~~Lent~~

Question: Lent always seems to help me renew my relationship with God and strengthen my religious practice. Do you have any suggestions as to what I could do to achieve that the rest of the year?

Answer: The obvious answer may seem to be to do whatever you do during Lent all year round. But part of the power of Lent is that we focus as a community on renewing our faith and preparing for Easter. Our Lenten practices have a purpose and a goal. Therein lies the secret. When we focus our efforts on one virtue, or try to change one bad habit, or seek to deepen our understanding of one aspect of faith, we focus our efforts and give our full attention to what we are trying to accomplish. We tend to be more successful achieving our goals. More importantly, it has a ripple effect in our lives: one thing changes or is added to the spiritual mix of our lives and many aspects are changed. All too often we leave our spiritual growth to chance and the practice of faith to habit, and then wonder why we have no sense of growth or progress. Think of it in terms of exercise. We walk, lift weights, bend and stretch to attain the maximum benefit from what we do. In addition, to keep those benefits, we eat healthful food and get enough vitamins and rest. Spirituality requires the same kind of attention: we pray, fast, read the Bible, receive sacraments, and do charitable work to maximize the benefits of practicing faith. Keeping Lent year round keeps us in spiritual shape! ©LP

VATICAN CORNER

speaking at a Vatican conference on February 18, 2023 about Pastors and the lay faithful working together said that laypeople are not “guests” in the Catholic Church and priests are not the “bosses,” but rather all the baptized belong and share responsibility for its life and mission. To fulfill its mission, the Church must overcome independent ways of acting or parallel tracks that never meet: clergy separated from laity, consecrated persons from clergy and the faithful, the intellectual faith of certain elites separated from the faith of ordinary people, the Vatican government separated from particular churches, bishops from priests, young people from the elderly, spouses and families disengaged from the life of the communities, charismatic movements separated from parishes, and so forth. “The path God is indicating for the Church is precisely that of living more intensely and concretely the path of communion and walking together. Pope Francis said creating silos or divisions in the church is “the most serious temptation” Catholics face today. Francis told the 200 participants from around the world, that “there is still a long way to go for the Church to live as a body, as a true people, united by the one faith in Christ the savior, animated by the same sanctifying Spirit and oriented to the same mission of proclaiming the merciful love of God the Father.” Francis said the aim of the conference and of the whole process of the Synod of Bishops on synodality, is to remind all the baptized that they are called to be missionary disciples and that the only way to be effective is to be united and to recognize and share the gifts and talents of all. He said the need to value the laity should start in the seminary, where those who hope to become priests must have “a daily and normal” experience of working with laypeople so that once they are ordained, communion is a natural expression of belonging to the Church and not some exceptional or occasional project. “It is time for pastors and the laity to walk together, in every area of the Church’s life, in every part of the world. Laypeople and especially women need to be more valued in their human and spiritual skills and gifts for the life of parishes and dioceses.” In addition to “preaching” through the way they live their faith, they should collaborate with priests to strengthen parish life, in everything from helping with religious education to preparing engaged couples for marriage.” “They should also be consulted when preparing new pastoral initiatives at every level – local, national and universal.” “They must be present in the offices of the dioceses. They can help in the spiritual accompaniment of other lay people and also make their contributions in the formation of seminarians and religious.” “I would like all of us to have in our hearts and minds this beautiful vision of the Church: a Church committed to mission and where we unify our forces and walk together to evangelize; a church where what binds us is our being baptized Christians, our belonging to Jesus.”
