STEWARDSHIP: A DISCIPLE'S RESPONSE

This weekend, we conclude our annual "Stewardship weekends". This is usually held during the autumn months to serve as a point of call to all of us as stewards and disciples. I was reflecting back to my early priesthood. Shortly after I was ordained, the US Conference of Catholic Bishops wrote a Pastoral Letter entitled, "Stewardship: a Disciple's Response". It served to bring this Biblical and traditional way of Catholic living to the forefront of our American Church and its people. I thought it would be helpful to share some of the thoughts of our Bishops nearly 30 years ago,

One question which was asked was, "What is a Christian steward?" The answer, "In a special way, the Blessed Virgin is the model of Christian discipleship and of the practice of Christian stewardship as it is understood by the Church. A Christian disciple is one who responds to Christ's call, follows Jesus, and shapes his or her life in imitation of Christ's. A Christian steward is one who receives God's gifts gratefully, cherishes and tends them in a responsible and accountable manner, shares them in justice and love with others, and returns them with increase to the Lord." As we can see, the Blessed Virgin Mary is the model of both discipleship and stewardship for us.

Stewardship begins with recognition of God's gifts, as true gift. The opening of one's eyes to how precious a gift life really is--and that is not easy, in view of our tendency to take the gift for granted. " In the classic play "Our Town", Emily says, "Do any human beings ever realize life while they live it!--every, every minute." The Stage Manager replies, "No, the saints and poets, maybe--they do some." We, as individuals baptized into the life of Christ, we are given stewardship of God's creation, This cooperates with Jesus' act of redemption, reconciling all things in himself and making peace by the blood of his cross. Jesus then "hands over the kingdom to His God and Father" (1Cor 15:24). Stewardship is not limited to the gift of creation. It is also a sense of Stewardship of the Church. Stewardship in a church setting means cherishing and fostering the gifts of all, while using one's own gifts to serve the community of faith. All members of the Church have their own roles to play in carrying out its mission. As the document points out, " (1) Parents--who nurture their children in the light of faith, (2) Parishioners, who work in concrete ways to make their parishes true communities of faith and vibrant sources of service to the larger community, and (3) All Catholics, who give generous support--time, money, prayers and personal service according to their circumstances--to parish and diocesan programs and to the universal Church." Christian stewards respond in a particular way to the call to be a disciple. Stewardship has the power to shape and mold our understanding of our lives and the way in which we live. Jesus' disciples and Christian stewards recognize God as the origin of life, giver of freedom, and source of all things. We are grateful for the gifts we have received and are eager to use them to show our love for God and for one another. We look to the life and teaching of Jesus for guidance in living as Christian stewards.

Thirty-Second Sunday in Ordinary Time

Put yourself in Jesus' place here. He's just spoken out against the big shots, how they love to be recognized in public, and get the best seats in restaurants. He even says they "devour the houses of widows," and in the very next scene we see this happen in real time.

Seated in the Temple near the Treasury, Jesus has the perfect view of what people are contributing to the upkeep of the Temple and its ministries to the poor. Can you imagine? Thank God for online giving, huh?

Before we meet her, we need to say a word about widows here. The scholar John Pilch tells us that in Hebrew society, the word for "widow" was "one who keeps silence." Without a husband or sons to speak up for her, the widow---who was excluded from inheriting from her deceased husband---was at the mercy of the religious officials. That was, after all, the very point of the Treasury collections. The money collected was to be disbursed to those in the community who were poor.

But was it? Jesus seems to be lambasting the scribes, whose use of the monies went to their long robes and fancy banquets, while this poor widow fulfilled her tithing observance by giving everything she had.

Is it possible that there may be another layer underneath the story of the shocking generosity of this woman? Another interpretation might suggest that Jesus, while inspired that she gave everything she had, was outraged that the scribes, whose mandate it was to care for the "widow, the fatherless, the stranger in the land" (Ps.146:9), sat comfortably in their seats of honor and let her?

Who are the humble servants who care for those without safety nets in our own world?
