From the desk of Father John

He said to him, "You shall love the Lord, your God, with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your mind. This is the greatest and the first commandment. The second is like it: You shall love your neighbor as yourself. The whole law and the prophets depend on these two commandments." —Matthew 22: 37-40

This Sunday–the Thirtieth Sunday of Ordinary Time– we have Jesus sharing with the Pharisees and the world at large the two greatest commandments, which the whole law and the prophets depend on. These two commandments present us with the basic message God has shared with the world from the beginning of time. This message of loving God and loving each other is a message that God has presented to us in many ways and forms throughout the history of humanity. It is woven through sacred scriptures; it is present in the sacraments of our faith. Our prayers of faith for two thousand years express a deep conviction in this message.

We find these two greatest commandments in all three of the Synoptic Gospels. In the Gospels of Matthew and Mark the authors point out that it is Jesus who shares the two greatest commandments. That is not the case in the Gospel of Luke. In this account it is a scholar of the Law who provides the two greatest commandments. Also in the Gospel of Luke, we hear the parable of the Good Samaritan, used to explain who our neighbor is. The fact that in the Gospel of Luke it is the Scholar of the Law providing the two greatest commandments, enables us to more fully embrace the fact that the meaning two greatest commandments was present in the world before Jesus Christ came into the world. It is also helpful to understand that with the Gospels of Matthew and Mark, both present Jesus Christ as the one mentioning the two greatest commandments. Jesus is embracing and endorsing them. In fact, in the Gospels of Matthew and Mark, Jesus points out that these two commandments are very important to those who follow God.

As Catholics we can turn to the Hail Mary and the Our Father prayers and find in these two prayers the two greatest commandments hidden within these prayers. "Hail Mary, full of grace, the Lord is with you; blessed are you among women"—in this section of the Hail Mary we are clearly being informed of the close relationship our Blessed Mother has with God, and because of this relationship she is blessed. She loves the Lord her God with all her heart, with all her soul, and with all her mind. It is clear that our Blessed Mother has embraced a loving God. In the next section of the Hail Mary, we see our Blessed Mother caring for humanity, "Holy Mary, Mother of God, pray for us sinners, now and at the hour of our death." This section of the Hail Mary introduces a petition made by those who pray this prayer, and the petition is not just for oneself, but for all sinners. In this final section of the prayer, we clearly see a neighborly concern our Blessed Mother has for humanity, but also a concern for one's neighbor is expressed by the person praying the Hail Mary.

We should now turn to the Our Father and within this prayer we find the two greatest commandments as part of the fabric of the prayer. "Our Father, who art in heaven; hallowed be Thy name; Thy kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." This first part of the Our Father clearly points out who the Father is and through stating that His name is hallowed, that His Kingdom will come, and that what is done in heaven will be done on earth, shows that those who pray this prayer are committed to loving the Heavenly Father. Next as we pray "forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us," we are striving to love our neighbor in the same way that God loves us.

In closing it might be helpful to turn to the Gospel of John 1:1-2 and read, "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. He was in the beginning with God." So, the idea of the two greatest commandments being woven into the very fabric of one's faith in Jesus Christ, is right at the start and at the heart of being a follower of Christ. All we say, do, and pray as Catholics is rooted in the two commandments shared with us in our Gospel this Sunday. In fact, at the end of our Gospel we have Jesus stating, "The whole law and the prophets depend on these two commandments." In this sentence Jesus is pointing out that the two greatest commandments were not waiting to be proclaimed when He came into this world and proclaimed the Good News. The two greatest commandments were already in existence. and the law and the prophets depend on them. So, in closing, Jesus Christ in the final sentence of our Gospel this Sunday informs us that the two greatest commandments existed before the law and the prophets, they are part of what our Triune God has shared with the world from the beginning of time.

Dear Parishioners of IHM Parish:

In our bulletin this weekend we have our Annual Financial Report. I first need to thank Nan Holmes, the Financial Manager, for our Parish. We are blessed to have her managing the finances of our Parish, her dedication and expertise are evident in all that she does. We are also blessed to have a dedicated Finance Council that reviews the Financial Reports on a regular basis and provides invaluable advice to me. The Parish Staff must also be thanked for their careful use of the resources that are provided to them to fulfill their ministry.

The funds that we use to run the Parish and respond to the needs in our community and beyond are provided by you, the members of our Parish. Please know that I the Pastor and the Parish Staff of Immaculate Heart of Mary Parish are aware that you have entrusted us a portion of your resources to use to respond to the needs of our Parish and the Universal Church. I wish to thank you for your generosity and trust. The report in this bulletin shows that we are in a very stable financial position, which is only possible due to your generosity. This year we were able to replace the heating and cooling system in the Religious Education Building, replace some of the windows at the Youth and Religious Education Building, some of the skylights in the Church and Youth Building, updated signs for IHM, St. Joseph Church, and Youth Buildings. These updates were all needed and did cause our expenses this year to be more than our income. In closing I thank you once again for your generosity and know that I keep you and your family in my daily prayers.

In Christ, Fr. John C. Daniel
