Prayer for Protection

O Mary, you always shine on our path as a sign of salvation and hope. We entrust ourselves to you, Health of the Sick, who at the cross took part in Jesus' pain, keeping your faith firm. You, Salvation of the American People, and all people, know what we need, and we are sure you will provide so that, as in Cana of Galilee, we may return to joy and to feasting after this time of trial. Help us, Mother of Divine Love, to conform to the will of the Father and to do as we are told by Jesus, who has taken upon himself our sufferings and carried our sorrows to lead us, through the cross, to the joy of the resurrection. Amen. Under your protection, we seek refuge, Holy Mother of God. Do not disdain the entreaties of we who are in trial, but deliver us from every danger, O glorious and blessed Virgin. Hail Mary (x3) Adopted from Pope Francis

Act of Spiritual Communion

My Jesus, I believe that You are present in the Most Holy Sacrament. I love You above all things, and I desire to receive You into my soul. Since I cannot at this moment receive You sacramentally, come at least spiritually into my heart. I embrace You as if You were already there and unite myself wholly to You. Never permit me to be separated from you. Amen.

Rosary of Reparation

LITURGICAL NOTES

Entrance: Rejoice, O Jerusalem; and gather round, all you who love her; rejoice in gladness, after having been in sorrow; exult and be replenished with the consolation flowing from her motherly bosom.

Offertory: Praise the Lord, for he is loving; sing in honor of his name, for he is gracious. He has accomplished whatever he resolved to do in heaven and on earth.

Communion: My son, you should rejoice; for your brother who was dead has come back to life; he was lost and he has been found. The Church preaches a perennially beautiful message this Sunday. The Entrance Antiphon, for which this particular is named, calls on us to rejoice ("laetare"). Flowers bedeck the altar, the organ can be heard, and rose vestments are donned, all signs of joy. Our cause of rejoicing is that God has restored what was broken and found what was lost. Israel rejoiced because Jerusalem had been restored to them after the Babylonian exile. In these latter days, we rejoice in humanity's restoration to friendship with God through the ministration of the New Jerusalem, the Catholic Church. The Offertory Antiphon therefore exhorts us to praise God for his love and goodness for "He has accomplished whatever he resolved to do in heaven and on earth." It is important to realize the underlying message in this antiphon. God has "resolved" to reconcile us; it is His active will to draw us to (the New) Jerusalem and cleanse us, replenishing our souls. Chastisements fall under His passive will, i.e., He does not will evil on us but permits us to undergo purification through suffering that we might repent of our sins, grow in faithfulness to Him, and learn to seek His assistance in all things. Let us cry out to the Lord with St. John Paul II, "Totus tuus!" I am all yours!

FROM THE PASTOR

THE JOURNEY OF RENEWAL—LENT 2022

Part III

Very Rev. Joseph Mary Lukyamuzi, V.F.

“Create in me a pure heart, O God, and renew a steadfast spirit within me.” Psalm 51:10

This season of Lent is as much about repentance as it is about renewal. In fact, maybe Lent is more about light than darkness, about lightening our load and reprioritizing our lives. Lent is about being real; and perhaps, that is exactly where we need to be. The seasons are changing; the days are getting longer. Light is returning. In the midst of painful revelations in the church and ongoing scandal in the world, Lent invites us into a time of discovery and recovery. This is a time for renewal of faith.

These forty days of wandering, of being proved, of finding strength, and of boosting faith are exactly what we need right now. From ashes and fasting to almsgiving and prayer, the spiritual deepening and awareness offered by this Lenten season invite us to a place of renewal, a place that, if we are honest, it would not hurt to spend some time in, individually and collectively. “Remember that you are dust and to dust you shall return.” Do such words ring true in your memory and help you become more focused on what is important? Yes, we are dust. We were born, and we will die. The life we live in between these two moments is God's gift to us. Recognizing our humble beginnings and our mortality is part of embracing the Lenten call to renewal.

When we remember that we are beloved creations of God, we can embrace ourselves, others, and all of creation with the wonder that befits such a divine design. The same dust we are made of makes up the ones we look down upon, those we judge, and those who frustrate us, as well as those who bring us joy. We are united in our creation. Seeing the world this way, how could we ever tolerate or turn a blind eye to injustice? You are dust and I am dust, and we are dust together. From such dust can come new life. The seeds of faith are planted in the dust of our humanity. Lent invites us to acknowledge our humanity, where we have fallen short and how reliant we are on God. When we can do this, faith has space to grow and blossom. By honestly embracing our humanity and using the days of Lent to recommit to following Christ, we are renewed, becoming ever more mindful of how God is working in our lives and calling us to repent and live lives that reflect a belief in the Good News.

Full engagement in the renewal Lent calls forth is about examining and recommitting to the practices that ground our faith and remind us of who we are and who we were called to be. Traditionally, this has led people to focus on prayer, fasting and almsgiving in an intentional way during Lent. Most often this entails giving something up or taking on a practice. This year, though, I wonder if we might not be better served by considering how these practices not only can focus us but can transform us if we delve into the truths that underpin them.

Our prayer, for instance, is an opportunity to grow closer to God; we might choose to prayerfully consider our shortcomings, look at our role in racial inequality, or share with God the wounds of our hearts. Wherever our prayer leads us and whatever we reflect on, we must remember the essential aim of our prayer: our relationship with God, incarnate in Jesus Christ. This is the God we journey with this season, the one who suffers with us, and ultimately the one who we long to know more deeply as we travel on the way towards the cross.

Bending our every effort through practices such as fasting, we recognize our dependence on God. By going without something, we discover the truth of where/who our strength comes from. We also come to stand in solidarity with our brothers and sisters who have no choice but to live simply. Our fasting is voluntary, theirs is not. By recognizing that, we are renewed in our sense of mission to be one with all people and to work so all are provided for. This renewed sense of unity and call to action is reflected in the giving called forth in us during Lent. We give freely and fully, modeling our sharing and sacrifice on Jesus' own. Doing this intentionally during Lent strengthens our relationship with God and neighbor far beyond this one season. To be continued...
