SECOND SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

SAINT THOMAS MORE ON MAINTAINING A STRONG FAMILY

From Aleteia:

Though an important government official, noted writer, and intellectual, St. Thomas More was deeply devoted to his family.

During his lifetime, St. Thomas More achieved international esteem as a writer and government official. His position as Lord Chancellor for King Henry VIII kept him away from his family for long periods of time while he worked in London and traveling abroad. His time was much in demand during this period of life and the King greatly relied on his expertise in running a government. Later, after the King had broken from the Catholic Church and demanded his government officials compromise their faith by denying the supremacy of the Holy Father, More fell out of favor. Alone out of all the highly placed officials, he declined to deny his faith. More was arrested and sent to the Tower of London where he languished for many months and, eventually, was put on trial, convicted, and martyred. For his courage, More is rightly admired and has been made a saint of the Church. Lesser known but equally admirable was his commitment to his wife and children during his life. His diligence as a father was, in its own way, an example of heroic virtue. At the very least, it provides an example that all of us today can benefit from. In the midst of a busy life, he always made time for family. At age 26 he married Jane, with whom he had four children before her early death. He remarried a widow named Alice, with whom he adopted four orphans to add to their already bustling family. In-laws came to make extended stays, long-term guests were always welcome, and they even acquired a beloved pet monkey. Suffice it to say, the More household was lively. How did St. Thomas More, as busy and important as he was, manage to give his family the time they deserved? How is it that his family loved him to the very end, not simply because he had accomplished so much in the public sphere but because he was their beloved father?

PRAYER

First, he kept the household well-ordered by structuring each day around morning and evening prayers. The family always prayed together, and More would read Scripture aloud during dinner. He himself often attended Holy Mass early in the morning before anyone else was awake. In a large, bustling family, he could have let everything slide into chaos, especially since he had to travel for long periods of time, but instead he took his duties as a father seriously and assisted his family to develop strong spiritual devotion and an orderly use of time. This is such a precious gift, for children to be made aware that God exists and loves them very much. This is the knowledge that allowed his children to grow up with strong virtue and sense of self. His eldest daughter Margaret, for instance, went on to become known as one of the most learned women of her time period.

FAMILY TIME

Second, even though he was a busy man, St. Thomas More never compromised on spending time with his children. When he was home, the family ate dinner together even when he was hosting distinguished guests, he spent long hours assisting with their education and personally attending to their intellectual development, and when they had the opportunity for leisure, he often spent it with the family in the garden. When he was away from home, he wrote letters home almost daily. He was always thinking of his children and would send them poems he'd written for them along with other details of his day. He encouraged the children to write to him in return. More didn't need the letters to be about anything special. He simply wanted to hear from them.

In one letter, More writes, "I cannot adequately express, my delightful daughters, how greatly pleased I am by your charming letters. For believe me truly there is nothing which refreshes me so much in the midst of this bothersome business as reading what comes from you. And so, I long with all my heart to hasten home." His family was in no doubt that he valued them greatly and wanted to share in the entirety of their lives.

LOVE

Finally, in person and in his letters, More didn't shy away from clear expressions of love. He complimented and encouraged his children, proclaiming how overjoyed he was to be able to communicate with them. In one letter, he jokes that he wouldn't accept any excuses for not hearing from them; "How can you possibly lack something to say when I am glad to hear about your studies and your games." In one letter to Margaret, he reminds her how soft-hearted he was with his daughters; "You know how often I have kissed, how rarely spanked you, and then only with a peacock's tail...". In return, his children loved him dearly. Margaret famously pushed her way to him through a potentially violent crowd as he was being paraded through the streets outside the Tower of London as an enemy of the state. She threw her arms around him and held on tightly until he finally convinced her to let him go. One of his very last letters before his death was to her, and in it he declares, "I never liked your manner toward me better than when you kissed me last, for I love when daughterly love and dear charity hath no leisure to look to worldly courtesy." To the end, St. Thomas More was complimenting his daughter and declaring how much he loved her. Finally, he asked her to pray for him when was gone. I like to think that she did, every single day, and that he prayed for her, and all his family, and even now they're together again in Heaven.

On Saturday, January 25th, after the 5 pm Mass and Sunday, January 26th, after the 8 am, 10 am, 12 noon & 6 pm Masses, the St. Augustine School Beekeeping Club will once again be selling honey harvested from our parish's apiary (bee yard). The cost will be $25.00 check / $23.00 cash for a 1lb. jar. Please support our Beekeeping Club.

The Golden Eagles will meet twice monthly through the winter months for coffee socials. Our next gathering is next Wednesday, January 22nd in the parish hall from 9:30 to 11am. All parishioners welcome. In case of snow or ice, the meeting will be cancelled. If the meeting is cancelled, we will send an email and there will be an outgoing message on the hotline. Questions or comments? We can be reached at golden.eagles@staugny.org or on the hotline at 914-923-2268.

"WHEN I WAS ILL, YOU VISITED ME"

These words of Our Good Lord reverberate in our parish. We are in need of volunteer Extraordinary Ministers of the Eucharistic to visit our local Nursing Homes and home-bound parishioners. Volunteers will be interviewed and trained to bring Our Lord in the Blessed Sacrament to those who cannot attend Holy Mass. Currently we are able to make visits weekly on a rotating basis. Volunteers may be needed one Sunday a month. If we do not get the needed volunteers, we may need to cut back on our ability to visit them each week. For more information, please contact Deacon Cliff Calanni at (914) 523-5507 or calanni@aol.com.

Dear Fr, McSweeney, Fr. Figueroa and Parishioners,

Thank you for honoring the Saint Vincent de Paul Society with the 2024 Christmas Club. Through the generosity of the parish, approximately $10,000 has been donated to the Society. We are overwhelmed by your kindness and thoughtfulness.

It is your generosity that allows us to support those in need regardless of race or religion, This past month our efforts have been focused on providing meals for the homeless at the Briar-cliff-Ossining Ministerial Association's Shelter. Many new volunteers stepped forward to help with this effort. A huge thank you to all those who provided food. In addition, we have been assisting a St. Augustine family that is currently homeless. Finding housing is probably the most difficult task we face. If anyone knows of any temporary or permanent housing available for a family of 3, please call Marie Tassini at 917-863-9055.

This is a challenging time for many; and with your assistance we have been able to aid those in need. If you or someone you know needs help, please reach out to Deacon Steven DeMartino at 914-330-3727 to make a confidential request. Later this month, the Society will have a brochure in the vestibule of St. Augustine explaining our mission in more detail.

Again a huge thank you to all those who gave so generously to the Christmas Club. You have allowed us to care for many in our community.

Maggie Kolman-Mandle
President, St. Augustine Chapter of the SCDP Society
