Saint WHO ??

Saint Rosalia Feast Day: September 4

The patron saint of Palermo, Italy, Rosalia was born of nobles. Desiring to give her life to Christ, she found a cave near Binova to serve as a hermitage. After some years, she moved to a more remote spot, on the slopes of Monte Pellegrino. Rosalia died in this cave when she was about thirty, and her remains were covered by lime secretions. Yet the local people remembered her for her holiness and her fame spread through Sicily and southern Italy, where many churches were named in her honor.

Rosalia's bones remained hidden until 1623, when a plague began in Palermo. Rosalia (or to her distraught husband—two different accounts exist) appeared in a vision to a plague victim and pointed out her resting place in the cave. The bones were dug out of the limestone and processed through the plague-stricken town. At once, the plague abated and credit was given to Rosalia. Responding to the demands of the grateful townsfolk, the Flemish painter Anthony van Duck, who was stuck in the quarantined city, painted a series of portraits of the hermitess—one of them on a canvas on which he had already sketched a self-portrait.

Since that time, Rosalia's fame as a protectress in time of epidemic and plague has spread throughout the Church. She is still honored in a yearly festival in Palermo.

Saint Matthew's Parking Lot

The parking lot at Saint Matthew's Church has recently seen some needed repairs. Two depressions were fixed, one near the handicap parking at the side entrance and the other directly in front of the office which caused a massive pooling problem during rain and snow melt. The depressions were saw-cut and filled. Then the entire parking lot was resealed and the parking lines were repainted. The resealing was handled by Superior Seal and Paving at a cost of $11,561.
