WILL BE YOUR SERVANT

Dear Believers in the Christ,

Mark 10:35-45 is the gospel passage we pray at Eucharist this weekend. This text holds together many opposing realities. In many ways, it is a summary of faith, holding together death and life, suffering and hope, and prayer and service. It begins with James and John coming to Jesus and asking him to fulfill their desires. They want him to place one of them on his right and the other on his left in glory for all eternity.

At first glance, we may affirm James and John's request to Jesus. After all, they had heard Jesus speak of the Kingdom of God. They watched him heal the sick and offer forgiveness to the sinner. They wanted to be in his graces for all eternity. In many ways, I don't blame them for wanting to be at the side of Jesus, benefiting from all his promises for all eternity. If I am honest with myself, I want the same thing. I suspect we all do.

We can feel the hesitancy of Jesus in this text when he hears James and John. We can almost feel him cringe. Jesus knows the kind of suffering it will take to get to the Kingdom. Jesus is asking the two men if they are ready to suffer. They will have to let go of all earthly pride and ambition to be placed at the side of Jesus. There will be numerous forms of dying. They have a long way to go to discover how death will transform them. Drinking from the cup of suffering will bring about death, however, Jesus' death will bring about a new covenant. Jesus is inviting them into a new covenant of heaven and earth. They will have to see for themselves if they are ready to enter such a mystery of dying and rising even in their lives on earth.

The text continues to hold together the authority of Jesus and his call to serve. Jesus tells the men that if they want to truly find a place in heaven with him, then they will have to act differently on earth. He warns them not to hold authority over the heads of others, but to learn how to serve in ways that will truly change people. This service is another form of dying. It is learning how to acknowledge the gift of people, not to put others down, and how to lift people into the richness of God's love. The paradox of authority and service becomes another way in which we all are being led to the place of Jesus' side in heaven. We die to self; we die to false power; we learn then to serve God among the lowly on earth.

In this liturgical year, which ends in November, the gospels lead us to the end of time and what it takes for us to live the message of Jesus' dying and rising that we have proclaimed all year. Easter takes its course in leading us all to the Kingdom. We do not live with a sense of entitlement because we believe. We live instead with a spirit of humble service to welcome the Kingdom in our midst here on earth.

Our rewards are not for us to determine. We leave that to the Father's will. In the meantime, we learn a gentle way of acknowledging the beauty of all life here on earth. We learn how to lift the poor out of despair and how to welcome the lost one into the center of the community.

So, what does your heart desire? For what do you ask Jesus? How is Jesus calling you into a deeper commitment here on earth?

Rather, whoever wishes to be great among you will be your servant; whoever wishes to be first among you will be slave to all. For the Son of Man did not come to be served but to serve and to give his life as a ransom for many.

God give you peace,
Fr. Ron Raab, CSC, Pastor

October is Respect Life Month

During this Year of St. Joseph, each of us can find in him "an intercessor, a support and a guide in times of trouble." Joseph shows us how to say "yes" to life, despite our own fears, frailties, and weaknesses. For it is Joseph who was "chosen by God to guide the beginnings of the history of redemption. He was the true 'miracle' by which God saves the child and his mother." May we, too, be miracles in the lives of those who are most in need, especially at the beginning and end of life.

Dear St. Joseph, you who were "able to turn a problem into a possibility by trusting always in divine providence," help us to imitate your faithful trust and courage as we strive to respect all life from birth to natural death.

Reflection

"For we do not have a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but one who has similarly been tested in every way, yet without sin. So let us confidently approach the throne of grace to receive mercy and to find grace for timely help." (Hebrews 4:15-16)

Our second reading today cuts to the core of the Incarnation. God, the Eternal and Divine Creator of the Universe, became human, and lived on this earth, just like us. Therefore, we can be confident that Jesus understands our human condition, our struggles with sin, our temptations to selfishness.

The strange thing, though, is that we actually imagine that God might not know our struggles without having become human. God somehow had to become human to understand us. But that is hardly a description of an omniscient God. It's really the other way around. The reality is that Christ became human for OUR benefit, so that we ourselves could appreciate how much our God really understands and loves us.

Think of a small toddler watching her father eating a bit of his daughter's vegetables while saying, "yum, yum," in order to convince the suspicious child that she might like this strange new food. The grown-up already knows veggies are good and good for you, but the little girl needs to be convinced.

Jesus came into human form not so that He could understand our humanity, but so that we instead can "confidently approach" Him and know that we are known by our God.

Christ's mission was to save us from our sins. God is trying desperately to convince us that we are loved. And yet we still somehow doubt that love, and question that forgiveness.

Let us with confidence understand that we are indeed God's children, both loved and forgiven. As the gospel of John famously puts it, "For God so loved the world that he gave His only Son, so that everyone who believes in him might not perish but might have eternal life." (John 3:16) Let us embrace the truth of the Incarnation.

Food Pantry Leadership Changes

After a year of service, Food Pantry Coordinator Bill Johnson is stepping down from the role. We sincerely thank Bill for his leadership and dedication in reestablishing the Sacred Heart Food Pantry after it was suspended for almost eight months due to the pandemic.

We are happy to announce that Kate Gioglio will step into the role of Food Pantry Coordinator after Bill leaves. Kate has been working as the Co-Coordinator with Bill for the past year. We feel confident that Kate will do a great job in her new role.

We would like to welcome Kevin Guerrero and Bonnie Boland as the new Food Pantry Co- Coordinators that will work with Kate. Welcome to the team!

Thank you to everyone who attended the Women's Day of Reflection last weekend. We had a full house with 60 participants and a prayerful day led by Sacred Heart Parishioner and author Melissa Nussbaum.

Also, a big THANK YOU to the Women's Retreat Team for organizing the event and to Melissa for presenting!

Women's Day of Reflection Success!
