24TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

The Unmerciful Servant: Rembrandt

THE IMPORTANCE—AND POWER—OF FORGIVENESS

Even with his newfound wealth, the forgiven servant says to his fellow servant, “Pay back what you owe.” In doing so he refuses “mercy to another like himself.” However, “the vengeful will suffer the Lord’s vengeance, for he remembers their sins in detail.” The “logic” of mercy is very simple: “Forgive your neighbor’s injustice; then your own sins will be forgiven.” Thus, “none of us” is to “live for oneself”; rather, “we live for the Lord” and by the Lord. The “Lord of both the dead and the living” will endow us with the power to forgive others as he himself does. The desire to forgive others—even when painful wounds remain with us—is already the indication that God’s mercy is present in our hearts. United to Jesus, we dare to “expect healing from the Lord.”

- MAGNIFICAT VOL. 25, NO. 7

The New Parish Directories are here!

LIBERAL ARTS IN ACTION

Artifacts from Roman villas in England have shown that it is likely that Romans kept rabbits as pets. Some theorists even suggest that the Romans brought rabbits to the Celtic people after conquering Britain.

To live in the spirit of the Roman world, the second graders adopted two baby bunnies, Felicity and Perpetua. The students are learning to care for them and will study them throughout the year especially in nature studies.

Lives of the Saints

ST. ANDREW KIM TAE-GON, PAUL CHONG HA-SANG AND COMPANIONS

Feast Day: September 20

Christianity came to Korea during the Japanese invasion in 1592 when some Koreans were baptized, probably by Christian Japanese soldiers. Evangelization was difficult because Korea refused all contact with the outside world except for taking taxes to Beijing annually. On one of these occasions, around 1777, Christian literature obtained from Jesuits in China led educated Korean Christians to study. A home Church began. When a Chinese priest managed to enter secretly a dozen years later, he found 4,000 Catholics, none of whom had ever seen a priest. Seven years later there were 10,000 Catholics.

Saint Andrew Kim Taegon, was the first Korean-born Catholic priest and is the patron saint of Korea. Born of Korea's traditional ruling class, Kim's parents converted to Catholicism which was prohibited heavily in Confucian Korea – his father was subsequently martyred for practicing Christianity. After baptism at age 15, Kim studied at a seminary in the Portuguese colony of Macau. During his seminary years, he also spent time in Bulacan, Philippines, where his statue was erected in the village. He was ordained a priest in Shanghai in 1844, by the French bishop Jean-Joseph-Jean-Baptiste Ferréol. After ordination, he returned to Korea to preach and evangelize.

In those days, the Joseon Dynasty ruled the country and Christianity was suppressed thereby causing many Christians to be persecuted and executed. Catholics had to covertly practice their faith. Kim was one of several thousand Christians who were executed during this time.

In 1846, at the age of 25, he was tortured and beheaded near Seoul on the Han River. Before Bishop Ferréol died from exhaustion in 1853, his final wish was to be buried beside Kim, the young seminarian whom he ordained. He was very much affected by the death of Andrew, the young martyr. He remarked, "You will never know how sad I was to lose this young native priest. I have loved him as a father loved his son. It is a consolation for me to think of his eternal happiness." Besides Andrew and Paul, Pope John Paul II canonized 98 Koreans and three French missionaries who had been martyred between 1839 and 1867, when he visited Korea in 1984. Among them were bishops and priests, but for the most part they were lay persons: 47 women and 45 men.
