Inspiration for the week

It is not easy to confront someone who has wronged or hurt us. But it is absolutely necessary to do so in order for reconciliation to occur. We are taught to mind our own business and keep our thoughts to ourselves. When we have been hurt or wronged and we do not acknowledge and give voice to it, those feelings of hurt remain in our hearts and can eventually turn into anger. Verbalizing our feelings can diffuse them, and communicating how we actually feel brings honesty to our relationships. This is the only way that the path of love can remain open and that integrity and mutual respect can be maintained. It is no wonder that Jesus absolutely insisted upon healthy and compassionate confrontation. People don't always realize that they are doing harm. Bringing this to light is not only good for the one who is hurt but for the one who caused the pain. The new insight and revelation may prevent the action from being repeated again.

hearts.*

A Note From Parishioner Dafri Estes

To all my dear friends at St. Mary's parish,

I cannot begin to tell you how much the overwhelming outpouring of prayer, love, and support has meant to me before and after surgery. There is no way I could ever thank you enough, or let you know how much you all have meant to me.

Thanks to all of your prayers, the craniotomy to repair the aneurysm behind my left eyeball was a success! Now all I have to do is march into recovery so that you can see that your prayers were not in vain.

I look forward to seeing you at Mass!
