CHUCK IN THE TRUNK!

Remember our 2011 SPX Country Fair Flea Market's "Mystery Trunk?" It contained pristine memorabilia from a local man, Charles A. Ritz. No one knew Charles or who left it. It was given to the Rochester Public Library to be studied and exhibited under Christine Ridarsky, RPL Local Historian and interns, Nick Giardano, and Amy Pepe.

The Chili Historical Society has it back in Chili again for a short time! Sunday's July 31, Aug 14, Aug 28 @ 1-3:00pm & Sat Sept 17th @ 9:00-4:00pm at the Historical Streeter's Inn Tavern at 4145 Union St. North Chili. The exhibit is now affectionately called "Chuck in the Trunk." SPX's donation gave the community a window from the past 80 years of living.

Christ Present in the Word

"It is truly Christ who speaks when the holy scriptures are read in the Church," teaches the Church. Since Vatican II, it is normal for a Liturgy of the Word to accompany the celebrations of sacraments. The Church has also strengthened the relationship of Word and Eucharist (made visible in the placing of the Book of the Gospels upon the altar), developing a 3-year cycle of readings to be used for Sunday Mass. The Introduction to the Lectionary for Mass sums it up in this way: "In the hearing of God's word the Church is built up and grows...past works in the history of salvation are presented anew as mysterious realities."

Are you experiencing emotional distress during this (maybe) post-Covid time? During these uncertain times, whatever we can do that makes us feel better is a plus. One way to bring some peace into life is to talk to someone who will listen. Someone who will not judge us, but rather provide empathy, understanding and peace of mind. Need to talk, if even just for a short time with a phone call or in person? Our St. Pius Stephen Ministers are here to lend an ear. We are free and confidential. Give us a try. Contact Bill (585-208-1880) or Emily (585-224-6296).

St. Pius X Pastor's Pastoral Page (on Facebook)

Good Morning World. It is July 23rd, Saturday of the 16th week in ordinary time. July 23rd is the memorial of Saint Bridget of Sweden. The readings for today's mass may be found at uscgb.org.

The first reading is from Jeremiah 7:1-11

"Who do you think you are?" "I can do what I want."

That's what Helen said to her older sister, Maria.

Their parents weren't home. Maria is older by two years. So when Helen started doing some things that she wasn't supposed to do, Maria stepped in and told her sister to stop.

Helen responded to Maria's correction by saying, "Who do you think you are?" That was followed up with, "I can do what I want."

Notice the dynamic that happens.

The focus starts on Helen's bad behavior. But she quickly deflects that focus to a question about Maria's authority. "Who do you think you are?" And then Helen goes back to what she had been doing before. "I can do what I want."

And that's what happens with Israel and Jeremiah.

Israel starts going the wrong way. God sends Jeremiah to help straighten them out. They question Jeremiah - Who is he to tell us what to do? And they plan on going back to their old ways - "We are safe; we can commit all these abominations again."

The society around us questions God - who does God think He is to tell us what to do? And since God hasn't punished us yet, or so they think, they believe that they are safe and can continue their behavior.

World, we can end up with the same pattern of thought in our lives. Who is God to tell me what to do? Since nothing has happened to me yet, I can keep on doing what I do.

Think about it, World.

Who is God? And who do you think you are?

ANNIVERSARY BLESSINGS

Sincere best wishes to the following parishioners who celebrate milestone wedding anniversaries (25, 30, 35, 40, 45, 50 and 50+ years) in the month of August. May the Lord's blessings be upon them as they continue their journey together in faith and love.

Picture Books are the Best!

By: Deanna Halquist

As I write this bulletin article, our Pre-K4 class has finished up a very busy and successful school year! I have begun cleaning and packing up the classroom for the summer break. As I look around, wondering where to start, I notice that I have piles and piles of picture books—on the floor, on my table, on the book shelf. I ask myself if I really need so many books. And the answer is...YES!

One of my most favorite things to do as a preschool teacher is read to the class. I read at least four stories a day—at the end of the morning before the half-day students leave; after lunch/before recess; before rest time; and at the end of the afternoon. I try to present a variety of books in order to expose the students to different authors and styles, but I have to admit that I can't resist silly stories. And the sillier, the better! My favorite stories are ones in which the main characters are animals.

