OCTOBER 30, 2022

31ST SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Jesus and Zacchaeus: Gillis van Coninxloo

God Dwells "In Our House"

My Master has said to me as to Zacchaeus: Hurry and come down, for I must stay in your house today. Hurry and come down, but where? Into the innermost depths of my being: after having forsaken self, withdrawn from self, been stripped of self. I must stay in your house. It is my Master who expresses this desire. My Master who wants to dwell in me with the Father and his Spirit of love so that, in the words of the beloved disciple, I may have communion with Them (1 Jn 1:3).

You are no longer guests or strangers, but you already belong to the house of God, says St. Paul (Eph 2:19). This is how I understand belong to the house of God: it is a living in the bosom of the tranquil Trinity, in my interior abyss, in this invincible fortress of holy recollection of which St. John of the Cross speaks.

- ST. ELIZABETH OF THE TRINITY

VIANNEY CENACLE

LIBERAL ARTS EDUCATION IN ACTION

Fifth and second graders participated in a joint project as they assembled handmade flower presses that were provided by a school family. Within both grade levels, they will be using these presses in upcoming botany lessons to press a variety of leaves and flowers.

Lives of the Saints

SAINT MARTIN DE PORRES

Feast Day: November 3

Martin was the son of a freed woman of Panama, probably black but also possibly of indigenous stock, and a Spanish grandee of Lima, Peru, born in 1579. His parents never married each other. Martin inherited the features and dark complexion of his mother. After the birth of a sister, the father abandoned the family. Martin was reared in poverty, locked into a low level of Lima's society, but even as a child, he gave his heart and his goods to the poor and despised.

When he was 12, his mother apprenticed him to a barber-surgeon. Martin learned how to cut hair and also how to draw blood—a standard medical treatment then—care for wounds, and prepare and administer medicines.

After a few years in this medical apostolate, Martin applied to the Dominicans to be a "lay helper," not feeling himself worthy to be a religious brother. After nine years, the example of his prayer and penance, charity and humility, led the community to request him to make full religious profession. Many of his nights were spent in prayer and penitential practices; his days were filled with nursing the sick and caring for the poor. It was particularly impressive that he treated all people regardless of their color, race, or status. He was instrumental in founding an orphanage, took care of slaves brought from Africa, and managed the daily alms of the priory with practicality, as well as generosity. He became the procurator for both priory and city, whether it was a matter of "blankets, shirts, candles, candy, miracles or prayers!" When his priory was in debt, he said, "I am only a poor mulatto. Sell me. I am the property of the order. Sell me."

Side by side with his daily work in the kitchen, laundry, and infirmary, Martin's life reflected God's extraordinary gifts: ecstasies that lifted him into the air, light filling the room where he prayed, bi-location, miraculous knowledge, instantaneous cures, and a remarkable rapport with animals. His charity extended to beasts of the field and even to the vermin of the kitchen. Martin became a formidable fundraiser, obtaining thousands of dollars for dowries for poor girls so that they could marry or enter a convent.

Many of his fellow religious took Martin as their spiritual director, but he continued to call himself a "poor slave." He was a good friend of another Dominican saint of Peru, Rose of Lima. Martin died in 1639 at the age of 59.
