First Friday - 9:00 a.m. - 7:00 p.m.

Dear Parishioners –

In the first story of creation, we see the power of God. God said and it was done as soon as he said it. Wouldn't parents like to have that kind of power over their children? When He said "Let us make man in our image, after our likeness," it was the high point of creation. However, it was impersonal; he simply said it and it came to be. But the second story of creation shows God taking a more personal interest. God "formed man out of the clay of the ground and blew into his nostrils the breath of life, and so man became a living being." But God didn't stop there, for as the old saying goes "No man is an island." And so he formed Eve from the side of Adam to be a help-mate, wife, and mother. God is good!

There are great blessings and joys in marriage, children, new homes, new jobs, mutual support and encouragement, moves to different states and sometimes countries, family vacations, and companionship in the later years. The devotion between couples married 50, 60, or even 70 years is truly an inspiration.

Still it's not all sweetness and light. Differences arise, arguments take place, and personalities change. Personality quirks once so interesting become annoyances, and patience sometimes gives way to rude/hurtful remarks. Marriage can be challenging and difficult at times; so divorce becomes an option. What to do? Pope Francis, in a speech, shared three words to head off divorce—permission, gratitude, and forgiveness. On the topic of permission, the Pope said, "always ask your spouse 'what do you think, what do you think of this?'" rather than running over the other without getting their opinion.

He also stressed the need to be grateful "because it's the spouses who confer the sacrament of marriage, one to the other. And this sacramental relationship is maintained with this sentiment of gratitude of thanks."

The third word he noted is forgiveness which is "a very hard word to say." In marriage, mistakes are always made, he said, noting that the important thing is to know how to recognize one's mistakes and ask for forgiveness.

Permission, thank you, forgiveness—three words to remember to which I would add one more crucifix. It would be good to have one hanging in the bedroom as a reminder that real love demands sacrifice—"Greater love hath no man that this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. (John 15:13)

"So out of the ground the Lord God formed every beast of the field and every bird of the air, and brought them to the man to see what he would call them; and whatever the man called every living creature, that was its name." (Genesis 2:19)

The creation story reminds us of two important points. First, since the start, God has put the entire world into our care. Second, stewardship has been around since the beginning of mankind, it isn't something recently invented by the Church. Just as past generations built our Church, it is now our responsibility to continue to nurture and develop these gifts for future generations.

ENCYCLICAL LETTER HUMANAE VITAE

To Doctors and Nurses<sup>27</sup>

Likewise we hold in the highest esteem those doctors and members of the nursing profession who, in the exercise of their calling, endeavor to fulfill the demands of their Christian vocation before any merely human interest. Let them therefore continue constant in their resolution always to support those lines of action which accord with faith and with right reason. And let them strive to win agreement and support for these policies among their professional colleagues. Moreover, they should regard it as an essential part of their skill to make themselves fully proficient in this difficult field of medical knowledge. For then, when married couples ask for their advice, they may be in a position to give them right counsel and to point them in the proper direction. Married couples have a right to expect this much from them.

To Priests

28. And now, beloved sons, you who are priests, you who in virtue of your sacred office act as counselors and spiritual leaders both of individual men and women and of families—We turn to you filled with great confidence. For it is your principal duty—We are speaking especially to you who teach moral theology—to spell out clearly and completely the Church's teaching on marriage. In the performance of your ministry you must be the first to give an example of that sincere obedience, inward as well as outward, which is due to the magisterium of the Church. For, as you know, the pastors of the Church enjoy a special light of the Holy Spirit in teaching the truth. (39) And this, rather than the arguments they put forward, is why you are bound to such obedience. Nor will it escape you that if men's peace of soul and the unity of the Christian people are to be preserved, then it is of the utmost importance that in moral as well as in dogmatic theology all should obey the magisterium of the Church and should speak as with one voice. Therefore We make Our own the anxious words of the great Apostle Paul and with all Our heart We renew Our appeal to you: "I appeal to you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that all of you agree and that there be no dissensions among you, but that you be united in the same mind and the same judgment." (40)

Christian Compassion

29. Now it is an outstanding manifestation of charity toward souls to omit nothing from the saving doctrine of Christ; but this must always be joined with tolerance and charity, as Christ Himself showed in His conversations and dealings with men. For when He came, not to judge, but to save the world, (41) was He not bitterly severe toward sin, but patient and abounding in mercy toward sinners?

Husbands and wives, therefore, when deeply distressed by reason of the difficulties of their life, must find stamped in the heart and voice of their priest the likeness of the voice and the love of our Redeemer.

So speak with full confidence, beloved sons, convinced that while the Holy Spirit of God is present to the magisterium proclaiming sound doctrine, He also illumines from within the hearts of the faithful and invites their assent. Teach married couples the necessary way of prayer and prepare them to approach more often with great faith the Sacraments of the Eucharist and of Penance. Let them never lose heart because of their weakness.

