The Pastor's Column

Dear Family in the Lord,

So, here we are just days into the great Season of Christmas, and the Liturgy reminds us that as God takes on human flesh, He does so within the ordinary, yet extraordinary gift, that is the human family. Anyone who reads the Gospels carefully will see that the Holy Family had their share of troubles and challenges, which at times caused them great worry. Joseph showed a father's courageous and protective instinct as he did his best to shield his family from the forces of evil. When he learned in a dream of Herod's plot to kill the baby Jesus, he quickly uprooted Mary and Jesus and left in the night to go to Egypt, where they lived in exile. Such situations are not relegated to the past are they?

The most elementary community of our lives is the family into which we are born. This feast is meant to underscore the importance and sacredness of family as the basic unit of church life. As St. John Paul II would often say, "As goes the family, so the church, so the world." Today provides an opportunity to reflect on the quality and attentiveness we bring to our home and family life.

Parents teach their children by word and by example. Those who avoid signs of mutual affection and do not show tenderness, mercy, and compassion, as well as tough love and lived values, can scarcely complain if life seems hollow and their houses seem to be empty of love. Family is a challenge to be worked out, not simply settling for various people sharing accommodations and being tolerant of one another.

No matter what age young people are, home needs to be the place where they are encouraged to share their joys, fears, and hopes. Someone once remarked that family life is not "a problem to be solved, but a mystery to be lived." Faith begins at home, and parents are, as they pledge to be when they bring their children to Baptism, "the first teachers of their child in the ways of faith." Handing on the faith means handing on a way of life. There's no use to parents urging their children to pray if prayer is not a visible part of their adult lives and a uniting factor in family life. One of the greatest challenges is to discern what seems at times to be "urgent" and what is actually "essential." The old saying fits family life and its challenges in a particular way, I think. "It's not about figuring out how to stop having to juggle. It's having the wisdom to know which balls are crystal and which are rubber."

With you on the Journey,

fr Gary
