Good Pope John

In October 1962, almost 60 years ago this month, Pope St. John XXIII opened the Second Vatican Council. The First Vatican Council had been cut short and left unfinished in 1870 by the War of Italian Unification. Prior to that Council was the Council of Trent, which was the Catholic Church's response to the crisis of the Protestant Reformation in the 16th Century. Less than 20 years after the worst war the world had ever seen, and in the midst of a Cold War that would continue for another 30 years, Pope John XXIII announced that the time had come to gather the bishops of the world together for a Council.

Pope John's opening speech to those gathered at St. Peter's Basilica is called Gaudet Mater Ecclesia, or "Mother Church Rejoices." In it, the pope refers to the contemporary state of the world, and the very serious political and economic issues that "so preoccupy people that they turn their cares and thoughts away from the religious affairs which are the concern of the Church's teaching authority." It was the pope's hope that the Council would proclaim anew the perennial teachings of the Church "in the way demanded by our times," and to help the people of the world turn their eyes and order their lives once more to the things of God. He describes Catholic doctrine as "the common heritage of humanity," and declares that "our task is not only to guard this precious treasure, as if we were concerned only with an antiquity," but also to share the treasure of the Faith, "eagerly and without fear." To a world still reeling from the horrors of world war and living under constant threat of nuclear devastation, Pope John described the Church as a "loving mother," who "distributes the goods of heavenly grace which, since they raise people to the dignity of children of God, are so effective a protection and aid for them to live a more human life." Along with the life of grace, the Church also shares its teaching, which illumines the minds of those touched by grace to understand who they are and the noble life to which they're called. This includes sharing what we have received, dispelling "seeds of error" and promoting "concord, a just peace, and fraternal unity among all," through our lives of Christian charity.

Church historians often say that it takes about a century for a Council to be fully integrated into the life of the Church. Pope St. John XXIII's decision to convoke the Second Vatican Council was, without a doubt, one of the most consequential actions of the past century, and it continues to affect the life of the Church both internally and in its relationship with the world. As Pope John said in his opening address: "Christ Jesus still stands at the center of history and life: people either embrace Him and His Church and so enjoy the benefits of light, goodness, order, and peace, or they live without Him or act against Him and deliberately remain outside the Church, so that confusion arises among them, their relationships are embittered, and the danger of bloody wars impends." Sixty years later, this message remains essential. On his feast day (Oct 11), we ask good Pope St. John to pray for the Church, that it might fulfill its mission of being both the guardian and beacon of Truth in the midst of growing confusion, and the bearer of divine life to those who live in the sadness of spiritual death.

In Christ,
Fr. John

Fr. Mariusz is starting a spiritual reading group.

The first book will be The Story of the Soul by St. Thérèse of Lisieux.

Please join us for an orientation session on the book on Tuesday, October 12th at 6:30 p.m. in the Parish Center.

Anyone who is interested is welcome to participate.

Prayer to Saint Michael the Archangel

St. Michael the Archangel, defend us in battle.
Be our defense against the wickedness
and snares of the Devil.

May God rebuke him, we humbly pray, and do thou,
O Prince of the heavenly host, by the power of God,
cast into hell Satan, and all the evil spirits,
who prowl about the world seeking the ruin of souls.
Amen.

Entrance: Be Thou My Vision 623

Introit: If Thou, O Lord wilt be extreme to mark what is done amiss, O Lord, who may abide? For with Thee there is great mercy, O God of Israel. Glory be to the Father, and to the Son and to the Holy Spirit, as it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be world without end. Amen.

First Reading: Wis 7:7-11

I prayed, and prudence was given me; I pleaded, and the spirit of wisdom came to me. I preferred her to scepter and throne, and deemed riches nothing in comparison with her, nor did I liken any priceless gem to her; because all gold, in view of her, is a little sand, and before her, silver is to be accounted mire. Beyond health and comeliness I loved her, and I chose to have her rather than the light, because the splendor of her never yields to sleep. Yet all good things together came to me in her company, and countless riches at her hands.

Responsorial Psalm: Fill us with your love, O Lord, and we will sing for joy!

Second Reading: Heb 4:12-13

Brothers and sisters: Indeed the word of God is living and effective, sharper than any two-edged sword, penetrating even between soul and spirit, joints and marrow, and able to discern reflections and thoughts of the heart. No creature is concealed from him, but everything is naked and exposed to the eyes of Him to whom we must render an account.

Gospel: Mk 10:35-45

As Jesus was setting out on a journey, a man ran up, knelt down before him, and asked him, "Good teacher, what must I do to inherit eternal life?" Jesus answered him, "Why do you call me good? No one is good but God alone. You know the commandments: You shall not kill; you shall not commit adultery; you shall not steal; you shall not bear false witness; you shall not defraud; honor your father and your mother." He replied and said to Him, "Teacher, all of these I have observed from my youth." Jesus, looking at him, loved him and said to him, "You are lacking in one thing. Go, sell what you have, and give to the poor and you will have treasure in heaven; then come, follow me." At that statement his face fell, and he went away sad, for he had many possessions. Jesus looked around and said to his disciples, "How hard it is for those who have wealth to enter the kingdom of God!" The disciples were amazed at his words. So Jesus again said to them in reply, "Children, how hard it is to enter the kingdom of God! It is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for one who is rich to enter the kingdom of God." They were exceedingly astonished and said among themselves, "Then who can be saved?" Jesus looked at them and said, "For human beings it is impossible, but not for God. All things are possible for God." Peter began to say to him, "We have given up everything and followed you." Jesus said, "Amen, I say to you, there is no one who has given up house or brothers or sisters or mother or father or children or lands for my sake and for the sake of the gospel who will not receive a hundred times more now in this present age: houses and brothers and sisters and mothers and children and lands, with persecutions, and eternal life in the age to come."

Offertory: Christ is made the sure foundation 561

Communion Antiphon: Remove from me all scorn and contempt, for I have kept your commandments.

Closing: Hail Holy Queen enthroned above 530

Pass It On is a series of presentations for parents who want to equip their children well for their life's journey. Through 15 presentations, the authors, speakers and experts in their respective fields offer their wisdom and experience to encourage and challenge parents as they wrestle with what they should be putting into their children's backpacks. Each episode is filled with practical suggestions and helpful insights for moms and dads who want to hand on their faith to their children.

These presentations are perfect for individuals to watch and listen to for daily encouragement. They are also great for couples who want to grow in clarity and unity as they embrace their parenting role together. These sessions also make an excellent springboard for group discussion and sharing, allowing parents to learn from the experiences of other parents. Each presentation can stand on its own with very little preparation. The Pass It On series can easily be used by moms or parent groups, in home or parish settings. A downloadable discussion guide for the series is available. Each presentation is about 20 minutes in length.

The Phantom Phoenix

Set in Chicago during the 1920s, Martin struggles to find his place in the world. He suffered a debilitating leg injury as a fighter pilot in World War I and is rejected by society. Without the support of family or the ability to work, Martin is a homeless veteran roaming the streets of Chicago, living off scraps of food he finds. That is, until he rises from the ashes.

Through a series of unlikely events, Martin discovers that his knowledge of the streets can actually help the country he fought to defend. Working in the shadows as if he was a "phantom," he encounters criminals and crime scenes, giving police the hints and clues they need to clean-up the streets of Chicago.

Despite his difficult situation, he wants to help the police and bring criminals to justice. Martin is aided in his pursuit for justice by a Polish priest named Fr. Karol, who gives Martin sanctuary in his church basement, establishing a "base of operations" for his detective work and tinkering on new inventions.
