The Dog Days of August are here! Seasonably, these are the warmest and most humid days of the summer. We live with one foot soaking up the warmth and enjoying vacations and with the other foot preparing for September and a return to a school time schedule. The month of August has the notable Feast Day of Our Lady's Assumption (August 15th) into heaven which this year will fall on a Sunday! Perhaps because the weather is always good and because more people have vacation time, this holy day always seems to be better attended than others. Taking place on Sunday makes it a guarantee that attendance will be above average for a typical holy day!

During my seminary years, we began every class with the professor leading us in prayer. My favorite prayer, particularly before an exam, was a short invocation to Our Lady under the title, Seat of Wisdom.

Because she had Wisdom Himself in her womb, she would have been infused with graces to learn the meaning of the holy things of God. All search for knowledge, because all truth has its origin in God, is a search for God. The importance of continual learning is that it enkindles in us a desire to know God and to know Him through His creation.

This Fall I will be blessed with an opportunity to go back to school! Catholic University of America has an online program focusing on Church Administration. I am one of three priests whom Bishop Libasci has generously chosen to send for continued formation for our own benefit and the benefit of the parishes we serve. It will also be my hope to be able to assist other priests as we continually learn how to administer parish affairs in the midst of all our priestly ministry. As with all new duties for any priest, my school work will be in addition to the duties of my current assignment. As with all things, I place the burden in the hands of Our Lady and trust in her maternal intercession for the grace to do all things well. May The Seat of Wisdom pray that we all have a burning desire to know the things of God.
