Stewardship Reflections

Being able to recognize and admit our short comings is essential for us to have the strength Paul demonstrates. The reason St. Paul finds strength in his limitations is because he is aware that the Lord will provide the power needed in the midst of those deficiencies, "My grace is sufficient for you, for power is made perfect in weakness."

Living discipleship through stewardship, giving of ourselves for one another, living completely for the sake of the Gospel is countercultural. Like Ezekiel, we must trust God's words. The way one can best follow stewardship as a way of life is to remember that we are not alone. Even Jesus himself dealt with opposition.

Humility is an important trait in living a life of stewardship. May we pray for the strength of God's presence and be willing to seek humility to find our personal strengths. May we continue to live our commitment to serve others as Jesus taught when He continued to bring others to his Father through acts of love even in the midst of being rejected.

Confessions: Confessions are Saturdays at noon. In good weather, we will offer drive-by confessions at the main doors of the church. Please enter the church parking lot nearest the cemetery and proceed to the church door. After your confession, please exit by continuing out at the shrine. If you bring someone with you, have them get out of the car, approach Father, and, after their confession, they can wait on the bench at the shrine.

Communion: Communion will be distributed during all Masses. Drive-up Communion will be distributed at 12:15 PM

Getting Through Grief With God

At some point in our lives, we all encounter grief, loss, and heartbreak. For some it may be the death of an aged parent whose long and full life is cause for celebration even in the midst of sadness. For others, it may be the sudden or tragic death of a child or spouse, taken too soon and without warning.. Every loss is significant for the one left facing the gaping void, the empty space where a loved one used to be. Regardless of the circumstances or context or season of life, we all grieve in the face of death, even if we don't show it outwardly. We need to grieve, and the best way to do that is through our reliance on God and with the support of those people closest to us. Part of the reason grief is such a difficult path to walk today is because our society doesn't handle death well. Unlike other cultures or even our own culture centuries ago, death and grief have been whitewashed. We want to pretend death doesn't exist, and push down grief when it rears its head. But that's unhealthy. The truth is that grief is natural and necessary and an integral part of healing and wholeness, and it's not something you "get over" in the three days allotted for a wake and funeral. It is a long, slow process, one that can bring unexpected graces if we are willing to open ourselves up to the possibility that God is at work in our lives, even -or may especially- in our suffering and sorrow. Although it can be difficult to recognize that reality when we are in the throes of immediate grief, that's where our faith comes in. The beliefs we have professed -in eternal life, in heaven, in salvation through Jesus Christ- will shore us up until we are able to steady ourselves emotionally and spiritually, and even after we do, our faith can provide a foundation of hope as we attempt to move forward.
