Twenty-Second Sunday In Ordinary Time

Praised be Jesus Christ!

For the last several years here at the Cathedral, we have been conscious of trying to follow faithfully the Second Vatican Council's insistence that Gregorian Chant "should be given pride of place in liturgical services." During the year we have an excellent adult choir and we also get to hear, on occasion, our fantastic Diocesan choir. Many are also aware that our Cathedral Youth Schola has become incredibly talented and capable. As the Diocesan Cathedral, I have always said that we have a unique responsibility to teach, uphold, and pass on the Church's treasury of traditional sacred music.

I am so pleased that due to regular singing over the last two and half years, our Cathedral parish and parishioners have become skilled at singing what is arguably one of the most popular Latin Ordinary*: the Missa de Angelis (Mass VIII). Congratulations! We can now sing in unison (music and words) with Catholic parishes and Cathedrals throughout the world and throughout the centuries who know and have sung this common Mass setting.

You may have noticed during the last several weeks that the Santus (Holy, Holy, Holy) and Agnus Dei (Lamb of God) chants at the 9:15 and 11:15 Masses are different. That's because we have been slowly introducing parts of a different Mass Ordinary that is also commonly sung: the Missa Orbis Factor (Mass XI). It is actually one of the Mass settings specifically recommended by the Church for Sundays in Ordinary Time.

For the next several weeks as we finish Ordinary Time, we'll keep hearing these chants and accustom our ears to the different melody. Hopefully after Advent and Christmas when we return to Ordinary Time, we can finish learning this setting. The good thing is that you already know the Latin words from the chants that we have previously sung! And while it can be frustrating, for a time, not yet to be able to sing along with ease, it shouldn't take long to learn these as well. Certainly you can follow along in our hymnal—the musical notation is given in #119 and #120—but also have the confidence that soon you will be able to sing these too from pure memory.

It gives me such joy to see even some of our young children singing along with the chants from the pews. That's how chant is meant to learn and assimilated. Like everything else of the ritual of the Mass, it is more like a culture that is received and picked up spontaneously than something that is imposed through deliberate study.

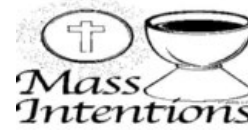

In the hearts of Jesus and Mary,
Fr. Peter Van Lieshout

*The Ordinary of the Mass consists of those parts of the Mass that may be sung and are always the same texts: the Kyrie, the Gloria, the Creed, the Sanctus, and the Agnus Dei. This, in contrast with the Propers of the Mass which change week to week or feast to feast and are proper to that particular Mass (e.g. the Entrance antiphon and the Communion antiphon).

If they are unable to attend Mass, please contact the office to arrange to receive communion.
