I.

We are looking to hire two (2) males (18 years & older) to work at St. Augustine Cemetery during the summer months ~ Monday thru Friday from 9 am to 2 pm to do landscaping work. If you are interested, please call the Cemetery at (914) 941-6711.
