From the Pastor's Desk

Being a Good Steward: When a priest becomes a Pastor, he receives a formal letter from the Bishop officially naming him the current Pastor. The wording of the letter has changed slightly over the years, but a big part of the letter still reads as follows: "On the level of temporalities, you have the responsibility of being a good steward, keeping an accurate record of receipts and expenditures, and safeguarding the funds of the parish." While this has a lot to do with the finances of the parish, I also see my duty as Pastor as being a "good steward of the buildings" entrusted to my care as well as the care of our parish family. Here at St. Mary's that means the upkeep and daily maintenance of five (5) buildings. The five of course are the school, the rectory, the parish office building, the parish center and of course our beloved 90 year old church. We are blessed here at St. Mary's with a very talented and dedicated "jack of all trades" custodian named Maciej Borucki. He is constantly fixing and caring for the buildings on this campus both outside and in. As many of you might remember, the sanctuary of the church (the altar area) was renovated and the interior of the church was completely painted back in 2008. This work was financed after a successful Capital Campaign. This weekend, I will be talking at all Masses about the fact that I feel, and the Parish Council agrees with me, that it's time to re-paint the interior of the church. It's been 14 years since it was last painted and if you look up at the walls to the right and left of the sanctuary, you will definitely see the outline of the colored banners that normally hang on the wall. Just so you are aware, we have looked into "simply cleaning the walls," but that's not possible. Over the years the walls have been marred by the heat and age and a fresh coat of paint is needed. I just wanted to make you aware that this was a goal of mine in 2022. Like any house, while our buildings are always in need of upkeep, this "house of worship" will be making plans to paint the interior in the months ahead. Please take the time to look around the church today after Mass and give me your thoughts and comments. I take seriously my role of being a good steward as your Pastor and friend. Thank You for your constant financial support of St. Mary's Church and our other buildings...especially during this ongoing worldwide pandemic. Your constant devotion to St. Mary's and your continual support of our church is amazing. Stay tuned for much more news on this big project in the months ahead.
~ Father C.J.

Jan. 23, 2022

3rd Sunday of Ordinary Time

"What man could not utter nor conceive, and what he could never have dared to desire – that, God in his love has uttered, conceived, and executed. Should we ever have dared suggest to God that he should make his Son die for us, that he should give us his Flesh to eat and his Blood to drink? If all that were true, then man would have been able to imagine things that God could not do. He would have gone further than God in the inventions of love, [and] that is impossible." ### Theology 101: Early Church History- Part 22

Gregory the great was the sixty-fourth pope. Prior to the emperor Constantine, a significant number of popes reigned for very brief periods; it was a dangerous occupation. Gregory, however, became pope when the Christianity was the official religion of the Roman Empire, and when the seat of authority of the empire had moved to Constantinople. Gregory was the great-great-grandson of Pope Felix III, in an era when celibacy was not required of clergy. Gregory himself was very well educated and succeeded his father as prefect of Rome. Under Pope Pelagius he was sent as a delegate to Constantinople to ask the emperor for military aid against the Gothic invasion. This was refused, and he returned to Rome, where he became a monk and later an abbot for a monastery. With the invasion of Goths, he was instrumental in holding off the invasion. The people of Rome acclaimed him pope, and he accepted reluctantly. Gregory by default assumed temporal as well as spiritual authority, since the emperor in Constantinople had his attention directed elsewhere.

Gregory had a significant impact on the Church. He emphasized caring for the poor, and he made that the focus of the diaconate. He himself would not eat unless he had twelve of the poor eating with him. He continued to live a monastic life, refusing any pomp and honor, as had been the case with popes before him. One of his surviving writings has to do with his desire to return to monastic life and his deep revulsion for the intrusion of worldly things on his spiritual life. Nevertheless, Gregory made many contributions to Christianity. He wrote a treatise on morals, based on the book of Job.

