Forming a Eucharistic Strategy

Last week someone shared with me a recent article from Commonweal by Cardinal Blaise Cupich, the Cardinal Archbishop of Chicago. Cardinal Cupich is generally considered to be a “progressive” member of the American episcopate, though those types of political labels are often unhelpful when applied to the Church. Irrespective of one’s leanings, the article is worth reading. In it, the Cardinal outlines several themes about the Eucharist that he believes should be the foundation of a strategy to address the significant challenges the Church faces in the United States.

One of the themes he develops is the human need to worship. He points to the dwindling numbers of regular Sunday Mass-goers in the United States and observes that many treat Mass attendance as simply one option among various other things one can do on a Sunday. Sadly, this reflects the consumerist mindset that afflicts our American culture. Cardinal Cupich writes: “If Eucharistic formation, catechesis, and revival are to happen, then the Church and its leaders must address this fundamental question of worship: Is it, in fact, optional or is it necessary?” The fact is, the Cardinal writes, human beings are by nature creatures who are made to worship. We can’t help it. And if it is not God whom we worship, then we will worship something else – even ourselves. He invites us to think of the obligation to attend Sunday Mass as flowing not only from the Third Commandment: “Remember to keep holy the Lord’s Day,” but even more fundamentally from the First Commandment: “You shall not have false gods before me.” The sin of idolatry plagues our age in the form of consumerism, addiction, work, sports, entertainment, and achievement. “If we are to spare ourselves the entrapments of the many idols that mark our lives, then worship of God is necessary.” There are many idols that seek to seduce us. If we want to know if we’ve fallen under the spell of a false god, we might start by asking what it is we do on the weekend instead of going to Mass.

Cardinal Cupich also emphasizes that “the Eucharist is a matter of life and death.” Far from hyperbole, this truth is rooted in the words of Christ: “Amen, amen, I say to you, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink His blood, you do not have life within you. Whoever eats my flesh and drinks my blood has eternal life, and I will raise him on the last day” (John 6:53-4). He lists several “death-dealing forces,” among which are the pandemic, widespread inner-city violence, the specter of war, disregard for human life, and degradation of the environment. At the Mass, we encounter the Source of Life under the appearance of bread and wine. Part of the task of good catechesis is to help people discover the significance of the Eucharist based on the very words of Christ. Oppressed by the forces of death that beset us on all sides, we must turn to Jesus in the Eucharist so that we might have life instead of death. Moreover, the life that we receive in the liturgy as members of the Church cannot be left behind when we leave Mass. “True participation in the Eucharist,” writes the Cardinal, “necessarily shapes our moral choices, orienting us to serve those in need, and guiding us to strengthen relationships." Our Lord gives us the gift of Himself in the Eucharist to transform us and make us more like Him. He does this so that we can then bring Him into the world and participate in His work of restoring Creation to Him through our lives of authentic discipleship. The world needs to see the fruits of the Eucharist in our lives. Otherwise, we Catholics will fail in our sacred responsibility to be leaven in the world – and we will have to answer to Jesus for that.

In Christ,
Fr. John

"Two Thousand Hail Marys"

Saturday, October 2nd, 2021
St. Gabriel Church
5:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.
Mass at 8:00 a.m.

Come Pray to the Blessed Mother.
Stay for a few minutes, a couple of hours or the whole time.
Questions? Call Tessie Senerador at 203.570.3109

Entrance: Holy Holy Holy 460

Introit: I am the salvation of the people, saith the Lord in whatsoever tribulation they shall call upon me, I will hear them, and I will be their Lord forever. Glory be to the Father, and to the Son and to the Holy Spirit, as it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be world without end. Amen.

