VATICAN CORNER

Pope Francis' medical condition remains stable and his respiratory therapy and physiotherapy are continuing in Rome's Gemelli Hospital. The hospital is the largest in Rome, and one of the largest private hospitals in Europe, It serves as a teaching hospital for the medical school of the Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore, and is named for the university founder, the Franciscan friar, physician and psychologist Agostino Gemelli. The hospital provides free medical assistance as part of the Italian national health system as well as having paid private assistance in dedicated hotel-style wards. It is where St. Pope John Paul II received emergency surgery after a failed assassination attempt, and where he returned at various times before his death in 2005. There is a large statue of St. Pope John Paul II in front of the hospital building. Some other well-known former patients of the hospital are Pope Benedict XVI elder brother priest Georg Ratzinger, theoretical physicist Stephen Hawking, and St. Mother Teresa. This is the fourth time Pope Francis has been admitted to the hospital. The Vatican released a photo of Pope Francis in prayer after concelebrating the Eucharist on Sunday March 16, 2025. This is the first photo since his hospitalization. The photo was taken from behind him seated in a wheelchair, wearing an alb and stole after concelebrating Mass. He is looking at the crucifix on the altar of the chapel on the tenth floor of the hospital where he has gone to pray every day since his medical condition has shown slight improvement. The last photo of him was taken over a month ago, and no one other than his doctors treating him and his closest associates have been able to see him. However, Francis' voice has been heard in audio clips during the March 6, Rosary in Saint Peter's Square, where he blessed the faithful and thanked those who have prayed for him. On Sunday March 16, about 200 children from UNICEF and other groups from Italy gathered in the square in front of the hospital with flowers and balloons in order to give a "symbolic embrace" to Francis. They looked up at the windows of the tenth floor of the hospital hoping to get a glimpse of the Pope. In the Sunday Angelus message which he prepared and which was read by another, Pope Francis thanked his medical team and all people who, through their dedicated work, shine the light of God's infinite life in hospitals and places of care. "How much loving care illuminates the rooms, the corridors, the clinics, the places where the humblest services are performed!" Sharing his thoughts for those like himself who are sick and fragile, he said "Our bodies are weak but, even like this, nothing can prevent us from loving, praying, giving ourselves, being for each other, in faith, shining signs of hope." He also shared his gratitude to the many children who are praying for him and his health: "Thank you, dearest children.! The pope loves you and is always waiting to meet you."
