HAPPY Father’s DAY
Faith is something that is both taught and experienced. When parents come to me to ask to have their child baptized one of the things we talk about is how baptism is just the beginning of the child’s journey; that by asking to have their child baptized, they accept the responsibility of teaching their child the ways of faith. That is an awesome responsibility.

The Second Vatican Council put it well when they described the home and the family as the domestic church. You can bring your children to Mass, you send them to religious education, you can enroll them in vacation Bible School, and they will learn about God, the Father, Son and Holy Spirit. But to develop faith, they must live it, experience it. And the domestic church, in the home where you live, is the best place to experience faith lived; mothers and fathers presiding over this domestic church by what they say and what they do.

Since its Father’s Day weekend, I want to share something Pope Francis said about fathers a few years ago.

He said, “A father needs to be present in the family, to be close to his wife, to share everything, joy and sorrow, hope and hardship. And he needs to be close to his children as they grow: when they play and when they strive, when they are carefree and when they are distressed, when they are talkative and when they are silent, when they are daring and when they are afraid, when they take a wrong step and when they find their path again; not to be controlling of their lives, but to be there supporting them and letting them grow.”

What a beautiful description of the domestic church and a father’s role as co-presider. Being present in the family through all the ups and downs, joys and sorrows presents endless opportunities to show how faith is lived and how it is a source of strength in difficult times and a reason for thanksgiving in joyful times.

Don’t think you have to put stained glass in the living room windows or pews in the dining room to have a domestic church. Come to Mass; we have those things for you here. But fathers, lead a prayer before you eat a meal together, even if it is at Chick-fil-a; cheer at your daughter’s softball game; encourage good sportsmanship playing video games with your son. Be brave and share stories of your love for your wife and of your faith in your God. Like the blessing we give fathers at the baptism of their children, “You and your wife will be the first teachers of your children in the ways of faith. May you be the best of teachers by what you say and do. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.”

On this Father’s Day, we give thanks to God for our Abbas, our dad’s and grandfathers, stepdads and uncles and brothers, and for single moms who fill the roles of both mom and dad, who bring safety, security, and especially love and faith to us by their actions and examples.

~Deacon Dale Dillion

A father is a man who loves without cost to his children and tries to raise them to be fully human creatures with the abilities to make a difference in our world. Some fathers are successful, some are not. However, almost all try their best. This Father’s Day, let your dad know that you appreciate all his efforts.

Strength—Your strength in helping me to tell right from wrong was a great gift.

Honor—You taught me that to honor myself was a way to honor the God who made me.

Faith—Thanks Dad for having faith in me, when I was not sure I had faith in myself.

Love—You loved me even when I did not love myself. For that I am grateful.

Social Action Summer Institute
Salt Lake City
July 25-28, 2019

The Diocese of Salt Lake Cty is pleased to host the Roundtable Association of Catholic Diocesan Social Action Director’s 2019 Social Action Summer Institute.

What is it?: A four-day program focused on Catholic social teaching, biblical theology, and the spirituality of social justice. This year’s program will center on Catholic teaching and actions addressing homelessness and statelessness.

Why should I attend? Put your faith in action and learn strategies for building Parish Social Ministry, addressing homelessness and related topics from national experts. Enjoy Mass with Bishop Solis and a keynote address from Archbishop John Wester, among many others.

Who is behind this? SASI is planned jointly by the Roundtable Association with national collaborators from the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops, Catholic Relief Services and Catholic Charities USA.

What will it cost me? Locals enjoy reduced rates on daily or full admissions ($75-$35).

Where will it be? University of Utah, July 25-28
