Weekly Reflections

LIVE THE LITURGY
Inspiration for the Week

The cornerstone is the first stone that is laid and the stone that not only determines how the other stones are placed but the position of the entire structure. As human beings, we need a cornerstone or reference point so that our lives can be properly placed and positioned. Our cornerstone determines not only how we see ourselves but who we will become. Without a cornerstone or reference point, we will be disconnected, disoriented, and poorly positioned for effective action in our world. In order to be the children of God we are, Jesus Christ needs to be our cornerstone and the reference point for all that we do. He alone is the Good Shepherd who can guide through life's questions and challenges, bringing us to proper pasture. Without this proper base, we can easily fall into the trap of self-aggrandizement and quickly lose our way. If that happens, then moral principles, proper conduct, justice, wisdom, and virtue will be difficult to find. We need to listen to the right voices and allow God to show us how to build our house well. Salvation only comes from God and only God will protect us, no matter the cost.

PASTOR'S PAGE

Today is Good Shepherd Sunday. But our culture, that takes us so far away from sheep, makes it difficult for us to appreciate the symbolism of Christ the Good Shepherd. Should we use the term: the "Good Farmer" who loves his land and the crops? But that term doesn´t carry the tonality of each one seeking out and caring for the other. Or should we use the term: "Good CEO", but neither is that the same as a shepherd and sheep, as, after work hours, the relation terminates and his motivation may be financial and gain not the wellbeing of the workers. Or, should we use the term: "Good parent"? That is much closer to the good shepherd meaning, in that it is a relationship in which the parent seeks the wellbeing of the child and the child seeks the parent. Good parents don´t work with their children for pay, but rather for the wellbeing of the children. They do everything they can to care for their children. Though they hope it never would be necessary, they would sacrifice their own lives to save their children.

Christ, God incarnate, is like those good parents and even goes beyond the giving of the good parents, because he, not only lays down his life for us but also, in addition, takes it up again in the Resurrection and gives us a share in his new life. "I am the Good Shepherd…..I will lay down my life for my sheep…I have power to take it up again" (Jn 10,11-18).

The apostles Peter and John, of the first reading of today, became good shepherds, timidly at first for fear of losing their lives at the hands of the "Leaders of the people and the elders" (Acts 4,8), but then bravely, risking their lives and even celebrating when they suffered for the wellbeing of others as Jesus did. Through them, Jesus worked the miracle of giving health to the crippled man. And they are good in recognizing that it is, not their power but rather, the power of Jesus working in and through them. "If we (Peter and John) are being examined today about a good deed done to a cripple, namely , by what means he was saved, then all of you and all the people of Israel should know, it was in the name of Jesus Christ" (Acts 4,9-10)

The 2nd reading reinforces that his life of resurrection is not only for him, but also for us as St. John tells us "we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is" (1Jn. 3,1-2).

Today the church needs Priests, Brothers and Sisters who, as Peter and John were asked by Jesus to leave all and follow him in the ministry, are willing to dedicate themselves completely to guiding humanity with the teachings of Christ, feeding them with the Body of Christ and reconciling those who have gone wrong. While all are called to imitate Jesus as the Good Shepard, priests and religious are not "hired help". But rather, they give their whole lives to the Church, walking closely with all Catholics in the joys and trials of life. Those who are called to be shepherds must themselves learn to hear the voice of the Good Shepherd.

Almighty Father, make our archdioceses, parishes, homes and hearts fruitful ground for your gift of vocations. May our young people respond to your call with courage and zeal.

Fr. Santiago Gaynor

We need help in lots of different areas. If you're not interested in working with the youth one-on-one, there are options to help with food and coordinating the background pieces. We also need evangelists willing to get to know our youth and guide them in our faith. You don't need to be an expert, but come with a willing and open heart!
