FROM FATHER POGGEMEYER

Dear Parishioners,

+JMJ

What happens in the Mass? Jesus, the Word of God, reaches out to give life to us, to inspire us – we who are part of His Body, the Church. He does this first, and most prominently, in the Eucharist. Jesus is the Word Incarnate, and the Eucharist is Jesus! We receive his Precious Body and Blood, and we are transformed by divine grace. This, of course, assumes we are open to receiving Him more deeply at each Mass, and that we are determined to love Him and live for Him. Our hearts have to desire life in Him. We have to avail ourselves of the grace present in the Eucharist.

Secondly, Jesus, the Word of God, comes to us through the Scriptures being read in Mass. All of Scripture is written to reveal Him to us. Preaching in the Mass is meant to help people open themselves up to Jesus, both in the Scriptures and in the Eucharist. My concern in preaching is not so much that people hear me, as it is that people encounter Jesus. It has happened on occasion that a person greets me after Mass and tells me something and mentions something he or she got out of the homily; and I realize that I was not in the slightest intending to get “that message” across to the person. I trust that the Holy Spirit is doing his work in the heart of each person at Mass, and communicating to that heart what He desires by means of the homily. God is reaching out to the mind and heart of each believer at Mass.

Here is a great quote from Thomas à Kempis in his famous work, The Imitation of Christ (book 4, chapter 11):

Two things are needful for me in this life, and without these two I cannot continue to live: God's word is light, and his sacrament living bread for my soul. We can also say that they are two tables set out in the room of God's Church. One is the table of the holy altar; on it lies the sacred bread, the precious body of Jesus Christ. The other is the table of the holy Law; on it lies the sacred doctrine which instructs us into the true faith, and reaches, behind the veil, into the inmost holy of holies.

In this new year that is upon us, may we enter all the more deeply into the mystery of the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. It is the deepest Mystery on earth. And may we help those closest to us to appreciate the Mass more fully. The Eucharist is the Source and Summit of our life.

Have a blessed week!

In cordibus Iesu et Mariae et Iosephus,
Father Poggemeyer

CATECHISM CORNER

The fidelity of the baptized is a primordial condition for the proclamation of the Gospel and for the Church's mission in the world. In order that the message of salvation can show the power of its truth and radiance before men, it must be authenticated by the witness of the life of Christians. "The witness of a Christian life and good works done in a supernatural spirit have great power to draw men to the faith and to God." (CCC 2044)

MUSIC & LITURGY

The Evangelary and Symbols of the Evangelists

Beginning on Christmas, hopefully you noticed a difference with the Evangelary (Book of the Gospels) as Dcns. Paul or Dave carried it in procession. A parishioner donated funds to purchase a beautiful leather and brass cover. The stamped gold foil on the cover of the Evangelary has worn off and the parishioner offered to buy a new copy. With the rest of the book in good condition, Fr. P and I suggested purchasing a cover instead. Make sure to stop by the Gospel book stand in the gathering space and look at it in person! Amidst Baroque filigree, the cover features the four symbols of the evangelists. Did you know about the symbols of the Gospel writers? I never knew of them until Dcn. John Kromer mentioned Mark's symbol in a homily about six or seven years ago. The four evangelists are noted by the following symbols:

Matthew: a divine man/angel      Mark: a winged lion
 Luke: a winged ox                      John: a rising eagle

In addition to the cover of the Evangelary, you can see these symbols on the stained glass windows in the church by each of the Gospel writers.

Where do these symbols come from and what do they mean? The Biblical references to these four creatures comes from Ezekiel 1:1-21 and also Revelation 4:6-8. Saint Irenaeus (140-202), in his treatise Adversus Haereses (Against Heresies) applied one to each of the evangelists based on the content of his gospel and particular focus on Christ.

Matthew—Divine Man/Angel: Matthew begins with the lineage of Jesus all the way back to Abraham and then moves to his Incarnation and birth. Irenaeus says, "This is the Gospel of His humanity; for which reason it is, too, that the character of a humble and meek man is kept up through the whole Gospel."

Mark—Winged Lion: Lions are symbols of courage and royalty. Mark's Gospel begins "The gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God" (1:1) and then quotes Isaiah: "A voice of one crying out in the desert..." (1:3). The voice is reminiscent of a lion's roar and the prophet's spirit "wings" down from heaven.

Luke—Winged Ox: The ox represents Jesus's priesthood and sacrifice. Oxen were sacrificed as the Ark of the Covenant was brought into Jerusalem. They were also used in temple sacrifices. The gospel opens with the Gabriel announcing John the Baptist's coming birth while was Zechariah offering sacrifice in the temple. Christ was born among oxen in the stable. Luke also includes the story of the prodigal son and slaughtering of the fattened calf to celebrate the son's return and father's mercy.

John—Rising Eagle: John begins with his lofty prologue on the Logos (Word) and continues to rise into the deep mysteries of God. He explains the relationship between the Father and Son and the Son's incarnation. John's Gospel is a case for Christ's divinity. Some of Jesus's most profound teachings are found in John's Gospel: the discourse with Nicodemus, the encounter with Samaritan woman, the Bread of Life discourse, the raising of Lazarus, the Good Shepherd, and his high priestly prayer after the Last Supper. Jesus says he is "the way, the truth, and the life" (John 14:6) and all who believe and follow will rise like the eagle to everlasting life with him.
