

Put on then, as God's chosen ones, holy and beloved, heartfelt compassion, kindness, humility, gentleness, and patience, bearing with one another and forgiving one another. And over all these put on love, that is, the bond of perfection. And whatever you do, in word or in deed, do everything in the name of the Lord Jesus.

Tornado Relief

Destructive and deadly tornados ravaged several states in the South and Midwest earlier this month. The Diocese of Portland, along with the other dioceses and archdioceses of the U.S., are partnering with Catholic Charities USA in a wide response to the recent disaster affecting thousands in western Kentucky and beyond. Catholic Charities USA and Catholic Relief Services are the official relief agencies of the U.S. Catholic Church. You can help families and communities devastated by the recent tornado events in this manner as 100% of your donation goes towards rebuilding lives. To donate and assist with immediate emergency needs and recovery support, call (703) 549-1390 or give online at www.catholiccharities.us/campaign/ccusa-disaster-relief/c353051.

Please join us in praying for all those who have been impacted by these disasters - those who have been injured, those who have lost their lives, grieving families and communities, those who lost their homes and businesses, the emergency responders, and the disaster relief agencies who have begun the work of providing for the needs of those impacted in these communities.

God of hope and mercy, we lift up to you all victims of natural disasters and those responding with assistance and aid. Protect all who are in any form of danger; provide practical help to those in need; strengthen the weary, console the grieving, heal the suffering; and bless those engaged in disaster relief efforts with safety and courage. Help all people of good will respond with compassion and generous hearts. Amen.

Epiphany on Sunday

On many calendars, Epiphany falls on January 6, but the Catholic Church in the United States celebrates it on whatever date Sunday falls during the week of January 2.

Epiphany means “manifestation,” and it celebrates the day that the infant Jesus revealed his divinity to the Magi. Traditionally, this event is connected with two others from the Gospels: the Baptism of Jesus and the Wedding at Cana. In all these events, the mystery of Christ became more manifest. The Magi, coming from the East, signify that gentile nations—not just Jewish nations—were coming to recognize Jesus as the savior of the world.

The Bible does not indicate on what day the magi visited—nor, for that matter, on what day Jesus was born. January 6 was probably chosen for this observance as an alternative for early Christians living in a culture where pagans already commemorated the birth of a sun god on the same day.

The day, the twelfth day of Christmas, gave rise to a host of customs, as well as a popular Christmas carol.

The biblical event is so important that the Catholic Church lists Epiphany among the solemnities that may be designated holydays of obligation. Episcopal conferences determine local holydays, and in the United States, January 6 was never included. In any country where Epiphany is not a holyday of obligation, the observance moves to a Sunday so that it may be celebrated by the entire Catholic community.

The transfer of Epiphany to a Sunday has the disadvantage of dividing the celebration among various Christian Churches of the world, but the advantage of helping the entire Catholic community proclaim and celebrate the meaning of coming of Christ.

From the American Red Cross:

Thank you for your steadfast support of our blood drives this year.

I am happy to share that the Red Cross had a record year at St. Francis Church. At the 11 blood drives we ran in 2021, our staff saw 416 people, including 15 first-time donors, and collected 403 units of blood. That's 30% more than the amount we collected last year and more than any other year, according to the records in our current database, which go back to 2006.

We also had a productive year at St. Denis Church. At the two blood drives we ran in 2021, our staff saw 57 people, including 3 first-time donors, and collected 56 units of blood. Since each unit of whole blood can be separated into three products—red cells, platelets and plasma—the amount we collected at the two churches this year potentially saved the lives of more than 1,300 people. These patients include victims of car accidents, mothers with at-risk pregnancies, babies born prematurely and people battling cancer.

Your support is greatly appreciated now because it has helped us maintain a strong blood supply for patients during this ongoing public health crisis. On behalf of the patients we serve, thank you for your commitment to this lifesaving mission.

Carrots, corn, and caring

Reprinted from Harvest, the magazine of the Catholic Diocese of Portland, November/December 2021

The early morning fog is just starting to lift, but Frank Cuff and Karol Phillips are already hard at work snipping Swiss chard and plucking cherry tomatoes. The two are among a group of St. Michael's parishioners who, from May to October, diligently tended a community garden located outside St. Francis Xavier Church in Winthrop.

"For me, it was being able to get out and do something after the year of COVID, to be able to get out and do something positive and just something that made a contribution," says Karol.

"Working outside, working with my hands and being able to contribute back to the community was really what drove me," says Frank.

The garden was started by Father Arokiasamy Santhiyagu, HGN, who served as a parochial vicar at St. Michael Parish from 2015-2020, but this spring, it took on new life. Looking for projects that would tie into the Catholic Climate Covenant and the principles of Pope Francis' Laudato Si', the idea for an expanded community garden took root.

"That was our vision at the beginning of the year — to kind of have a program through the seasons to help us care for our common home and get folks involved in the community," says Frank.

Before planting, the parishioners found out which vegetables would be most useful to area food pantries and which would grow best in Maine.

"We actually did some soil testing to see nutrient levels and Ph levels so that it would fit with what we planted. We've kept everything very organic," says Frank. "We've used natural pest control, compost, and natural fertilizers."

The parishioners ended up choosing a variety of fruits and vegetables, such as beans, beets, broccoli, cabbage, cantaloupe, carrots, corn, cucumbers, kale, lettuce, onions, peas, tomatoes, zucchini and, thanks to Vacation Bible School participants, watermelon.

"They planted seeds and seedlings, and they helped during the week that they were there, so that was great," says Frank.

The results were impressive. The 2,000-square-foot garden produced nearly 800 pounds of vegetables.

"Look at this chard, it's beautiful, and the kale is awesome, and the tomatoes," says Duane Phillips, Karol's husband, who mans the washing station. "We used to count the tomatoes, and I stopped. I got to 500, and I had to stop."

"This project has turned out really amazing," says Karol.

Nearly everything harvested was donated to the Chrysalis Food Pantry in Gardiner and the Winthrop Food Pantry, which together serve nearly 200 families every month.

"We greatly appreciated those food donations," says Bev Bernald-LaPlante from Chrysalis Place. "The produce was wonderful."

"The fresh vegetables just mean the world to us," says JoEllen Cottrell, executive director of the Winthrop Food Pantry. "Obviously, we have a lot of canned goods, and to be able to give our people fresh produce is quite a treat."

JoEllen says fresh produce is especially appreciated because of its nutritional value and because it can be expensive to buy.

"A lot of people don't necessarily have access to it — if they're elderly, if they're living in an apartment or a condo and they don't have either the ability to garden for themselves or the space to do it," she says.

Along with Karol, Duane, and Frank, parishioners actively involved in the garden include Joseph Kus, who was especially helpful in preparing the land and putting up fencing, Delores Burgess, Gina and Peter Czerwinski, and Travis Peaslee. Some, like Karol, Duane, and Frank, were frequent visitors.

"We live less than 10 minutes away, so we can pop in and do work whenever it's convenient and when the weather permits," says Karol.

"It's a natural fit," says Duane. "It's a church project, and I help out at a food pantry anyway, as does Karol."

"I have always enjoyed that kind of work and if I can do it and make a difference to an issue that I think is really important, then that is why I wanted to get involved," says Frank. "Hunger is an issue that has always been on my mind. It's something that I think we need to continually address."
