COINS ON A MILITARY GRAVE

A coin on the headstone is a message to the deceased veterans' family that someone has visited their grave and paid their respects. Each type of coin on the top of the headstone for the veteran has its own meaning.

A penny left on the top of the headstone means that the grave site was visited. A nickel indicates that the person visiting the site trained at boot camp with the deceased veteran, while a dime means the person served with them in some capacity. A quarter left at the grave means that the person who left the coin was with the veteran when they were killed.

In recent times coins are used to indicate that someone has visited the grave site and wanted to let them know that they are not forgotten and are still cared for.

The money placed in national and state veterans' cemeteries is collected and put towards future burial costs and cemetery maintenance.
