“EPHPTHATHA! – THAT IS BE OPENED!”

On this Labor Day Weekend, let us take a welcome rest from our labors – be they in a factory or field, store or office, school or home – and appreciate the time we take with the One who promised that His yoke was easy and His burden light. Today let us pray especially for those whose own burden is difficult: those who need to work more than one job to support their families, those who do not receive the gratitude and compensation they deserve for their work, and those who are unemployed or underemployed.

DAILY SCRIPTURE READINGS FOR THE WEEK

Monday – Col 1:24-2:3; Lk 6:6-11; Tuesday – Col 2:6-15; Lk 6:12-19; Wednesday – Mi 5:1-4a; Mt 1:1-16,18-23; Thursday – Col 3:12-17; Lk 6:27-38; Friday – 1 Tm 1:2,12-14; Lk 6:39-42; Saturday – 1 Tm 1:15-17; Lk 6:43-49.

STEWARDSHIP

Many thanks to all who continue to support the Parish with your time, talent and treasure. St. Joseph’s depends upon the weekly contributions of our Parishioners to remain financially healthy and solvent. If you are away or not able to attend Mass on the weekend, please make up your contributions upon your return. We depend upon the generosity of each Parishioner to meet our rising expenses. Your stewardship is an important part of Discipleship and the life of St. Joseph’s and we thank you sincerely!

MUSIC AT MASS

Next weekend, in addition to the hymns, we will resume our regular music program of singing all the parts of the Mass. St. Augustine once wrote that to sing is to pray twice. Please join in offering our praise and gratitude to God by singing out with gusto!!

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Am I open to hearing God’s word, even from unexpected sources? How do I live out my baptismal call to proclaim God’s word?

WELCOME TO OUR NEW PARISHIONERS

We would like to take this opportunity to welcome Christopher & Medina Grant, who joined our Parish Family in August!

HAVE A GREAT WEEK!

EPHATHA! BE OPENED!

The readings for this 23rd Sunday in Ordinary Time are filled with baptismal references. Isaiah in the 1st reading uses vibrant water imagery to show how God's grace bubbles up and spills over to give life. Streams and rivers and pools and springs burst forth into dry places, allowing for growth and vitality where there was none. The Gospel tells the story of a man who cannot hear or speak and of Jesus dazzling command Ephphatha! Be opened! Perhaps it's time to revisit our own baptisms. Many of us, baptized as infants, don't remember the gift of this day. We may have photos, if we are lucky, but our lack of personal memory or experience is a bit ironic. The most significant day of our lives, a defining moment of identity and mission is lost to us because, as infants, we simply cannot remember. And so, we depend on the collective memory of the church. We know what baptisms are like from our experiences of them at Mass or at a baptism of a family or friend. We can also rely on the important witness of those who are baptized as adults for theirs is a different story, often filled more dramatically. Theirs is a story of choice and challenge and change. Baptism at any age requires courage, because in baptism we are really and truly changed. This is why Baptism can only be done once and never repeated. God claims us irrevocably. We are once and for all made daughters and sons of God. But living our baptisms is an ongoing process. In much the same way that weddings are celebrated on one day but begin a life-long marriage, so too is baptism celebrated once while also beginning a new way of life. We have the chance to choose again and again to live up to our baptisms, much like those who are married choose again and again to live up to their marriage vows. In both cases, some days are easier than others. On the easy days, our good habits and good works kick in, the choice is easy and the duties are joyful. On the hard days, our vices may get the better of us. We often fail to live up to the holiness for which we were made. Both in marriage and baptism, we are called to lean on the grace of the sacrament, renew our bows and continue to strive for that holiness. Challenges arise because we often experience spiritual dryness. While the effects of baptism are permanent, our human emotions are fickle and do not always reflect the reality. We do not always feel the life God has given us. Our hearts are sometimes frightened, Isaiah speaks, "say to those hearts that are frightened: Be strong! Fear not." Strength is found in God's action, not our own. That is what resolves our fear of trusting in God's work in our lives. But perhaps more common than fear is boredom. Here too, we need to depend on God to bring us through, to grant us the grace to persist even when the emotional reward is low, even when we are bored. What is clear in all these readings is that God is on our side. This is our God who secures justice for the oppressed and sustains the widows and orphans. St. James assures us in the 2nd reading that God chooses those who are poor, promising them richness in faith and an inheritance in the kingdom...the very gifts of baptism. God's preference for the poor has to do first of all with real, literal poverty. But, in another sense, all of us are poor in comparison to God and God faithfully promises to stand with us on our spiritual journey. We remember our baptisms and renew the promises made that day. If you don't know the date of yours, try to find out. Put it on your calendar and celebrate it in some way. Light a candle, have a treat, find ways to keep those promises alive. Baptism is the day we are made holy! God bless...Fr. Isopo.