To Bishops

30. And now as We come to the end of this encyclical letter, We turn Our mind to you, reverently and lovingly, beloved and venerable brothers in the episcopate, with whom We share more closely the care of the spiritual good of the People of God. For We invite all of you, We implore you, to give a lead to your priests who assist you in the sacred ministry, and to the faithful of your dioceses, and to devote yourselves with all zeal and without delay to safeguarding the holiness of marriage, in order to guide married life to its full human and Christian perfection. Consider this mission as one of your most urgent responsibilities at the present time. As you well know, it calls for concerted pastoral action in every field of human diligence, economic, cultural and social. If simultaneous progress is made in these various fields, then the intimate life of parents and children in the family will be rendered not only more tolerable, but easier and more joyful. And life together in human society will be enriched with fraternal charity and made more stable with true peace when God's design which He conceived for the world is faithfully followed.

A Great Work

31. Venerable brothers, beloved sons, all men of good will, great indeed is the work of education, of progress and of charity to which We now summon all of you. And this We do relying on the unshakable teaching of the Church, which teaching Peter's successor together with his brothers in the Catholic episcopate faithfully guards and interprets. And We are convinced that this truly great work will bring blessings both on the world and on the Church. For man cannot attain that true happiness for which he yearns with all the strength of his spirit, unless he keeps the laws which the Most High God has engraved in his very nature. These laws must be wisely and lovingly observed. On this great work, on all of you and especially on married couples, We implore from the God of all holiness and pity an abundance of heavenly grace as a pledge of which We gladly bestow Our apostolic blessing.

Message from Melissa Boyle, Coordinator of Religious Education, Youth Ministry, and Sacrament Prep

A few weeks now, we announced that Fr. Carl will be retiring on July 1, 2022 and St. Jane will pastorate with Our Lady of the Chesapeake. I felt as if there needed to be some clarification.

Becoming a Pastorate means that there will be one Pastor, in our case an associate pastor, and staff. Both the pastor and associate will travel between two places to serve the people in both parishes. There will still be staff at both parishes, but how this will look will be determined as we get closer.

St. Jane Frances is a VERY strong and vibrant parish! I have seen over the past few months growth and new families joining. It is wonderful to see so many people involved willing to help out. Becoming a pastorate DOES NOT mean that either parish is closing. Becoming a pastorate DOES NOT have anything to do with the school closing a couple years ago.

What this does mean is that we get to work with another parish that is doing the same work as we are here. In the background throughout the years we have brought both parishes together from time to time. Now its just official. Personally, I look forward to working with the staff of OLC, it will be a blessing to be able to join together on different events and opportunities.

Fr. Steve will remain in residence at OLC and the new associate will reside at St. Jane. The yet to be named associate and Fr. Steve will be working EQUALLY at both parishes, and not favoring one over the other. This change will also mean that the two deacons, Rick Clemens from OLC and Howard Klohr from St. Jane will serve at both parishes. This process will be a gradual one and one which take place over the coming months.

As Fr. Carl mentioned in his letter, there is a shortage of priests, and as priests retire, there is not enough to fully staff a parish. I can personally remember having 4-5 priests live on campus at St. Jane. Unfortunately, now a days, there are not enough priests in the Archdiocese to have multiple clergy reside in one rectory. We need to pray for more priestly vocations.

I am invested in St. Jane Frances personally, being that I also have grown up here and want the best for this parish and for all of the parishioners. Each one of you are a true blessing!

If parishioners have questions, please do not hesitate to call the parish office. It is better to call and as for clarification then to rely on various social media groups for answers. God Bless you and continue to pray for a smooth transition for both parishes (which I am sure it will be).

Blessings,

Melissa

Sunday ~ October 3rd
1:00 p.m.

We will gather around the statue of St. Francis on the lawn between the church and rectory. In the event of rain, this “Blessing Ceremony” will be canceled. Please make sure your pets are properly restrained. Thank you!

October 5 - Theology on Tap! Join us for dinner, drinks, social time, and "Building their Village." October's Theology on Tap speaker is Kelly Obermayer from Mary's Home, MD, which is a nonprofit seeking to serve pregnant women and children who are at risk or in crisis situations.* Kelly will also bring one of their current mothers and her child for the talk so that we can hear their story! We will, once again, be back at our old stomping grounds - Federal House in Annapolis! Grab some dinner and drinks during our social time at 7:00 p.m., before our speaker at 7:30 p.m. There will be time for Q&A and discussion after.

*This Theology on Tap will hopefully coincide with a day of service with the women and children of Mary's Home later in October.