Gregory wrote a treatise on the responsibilities of bishops: They should be "physicians of the soul"; their lives should be spiritually oriented; they should teach and admonish those for whom they were responsible; and they should always bear in mind their weakness.

His reign was not peaceful. There was a plague, and later a flood, which devastated Rome. There were enemies of the empire and Gregory spent a lot of effort in trying to bring peace. There were heresies which threatened the unity of the Church, and we have his writings opposing them.

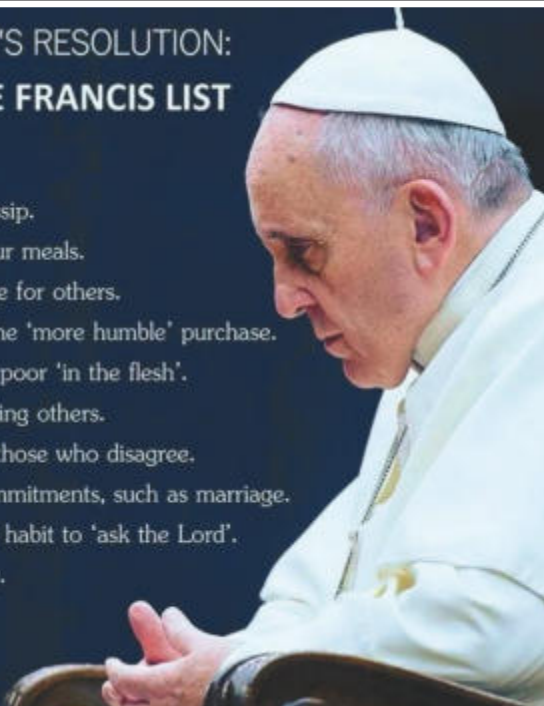

Gregory developed the Church calendar, invented Gregorian chant, devised the calendar of the year which we use to this day, and was responsible for the order of the Mass which is still used today.

Gregory is famous for noticing some slaves in the Roman market who were from England. He asked who they were and was told that they were "Angles". He replied, "Not Angles, but Angels". He arranged for Augustine of Canterbury (not THE Augustine) to go to England as a missionary, and Augustine was responsible for massive conversions. Gregory sent missionaries to other territories outside the Roman Empire and was responsible for the missionary impulse of the Church. Gregory, as far as we can tell from his biographers, was subject to periods of depression. IN his later years he suffered from severe arthritis. When he died, he was immediately acclaimed a saint by the people of Rome. ~ Deacon Donald Higby

Dear Fr. CJ & Friends,

Thank you so much for your recent gift of toys to benefit local children this Christmas season.

Providing our neighbors with the resources needed to break the cycle of poverty truly takes a community, and as such, I am incredibly grateful to have you as part of this community. We could not have reached this milestone—over 35 years of service—without the support of generous individuals like you. Every life we touch—be it through adult education, youth programming, providing food or a warm winter coat—is possible because of your investment in the lives of those in need.

With gratitude,

Our current Diocesan Monthly publication is called The Catholic Mirror. For many years it was known as The Catholic Observer (and it was in newspaper form) but not that long ago it became a monthly magazine and went back to its original name of The Catholic Mirror. When it was The Observer, I remember that it often had a feature called "The Quote of the Week" and I looked for that quote whenever I read the latest news of the Diocese. For a long time now I have been yearning to start a "Quote of the Week" here in our parish bulletin and I think I'll start this weekend. Last weekend I celebrated the Sacrament of Reconciliation (Confession) with a young man. After I had given him absolution and we both made the sign of the cross and he was leaving he said to me, "Wow....I feel different....I feel lighter!" That truly made my day and I said to myself "That's the quote of the week!" How wonderful and how simple a quote as a person leaves the Sacrament of Confession. As we begin a new calendar year, please know that I am available anytime to celebrate God's Divine Mercy in the Sacrament of Reconciliation ...whether it be here in church, at your kitchen table or walking down Longmeadow Street. God Bless, -Fr. C.J.
