"I am the resurrection and the life; whoever believes in me, even if he dies, will live, and everyone who lives and believes in me will never die." - John 11:25-26

Inspiration for the Week

by Rev. Mark Suslenko

We face death every day. Whether it comes with the actual death of someone we love, someone we don't even know, a failed relationship, the loss of a job, a broken dream, or pondering our mortality, death is always around us. What does death say to us? What we believe about our death experiences is going to speak volumes about how we live our lives. Jesus comes to us today just as he did many years ago to people who were struggling with loss and death and wondering what to do. He calls us out of our tombs where we have been closed up in fear and despair and shouts, "Come out!" Jesus leads us out of death and gives us hope. There is always hope. There is always transformation. Although we may not always see where the road of life is taking us or God's presence with us on our journey, we will be brought to a new place and given new life. Walk with God and listen to him call you. Tomorrow there awaits another surprise.

Come Out!

Even though we say that we believe in eternal life, there is a part of us that doesn't. There are many times in our lives when we experience death, whether it be the physical death of someone we love, a failed relationship, the loss of a job, or a broken dream. As we are going through these death experiences, we can easily find ourselves reaching out to God to make it better and fix it! We think that the proper order of life is to maintain the things of this world, especially those essential to my sense of well-being and security. We do not like change. The grieving that comes from our death experiences can keep us stuck and in despair. If we have lost something or someone of great value, life's meaning and essence are lost. We need gentle companions to lift us from despair; that is precisely who God desires to be in our lives.

God calls us out of our tombs where we have been closed up in fear and despair. He shouts, "Come out!" He desperately wants to show us the path to hope and that new life that is possible after loss and death. But our faith can be weak, and we still prefer to cling to the memory of what we had rather than the joyful possibilities of tomorrow. We sometimes live as if God is not real and that the transformative power of his resurrected presence is only a story found in the Bible rather than a narrative unfolding in our lives.

God is the God of surprises, not our demise. God opens new possibilities, begins new chapters, creates new verses, and brings us to new heights! We spend so much time and energy ruminating over what we left behind yesterday that we are far too tired to see what can unfold tomorrow. Loving someone new doesn't negate our past loves. Embracing the love of a person, God, or life itself tomorrow doesn't diminish the love of yesterday. Each of our loves is different, and one cannot be replaced by another. They don't cancel each other out. God has tended to every detail of our lives, and if we listen to those details, we find that they all lead us back to him. Jesus wants us to come out of our closed-up tombs. Are we going to listen or remain in the musty darkness, pretending we didn't hear?

Reflect and Respond to Scripture

First Reading:

God revealed to the prophet Ezekiel his divine plan for the resurrection of the dead: "I (will) open your graves and make you come up out of them, my people!" As a person of faith, how does this promise give you hope?

Second Reading:

Paul insists that for believers, the Spirit dwelling within us gives life to our mortal bodies, raising us from the dead as Christ was raised from the dead. How does this impact your thoughts about death itself?

Gospel:

In her grief and sadness at the death of her brother Lazarus, Martha professes her belief in Jesus as the Messiah, the Son of God. As the season of Lent draws to a close, in what ways have the last 40 days strengthened your faith in Jesus as our Lord and Savior?

This Day in History — April 6, 1931

James Alexander Dewar (Feb. 5, 1897 - June 30, 1985) was a Canadian inventor known for inventing the Twinkie in 1931.

Dewar began his career in 1920 at the Continental Baking Company that later, through a series of mergers and acquisitions, became Hostess Brands. He started as a delivery boy by delivering pastries by horse-drawn cart. Dewar eventually rose up through the ranks to be a plant manager.

In 1931, Dewar's plant was making strawberry shortcakes, but only during strawberry season. Dewar came up with an idea to create a shortcake with cream on the inside instead of strawberries. Having seen a billboard for a shoe company called the "Twinkle Toe Shoe Co.", he was inspired to call his shortcake invention a "Twinkie".

Dewar said he would give his kids and grandchildren Twinkies regularly. Some people said that Dewar had at least 3 twinkies and a glass of milk before he went to bed though that was never confirmed nor denied by Dewar.

Harry, I know that Twinkies are one treat we will NEVER see in our house. Dad would not even eat one if it were stuffed with broccoli!
