EUCCHARISTIC ADORATION

Monday's - 9:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m.
First Friday - 9:00 a.m. - 7:00 p.m.

Dear Parishioners –

Over the past few weeks, I've celebrated a few birthdays and graduations with family and I began to think about the whole ritual of giving and receiving gifts.

We are usually quite open to giving gifts but most of us are reluctant to receive them. Do we readily accept and receive the precious gifts from God specifically the gift of life? Life is a gift. Life, our very existence, does not originate with us nor do we will ourselves into being. Creation itself, is a gift. It is the overflow of love from the eternal love of the Trinity. We cannot demand to exist. All is a free gift. Have we received the gift of life this day? Yesterday is gone, tomorrow is not here, all we have is today. Are we receiving this day as a gift from God? Father, thank you for the gift of life. Help me to receive your gift of life today with joy and celebrate it in every circumstance.

God Bless,
Deacon Howard

18th Sunday in Ordinary Time

“Each day the people are to go out and gather their daily portion; thus will I test them, to see whether they follow my instructions or not.” EXODUS 16:4

When the Israelites gathered more than their daily portion of manna, the surplus became wormy and rotten. In the same way today, self-reliance, pride and ego leads to hoarding and excessive surplus of goods and money. Living a stewardship lifestyle helps us discern our “wants” from our “needs”. Living a grateful and generous lifestyle reminds us that God will provide all that we need and that we have plenty to share.

Our Parish Family...

Through the holy waters of Baptism, we welcomed into the St. Jane Parish family on:

Son of Thomas & Sarah Lubawski

EUCCHARISTIC ADORATION

Did you know that...Every Monday from 9 am to 3 pm and every First Friday, from 9 am to 6:30pm, the Blessed Sacrament is waiting for visitors (you, me, us) in the Church? Everyone is welcome at their convenience, but for St. Jane's to consistently be able to expose the Blessed Sacrament, we need substitutes when “regulars” are away. If you can commit to a regular visiting time, or give your name and phone number as a substitute, you will help The Blessed Sacrament be Adored. Contact Lynn Lemons, 443-618-4964.

Last weekend marked the 52nd anniversary of Pope St. Paul VI's encyclical (a letter that encircles the world) Humanae Vitae (on Human Life) in which the Pope talked about marriage, life, and children. It was the most widely discussed and most hotly debated yet most prophetic encyclical of the 20th century. While it was the center of controversy, very few people actually read it. So we will print a little bit of it each week to hear not from the "talking heads of the media" but from the Church itself about these most important matters.

Fr. Carl

Humanae Vitae

ENCYCLICAL LETTER
HUMANAE VITAE

The transmission of human life is a most serious role in which married people collaborate freely and responsibly with God the Creator. It has always been a source of great joy to them, even though it sometimes entails many difficulties and hardships.

The fulfillment of this duty has always posed problems to the conscience of married people, but the recent course of human society and the concomitant changes have provoked new questions. The Church cannot ignore these questions, for they concern matters intimately connected with the life and happiness of human beings.

I. PROBLEM AND COMPETENCY OF THE MAGISTERIUM (the teaching office of the Church)

2. The changes that have taken place are of considerable importance and varied in nature. In the first place there is the rapid increase in population which has made many fear that world population is going to grow faster than available resources, with the consequence that many families and developing countries would be faced with greater hardships. This can easily induce public authorities to be tempted to take even harsher measures to avert this danger. There is also the fact that not only working and housing conditions but the greater demands made both in the economic and educational field pose a living situation in which it is frequently difficult these days to provide properly for a large family.

Also noteworthy is a new understanding of the dignity of woman and her place in society, of the value of conjugal love in marriage and the relationship of conjugal acts to this love.

But the most remarkable development of all is to be seen in man's stupendous progress in the domination and rational organization of the forces of nature to the point that he is endeavoring to extend this control over every aspect of his own life—over his body, over his mind and emotions, over his social life, and even over the laws that regulate the transmission of life.

New Questions

3. This new state of things gives rise to new questions. Granted the conditions of life today and taking into account the relevance of married love to the harmony and mutual fidelity of husband and wife, would it not be right to review the moral norms in force till now, especially when it is felt that these can be observed only with the gravest difficulty, sometimes only by heroic effort?

Moreover, if one were to apply here the so called principle of totality, could it not be accepted that the intention to have a less prolific but more rationally planned family might transform an action which renders natural processes infertile into a licit and provident control of birth? Could it not be admitted, in other words, that procreative finality applies to the totality of married life rather than to each single act? A further question is whether, because people are more conscious today of their responsibilities, the time has not come when the transmission of life should be regulated by their intelligence and will rather than through the specific rhythms of their own bodies.
