REFLECTION: TWELFTH SUNDAY OF ORDINARY

TIME: These reading center on the themes of courage, God’s providence, and the call to boldly proclaim the faith. They remind us that while discipleship will face adversity, we are reassured by God’s intimate knowledge and deep care for our lives. In the first reading the prophet Jeremiah experiences severe persecution for speaking God’s truth, yet places his trust in the Lord, recognizing Him as the ultimate champion of the just. In the second reading Paul contrasts the sin of Adam with the abundant grace brought by Jesus Christ, offering hope and redemption. In the Gospel Jesus sends out his disciples, commanding them repeatedly to “do not be afraid”. He reminds them that even the “hairs of your head are all counted” and promises that those who acknowledge Him before others will be acknowledged in heaven. We are called to be a “sign of contradiction” in a world that opposes gospel values. Speaking and living the truth in love requires courage, but comes with the assurance of Christ’s enduring presence.

FAMILY CONNECTION

It is not only individuals who need reassurance about God's love and protection. Communities need this reassurance as well, including the community of the family. Children rely on the confidence of their parents for this assurance. Parents can help the entire family's growth in trust and confidence in God by witnessing ways in which daily family needs are entrusted to God's care. As the family gathers, distribute pieces of paper to each person. Tell them to write or draw ways in which they believe that God's help is needed for each person and for the family as a whole. Each slip of paper can then be collected in a basket. Recall together how well God knows your family and thank God for this wonderful grace. Conclude by praying together for each of the needs identified on the slips of paper. This practice might become a regular family tradition.

SUNDAY GOSPEL REFLECTION

First Reading: Jeremiah 20:10-13 Jeremiah expresses confidence that the Lord will protect him.

Responsorial Psalm: 69:8-10,14,17,33-35 God responds to the prayers of those in need.

Second Reading: Romans 5:12-15 Sin came into the world through one person; so salvation came through one person for many.

Gospel Reading: Matthew 10:26-33 Jesus assures the Twelve that God cares about them.

We read today's Gospel in the context of last week's Gospel in which Jesus sent the twelve disciples to proclaim the kingdom of heaven. In between last week's reading and today's reading, Jesus has predicted that the disciples will face difficulties in their mission. Many people will not receive them well, even within the land of Israel. Even family members will turn away from the disciples because of the disciples' commitment to Jesus and the kingdom. Today's Gospel offers the disciples consolation against this difficult truth. This section of Matthew's Gospel should be read in the context of Matthew's intended audience, a Jewish Christian community. The Gospel alludes to the dangers and persecutions that this community has most likely already faced and will continue to face. To reassure this community, Matthew recalls for them the encouraging words of Jesus that we read today. In this Gospel passage, Jesus might be understood as putting suffering in perspective. The disciples of Jesus are called upon to keep their focus on God. Those who can harm the body do not have ultimate power; God does. Still persecution and suffering can not be avoided or prevented. But Jesus reassures his disciples that God knows and cares about what happens to his children. We might not face the same persecution, but we do experience difficulties as we endeavor to live a Christian life. Sometimes we let the opinions of others prevent us from doing what we know to be right. We need the reminder that what God thinks about us is more important. We are assured by the promise that God cares for us and protects us. Choosing to follow Christ means giving up things in order to gain eternal life.