For some reason I'm drawn to stories with ducks--they are the craziest of the farm animals! It's so much fun to read with a different funny voice for each animal, and there's nothing like sitting in front of a group of 25 four- and five-year-olds who are laughing hysterically about a pigeon who wants to drive a bus or a duck who rides a bike!

My hope each year is to instill in our young learners a love of reading and books. It's so rewarding to me to have students say "I love that story!" or "Read it again!" And this past year's class paid me what I consider the highest compliment several times through the year—they spontaneously applauded! I couldn't ask for more than that.

INSPIRATION FOR THE WEEK

Greed is more present and powerful in our lives than we care to admit. We like our “stuff” and are hesitant to part with it. What we convince ourselves that we really need, we really do not. If everything we own is taken away from us tomorrow, life will continue. We will find happiness again. How many relationships are ruined because of inheritance issues? Our possessions cannot come with us when we die. Why do we foolishly think that we cannot live without them here? Wealth and happiness do not have physical origins. True wealth and happiness are gifts of God’s kingdom and matters of heart and soul. We are much more than what we possess, and greed is more real and operative than we think. Let us begin our journey to detachment with an honest admission. We often place more importance on things than on people and God. Ask God to accept our conflicted hearts and give us the courage to do things differently. ©LPi

A MOMENT WITH TODAY’S SCRIPTURES

What makes us feel secure? Many people look to tangible forms of security that will safeguard their livelihood and prepare for their future. We tend to associate security with things: the accumulation of goods and possessions, retirement funds, savings accounts, and substantial incomes. While acquiring these promises a life with less anxiety and worry, we actually find ourselves more preoccupied and consumed with their growth and preservation. We worry more! We can easily become quasi-hoarders, consumed with obtaining more tangible crutches. Our minds and hearts are always restless, and we never seem to be at peace.

Why do we so easily give our self-worth, value, and sense of security over to things? God certainly does not deny us the pursuit of a productive and enjoyable life but where do we draw the line? A sense of well-being and happiness can easily get deferred to sometime “in the future” while we continue to wrestle with the toils of today. There is no guarantee that there will be an earthly tomorrow and all of the frenzy we bring to securing our state in life will be for naught. When we are called from this world, will we even know where to begin to look for the tranquility and repose our souls so desperately need?

We cannot be hoarders, pursuers of vanity, or greedy. They just don’t work as they are too dependent on things that can fall apart. Rather than always feeling the need for more, we need to learn how to be grateful for what we have. By learning to look inward we can learn how to live lives of faithful service to others. “Happiness can only be achieved by looking inward and learning to enjoy whatever life has, and this requires transforming greed into gratitude (St. John Chrysostom).” We all need to be good stewards of what has been entrusted to our care. Grateful hearts recognize the true source of what we have and realize that our true treasure lies not in what matters to us but to God. ©LPi

EVERYDAY STEWARDSHIP

What We Store in the Barn

I once knew a godly woman who had truly tasted the bitterness of this earthly life. This woman knew pain. She knew sacrifice. She knew hard labor and loss, including the death of a cherished child. She worked each day at a low-paying job, waiting patiently for her 65th birthday, when she could retire and devote herself full-time to her grandchildren. She crossed off the dwindling days on her calendar like a first grader waiting for Christmas.

Ninety-eight days before she was set to retire, she died suddenly. Her name was erased from the schedule at work and penciled over with that of her replacement hire.

All things are vanity.

I think we all know someone like this, don't we? If the details aren't exactly the same, the outline of the story is: someone labors "with wisdom and knowledge and skill," in the words of Ecclesiastes. And what profit comes to him? Sorrow and grief all his days. The proverbial barn filled with harvest and left to rot.

But I'll let you in on a secret: this isn't a sad story. I've only told you part of it.

This woman heard, daily, the voice of God, and against it she never hardened her heart, whatever news it brought her. This woman loved as hard as she worked. Every action was a form of evangelization. To talk to her was to feel the embrace of Christ.

As much as she waited for that retirement that never came, it was never the harvest in her barn.

This is what it means to be a true steward: to seek what is above.
