REFLECTION: SEVENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY

TIME: Primarily focuses on the call to “love your enemies” as taught by Jesus in the Gospel of Luke, urging us to actively show kindness, bless, and pray for those who may have wronged us, challenging us to extend God’s mercy even to those we perceive as adversaries, thus transforming our hearts and becoming more like Christ through forgiveness and compassion. Jesus’ command to love our enemies is not just about passive acceptance, but actively doing good to those who may have harmed us, even going as far as praying for their well being. By choosing to love our enemies, we are challenged to examine our own hearts and let go of resentment, allowing God’s grace to work within us to cultivate a more merciful attitude. The Gospel reading emphasizes that God's love is boundless, and we are called to mirror this compassion in our interactions with others, even those who might be difficult to love. Consider how you can apply this teaching to your daily life.

Saint Gregory of Narek, Abbot & Doctor of the Church: Feast Day Thursday February 28th, Saint Gregory was declared a Doctor of the Church by Pope Francis in 2015. Saint Gregory wrote a mystical interpretation of the Song of Songs, and a long mystical poem called the Book of Prayer or the Book of Lamentations. This Book of Prayer has been used to treat several diseases including schizophrenia, Hepatitis C, periodic disease, stress symptoms and depression.

FAMILY CONNECTION

It is easy to choose to be with others when they are acting politely and respectfully. But children do not always act this way, especially with other family members. We can probably all recall a family meal in which such behavior was not observed. Yet we probably chose to sit through the meal anyway. We regularly give our children second chances and often third and fourth chances hoping that our generosity will be rewarded. That is how God acts with us. The ethic that Jesus describes seems like an impossible task to give when asked and to do good to those who hate us. Yet family life is filled with opportunities to act generously and to love without measure. This is what we parents try to do every day. Today observe that today's Gospel challenges us to make choices based on God's standard.

SUNDAY GOSPEL REFLECTION

First Reading: 1 Samuel 26:2,7-9,12-13,22-23 David does not kill Saul.

Responsorial Psalm: 103:1-4,8,10,12-13 A song in praise of God's mercy.

Second Reading: 1 Corinthians 15:45-49 As we bear the image of Adam, so we will bear the image of the one from heaven.

Gospel Reading: Luke 6:27-38 Jesus teaches his disciples to be merciful as God is merciful.

Today's gospel reading is a continuation of the teaching that began in last Sunday's gospel. We continue to hear Jesus' Sermon on the Plain. Recall that in Luke's Gospel, this teaching is addressed to Jesus' disciples. This is in contrast to the parallel found in Matthew's Gospel, the Sermon on the Mount, in which Jesus' words are addressed to both the disciple and to the crowds. These words from Jesus' teaching are familiar to us. They constitute the crux and the challenge of what it means to be a disciple: Love your enemies, turn the other cheek, give to those who ask, do unto others, lend without expecting repayment, judge not lest you be judged. There are several similarities between Luke's and Matthew's report of Jesus' great teaching. Both begin with the Beatitudes. Matthew includes nearly all the content that Luke does; the Sermon on the Mount in Matthew's Gospel is longer than Luke's Sermon on the Plain. There are, however, differences in language and nuance. For example, Matthew presents this portion of the teachings of the law and the prophets. This is in keeping with Matthew's concern to address his predominantly Jewish audience. It is likely that Luke omits this contrast because it was unnecessary for the Gentile believers for whom Luke is writing. Another point of contrast between Matthew and Luke's presentation is the terminology. In Luke, Jesus contrasts the behavior of his followers with the behavior of "sinners." In Matthew, Jesus contrasts the behavior desired with the behavior of tax collectors and Gentiles. Matthew concludes the teaching about love of enemies with the admonition to be perfect as God is perfect.
