The Dignity of Christian Family

The New Testament says we have been called by divine providence. We are called out of darkness to His marvelous light. We are called unto the Grace of Christ. We are called into fellowship with Jesus Christ. We are called unto holiness. We are called unto peace and unity. We have been called to care for each other.

Christian spirit is lived differently from family to family. We find families where the members are united and care and love for each other. There is laughter, encouragement, forgiveness and they live happily. We also find some families where there is tension and stress. The members do not share time and they are divided. There is suspicion, hatred, anger and misunderstanding. Someone in the family must take the initiative to remain calm and to resolve the conflicts. It is easy to be upset and be impatient with people around us. But it needs Christian charity to remain calm and work for peace in the family. Ask each other in the family life, "How can I make your day better"? If someone is humble enough, many issues can be settled.

Joseph and Mary exhibit what all families should: the loving care and protection for their younger and more vulnerable members. Yet we can be like the Holy Family:

1. Seek the Will of God in prayer and appropriate self-giving (do what you can). There is no magic formula to this mystery called 'life.' Simply said: (a.) "Keep the commandments." (b.) "Pray daily." (c.) "Worship on the Lord's Day." (d.) In ways that are appropriate, meaningful, and discerning, lead other to do the same. (All this according to our ability).
2. Reach out in ways that help make real the sense and presence of family. What are some ways to make this happen? Show affection and friendliness that refreshes the human spirit and make life beautiful and meaningful. Show generosity by sharing earthly goods, such as we can.
3. Develop a healthy sense of self-discipline which allows us to say YES or NO according to the needs of the moment.

What Paul advises for the first Christians would be good advice for how family members should treat one another. "Put on, as God's chosen ones, holy and beloved, heartfelt compassion, kindness, humility, gentleness and patience, bearing with one another; as the Lord has forgiven you, so must you also do." We are a family who are nourished by our God through Word, Sacrament and one another.

Eucharistic Adoration Can Transform Our Church

"The truth is that sitting in silence with the Lord is necessary for a fruitful Catholic life. I want all Catholics to know that we don't need to be afraid to spend time in silence with Jesus — that He's waiting to love us and transform our hearts and lives."

—Bishop James D Conley, Lincoln, Neb.

Walking Through the Mass – The Four Gospels | By Fr. Luke Spannagel

Have you ever wondered why there are four Gospels:

Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John? Why not just one? For nearly 2000 years, theologians, scholars, and saints have been wondering about this “problem.” For some people, differences in the four Gospels regarding details and the order of events can feel like a challenge. Even more, the Gospel according to St. John is very different from the other three. So, what is the deal?

First, the Gospels of Matthew, Mark, and Luke are all very similar. They are called the synoptic Gospels, coming from the word “synopsis,” which means, “at one view.” For the most part, these three Gospels are similar in content, although each contains a few events, miracles, and teachings which are not in the others. In addition, in each of these Gospels, some of the events are related in a different order. Secondly, the Gospel of John is very different in style; one doesn’t need to read more than a few verses to realize it gives us a quite different account of the life of Jesus.

Why Are There Four Gospels?

One of the main reasons for there being four Gospels relates to how they developed. First, Jesus Christ, present on the earth, taught, preached, and worked miracles. After his Death, the Apostles orally proclaimed the Death and Resurrection of Jesus, faithfully recounting his life and words. This oral stage of preaching, as well as catechesis, hymns, and doxologies, became the background for the Gospel writers, called Evangelists. After several years of preaching and meditation, the Gospel writers took the oral sources and earliest body of instruction and wrote it all down in what we know today as the four Gospels.

When the Gospel writers wrote these accounts (under the guidance of the Holy Spirit), they had different audiences and different contexts in mind. This accounts for some of the differences we find in their Gospels. For example, scholars suggest that St. Matthew was writing for a Jewish audience who would know, for example, the Jewish background for rituals and other things Jesus did. Therefore, the Gospel of Matthew doesn’t explain the meaning of these things because he is assuming that his readers would already know them. More importantly, because he was writing for a Jewish audience, it was important to St. Matthew that he show that Jesus was the true Messiah they had been waiting for. St. Luke, on the other hand, was a former Gentile who had converted, and he was writing for a Hellenistic (Greek) audience who would not have understood Jewish rituals and traditions. That is why we find in his Gospel more detailed explanations of ceremonial actions. The Gospel of Mark, the first Gospel to be written, presents a powerful narrative of Jesus’ life and often includes more vivid detail than the others. St. John, writing a little later than the other three, emphasized specific events to inspire and confirm his readers’ faith in Jesus, since he could assume that they would already be familiar with the story of Jesus and his miracles and teachings.

The True Purpose of the Gospels

So, we can see, in writing the Gospels, the writers were not simply recalling the deeds and words of Jesus; they were preaching Jesus, the true Messiah, so that people would really get to know him. The Gospels, in this sense, are kind of like homilies, which are a way to try and help people relate to Jesus and his message of salvation. They are a careful presentation of what Jesus said and did—both an instruction and an invitation to deeper faith.

That we have these four Gospels after 2000 years is really an argument for their Divine Inspiration. Had these documents simply been authored by men, the differences in words, events, and ordering would have been too much to overcome. People would have quickly dismissed Christianity as a religion that could not get its story straight! For us, we can see that God has allowed various accounts with differing details to stand together in the same book of books (the Bible) because they were accepted as inspired by God, even if somewhat different. The early Fathers of the Church let them stand as handed down because they respected the Tradition as received. They respected the received Gospels as sacred and realized that if they tried to “fix them” by rolling them into one narrative, we would be missing out on some special aspect of the life and ministry of Jesus as it was recounted by one or the other of the Gospel writers. They saw the wisdom of God that having four Gospels with four different presentations of Jesus would ensure that all people, no matter what their background or experiences, could listen to or read an account about Jesus Christ that they could understand, that would speak to their hearts, and that would draw them into a life of union with Jesus the Son of God, the true Savior of the world!
