St. John the Baptist Food Bank News

“Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they shall be satisfied.” --Matthew 5:6

This summer the Peach and Pear Fundraiser returns! Though hit hard by the devastating freeze back in April, Norlands Orchards still has enough fruit to offer peaches and pears for sale again this year. As we did last year, we will be offering 20lbs boxes of either peaches or pears. Order forms can be found in the Parish bulletin and at the front desk. Completed order forms and checks should be turned in at the front desk.

Costs are up by one dollar from last year to help cover processing fees for our hoped-for online credit card order forms. This price should still be among the best in town! Check the Parish website and watch your Flocknote for more details about credit card order options.

The fruit orders need to be turned to Norlands Orchards before the end of July so please act fast! The hard deadline will be Monday July 27th. The actual arrival of the peach and pear boxes is still in flux and very dependent on Norlands’ harvest times, but we expect pickup to be available by late August. You will be contacted via email or phone when the actual dates and times for pickup are available. This year we hope to expand available pickup times to include an entire week rather than only a Saturday morning. Specifics to come!

As before, all proceeds from the fruit sales will benefit the St. John the Baptist Food Bank. We here at the Food Bank continue to greatly value and appreciate your continued support and prayers!

-Michael J. Merrell, Coordinator

Fed Up with the Daily Routine of Menial Chores? Do Them With God

Clearing up the kids’ toys, doing the shopping, emptying the dishwasher, fixing meals... Here's how to do them with a smile on your face.

Raising a family is a great vocation. But time spent sorting out practical issues can feel very tedious. All the more so because they can feel never-ending. Preparing baby bottles, finding the other sock, changing the lightbulb, paying the bills... as soon as you get it done, it's time to start all over again. Days of discouragement are guaranteed, but beware of burn-out.

Little strategies to set in place

The first source of discouragement begins when we lose sight of the end-goal of all our activities. What's the use of picking up all the kids’ toys if they're only going to be scattered all over again tomorrow? The second source of discouragement is the feeling of coercion in the face of all these chores: somebody's got to do it, the socks won't sort themselves out. The third source is a feeling of being on your own: "If I don't do it, who will, my 8-month-old?" If you're fed up with the daily grind, there are several possible strategies...

Get organized so you can delegate, or even, if necessary, consider getting outside help if you have the budget for it. Organization isn't everything, however — a family isn't a business. The big difference? You can change a manager without damaging a company where no one is indispensable. Parents, on the other hand, are indispensable.

They know they can’t delegate their parental responsibilities to someone else, hence that gut feeling of being on your own. On that front, discouragement can’t be dealt with by efforts of logistical rationalization. It’s then that we have to recognize our endurance in the face of repetitive and, frankly, boring tasks is above all a question for our inner selves. To find joy in carrying them out, look at yourself through God's eyes.

Everything done for God is done with God

While we may feel ourselves alone, God considers us unique, as someone without whom the world would seem less bright. When our body is tired and weighs us down, He looks at this body with a gaze full of joy and admiration. Just as He said at the Creation, "God looked at it and found it very good" (cf. Gn 1:31). God looks at us as we are, not just people with lofty thoughts and noble intentions, but as physical beings of flesh and blood, who lug laundry baskets and stick Band-Aids on scraped knees. He sees, He observes, He admires. Even when we're changing that drafted light bulb for the umpteenth time.

So, the end goal of all our activities is not so obscure after all. It's just become a bit blurred, because what we do for others is most often done when they're not there. So decide to do it for the Lord: everything done for God is done with Him. Along with St. Paul, let us bless Him for having made us his co-workers. He rejoiced in creating the universe, so we can be sure He loves sorting out the socks out in our company.
"You, however, live not by your natural inclinations, but by the Spirit... we have no obligation to human nature to be dominated by it" (From today's second reading)

In our modern era, there is a tendency to give absolute authority to our natural desires and feelings. The thought goes, "If this feeling that I'm experiencing so strongly is natural, doesn't that mean it must be right?"

Now, if we were hedgehogs, this line of reasoning would be correct; any instinct, urge, or desire a hedgehog feels has equal authority for a hedgehog. If they experience an instinct, that is enough justification for that hedgehog to act on that instinct. Hedgehog instincts are very good at pointing the hedgehog towards how to stay alive and continue existing as a hedgehog.

However, humans are importantly different from hedgehogs, and all other animals for that matter, in two ways: first, we have free will gifted to us by God, which allows us to be rational creatures. It also means our actions have much more meaning than a hedgehog's. Second, we live in a fallen world and are born with original sin, which means we don't always desire good, but in fact, desire sin. Unlike a hedgehog, whose natural inclinations are calibrated to track survival, our natural inclinations are meant to track God and His goodness. Unfortunately, due to original sin, our internal goodness compasses are a little faulty, and thus we often mistake bad things as good, and good things as bad.

Together, these two differences between us and the rest of the animal kingdom mean that we naturally desire sin (we also naturally desire goodness), and we need to reckon with this.

We need to stop thinking that our natural inclinations are a reliable authority for determining what is good, and similarly we need to stop considering ourselves grotesque and debased when we experience a desire for something evil. Our natural desires are merely that, inclinations we experience towards one thing or another; they are not who we are, who we must be, or what we have to define ourselves by. Because we have been given free will, we instead can decide now we will define ourselves. We have the ability to experience a natural inclination, and either assent or dissent to it. We shape the person we are by our rational decisions, and the direction our will strives towards. Humanity is not defined by our base instincts, and thank you God for that, because our natural instincts get it wrong quite often.

Questions for family discussion or prayerful meditation.

1. How do you want to be remembered or defined in your life?
2. When you think about who you are, what is the first thing you think of?
3. The hearts of humanity are built for God, and as St. Augustine says, our hearts are restless until they rest in Him. Where does your heart rest?
4. Do you think your actions are guided more by your thoughts or by your appetites?
A los feligreses de San Juan Bautista,

Si bien sabemos que todos están trabajando a través de los cambios y desafíos diarios de las restricciones del virus COVID-19, le agradecemos por continuar su apoyo financiero a nuestra parroquia; incluso mientras no se celebra misa.

La mayoría de las facturas y obligaciones financieras de la parroquia aún deben pagarse, ¡y su apoyo es crítico! Más del 60% de nuestro ofertorio regular generalmente proviene de sus donaciones en misa.

No dude en enviar por correo su donación ofertoria a la parroquia, o dejarla en las oficinas de la parroquia. Otra opción sería inscribirse en nuestra opción de entrega electrónica Faith Direct (mencionado en la parte de abajo).

Estamos muy agradecidos por su fiel y generoso apoyo a la parroquia. Que Dios te bendiga y te proteja a ti y a tu familia y continue fortaleciendo tu fiel confianza en la providencia de Dios.

-En Cristo,  P. Humberto Márquez