First Reading: Wis 2:12, 17-20

The wicked say: Let us beset the just one, because He is obnoxious to us; He sets himself against our doings, reproaches us for transgressions of the law and charges us with violations of our training. Let us see whether His words be true; let us find out what will happen to Him. For if the just one be the son of God, God will defend Him and deliver Him from the hand of his foes. With revilement and torture let us put the just one to the test that we may have proof of His gentleness and try His patience. Let us condemn Him to a shameful death; for according to His own words, God will take care of Him.

Responsorial Psalm: The Lord upholds my life.

Second Reading: Jas 3:16—4:3

Beloved: Where jealousy and selfish ambition exist, there is disorder and every foul practice. But the wisdom from above is first of all pure, then peaceable, gentle, compliant, full of mercy and good fruits, without inconstancy or insincerity. And the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace for those who cultivate peace. Where do the wars and where do the conflicts among you come from? Is it not from your passions that make war within your members? You covet but do not possess. You kill and envy but you cannot obtain; you fight and wage war. You do not possess because you do not ask. You ask but do not receive, because you ask wrongly, to spend it on your passions.

Gospel: Mk 9:30-37

Jesus and his disciples left from there and began a journey through Galilee, but He did not wish anyone to know about it. He was teaching His disciples and telling them, "The Son of Man is to be handed over to men and they will kill Him, and three days after his death the Son of Man will rise." But they did not understand the saying, and they were afraid to question Him. They came to Capernaum and, once inside the house, He began to ask them, "What were you arguing about on the way?" But they remained silent. They had been discussing among themselves on the way who was the greatest. Then He sat down, called the Twelve, and said to them, "If anyone wishes to be first, he shall be the last of all and the servant of all." Taking a child, he placed it in the their midst, and putting his arms around it, he said to them, "Whoever receives one child such as this in my name, receives me; and whoever receives me, receives not me but the One who sent me."

Offertory: The King of Love My Shepherd Is 580

Communion Antiphone: O that my ways may be guided towards the keeping of your statutes.

Closing: Christ is Made the Sure Foundation 561

Prayer to Saint Michael the Archangel

St. Michael the Archangel, defend us in battle. Be our defense against the wickedness and snares of the Devil. May God rebuke him, we humbly pray, and do thou, O Prince of the heavenly host, by the power of God, cast into hell Satan, and all the evil spirits, who prowl about the world seeking the ruin of souls.
Amen.

FALL BIBLE STUDY

Many Catholics want to read the Bible because they know it's God's Word, but they give up because it seems so complicated.

Unlocking the Mystery of the Bible, with the presenter Jeff Cavins, helps you get the "big picture" by showing how fourteen narrative books of the Bible tell the complete story of salvation history from Adam and Eve to Christ and the Church. You will be able to make sense of the Bible, discover the remarkable connections between the Old and New Testaments, see how the sacraments, the Church and our entire Catholic Faith is rooted in Scripture and much more.

Unlocking the Mystery of the Bible is only eight sessions; the study program includes video presentations that explore all twelve time periods of The Bible Timeline Chart, group discussion and some homework.

Order your book at: <https://ascensionpress.com/collections/unlocking-the-mystery> - $26.95 gives you both the book and access to the on-line study and video at Ascension Press for one year. You'll also receive a new Bible Timeline Chart and Bookmark.

Tactics: A Game Plan for Discussing Your Christian Convictions

In a world increasingly indifferent to Christian truth, followers of Christ need to be equipped to communicate with those who do not speak their language or accept their source of authority. In Tactics, Gregory Koukl demonstrates how to artfully regain control of conversations, keeping them moving forward in constructive ways through thoughtful diplomacy. You'll learn how to stop challengers in their tracks and how to turn the tables on questions or provocative statements. Most importantly, you'll learn how to get people thinking about Jesus. Tactics provides the game plan for communicating the compelling truth about Christianity with confidence and grace.

The study will start September 8th and run Wednesdays from 6:45 p.m. - 8:15 p.m. at St. Cecilia's McDermott Hall. Space is limited. To purchase the book and reserve your spot email noelle.gross@gmail.com or call 857-345-0808.
