To the Parishioners of St. John the Baptist,

While we know that everyone is working through the changes and daily challenges of the COVID-19 virus restrictions, we thank you for continuing your financial support of our parish, even while Mass is not being held.

Please know that we are being mindful of our expenses, but most of the parish bills and financial obligations still have to be paid and your continued support is critical! More than 60% of our regular offertory typically comes from your donations at Mass.

Please mail your offertory donation to the parish, or drop it off at the parish office. Another option would be to sign up for our e-giving option, Faith Direct, as explained below.

We are so thankful for your faithful and generous support of the parish. May God bless you and protect you and your families and continue to strengthen your faithful confidence in God’s providence.

-In Christ, Fr. Humberto Márquez

St. John the Baptist Food Bank News
This week we’re starting a “behind the scenes” look at operations here at the St. John the Baptist Food Bank. We thought that since so many of you have poured out your generosity to continue to support this ministry, you might be interested in learning how some of our day-to-day procedures occur during a typical week. So to kick things off, we’re going to give a brief rundown of what happens Tuesday morning when the Community Food Share truck arrives.

The Community Food Share delivers several pallets worth of food to us each week, donated to the CFS by individuals but also by entities in the food industry, including retailers, grocers, manufacturers, and local farms. On the Wednesday prior to the CFS truck arriving, an order is placed for what will be delivered. The numbers of food boxes needed for the week, available shelf and refrigerator space, special dietary needs, nutritional balance, and so on are all taken into account when making the order.

First thing in the morning each Tuesday, the CFS truck arrives at the Food Bank warehouse. A cadre of volunteers (many of whom have been doing this work since the building opened) set to work off-loading the pallets and unloading and sorting the crates and boxes of food. On an average week, the volunteers will collectively move and sort 6,000-7,000 pounds of food during that morning. A handful of volunteers quickly unload milk and other perishable goods into the refrigerators.

Our “meat specialist” juggles any frozen and refrigerated protein we receive and decides on the week’s allocation. We have “bread and dessert” managers who will look through those products, checking for quality and sorting by size. We have our affectionately termed “produce ladies” who will take the bulk produce we receive (often upwards of 1,000 or more pounds) and sort it into appropriately sized individual sacks for distribution to food boxes. Anyone not involved in these specialized tasks will be unloading dry goods from the pallets and sorting and storing food on the pantry shelves.

We make every attempt to use up refrigerated food and perishable produce in the same week we receive the delivery - in an effort to avoid spoilage. Dry and canned goods can be kept longer, but we still maintain a “first-in-first-out” protocol. So as we get new food in, we date the boxes or cases and rotate older food to be used first. Sometimes we receive canned or boxed goods (or even bags of frozen food) that are not a suitable size for our larger or smaller boxes. Our inventory/allocation manager plans for this and adjusts the weekly allocations appropriately. For example, larger boxes might get larger cans of soup or chili - or maybe extra regular-sized cans. All of this is done to ensure that an adequate amount of food is being delivered to the families who will need it.

Tuesday mornings are a ballet of choreographed chaos. It always looks frantic and wild, but the volunteers know their jobs and get the work done accurately and efficiently - and always with smiles on their faces!

Hope you enjoyed this peek in the SJB Food Bank’s operation. More reveals like this are coming soon. Meanwhile, keep safe and God bless you all!

Adoración Perpetua
Adoración perpetua durante la Cuaresma
Si no se ha comprometido a un tiempo regular de adoración, la Cuaresma es el momento de hacerlo. Tal compromiso cuaresmal no solo fortalecerá la vida espiritual a corto plazo, sino que también continuaria más allá de la Cuaresma para la elevación perpetua del alma en el future.

A los feligreses de San Juan Bautista,
Sí bien sabemos que todos están trabajando a través de los cambios y desafíos diarios de las restricciones del virus COVID-19, le agradecemos por continuar su apoyo financiero a nuestra parroquia; incluso mientras no se celebra misa.
La mayoría de las facturas y obligaciones financieras de la parroquia aún deben pagarse, ¡y su apoyo es crítico! Más del 60% de nuestro ofertorio regular generalmente proviene de sus donaciones en misa.
No dude en enviar por correo su donación ofertoria a la parroquia, o dejarla en las oficinas de la parroquia. Otra opción sería inscribirse en nuestra opción de entrega electrónica Faith Direct (mencionado en la parte de abajo). Estamos muy agradecidos por su fiel y generoso apoyo a su parroquia.
-En Cristo, P. Humberto Márquez

Faith Direct
(Ofertorio Semanal)
Durante la Cuaresma, nos preparamos a través de la oración y la retribución a nuestra parroquia. Pero, con vidas ocupadas y familias activas, a veces se nos pasa una semana. Esta Cuaresma, quiero invitarlos a unirse a mí y a muchos otros en St. John the Baptist para establecer eGiving, recurrente a través de Faith Direct. Gracias a eGiving, su ofertorio seminal será atendido automáticamente, lo que le ahorrará tiempo y dinero a nuestra parroquia al eliminar todos los sobres do ofertorio no utilizados.
¡Comenzar es fácil! Visite faith.direct/CO509. Gracias por su continuo apoyo a nuestra familia parroquial.
