Prayer for Protection

O Mary, you always shine on our path as a sign of salvation and hope. We entrust ourselves to you, Health of the Sick, who at the cross took part in Jesus' pain, keeping your faith firm. You, Salvation of the American People, and all people, know what we need, and we are sure you will provide so that, as in Cana of Galilee, we may return to joy and to feasting after this time of trial. Help us, Mother of Divine Love, to conform to the will of the Father and to do as we are told by Jesus, who has taken upon himself our sufferings and carried our sorrows to lead us, through the cross, to the joy of the resurrection. Amen. Under your protection, we seek refuge, Holy Mother of God. Do not disdain the entreaties of we who are in trial, but deliver us from every danger, O glorious and blessed Virgin. Hail Mary (3x) Adopted from Pope Francis.

Act of Spiritual Communion

My Jesus, I believe that You are present in the Most Holy Sacrament. I love You above all things, and I desire to receive You into my soul. Since I cannot at this moment receive You sacramentally, come at least spiritually into my heart. I embrace You as if You were already there and unite myself wholly to You. Never permit me to be separated from you. Amen

LITURGICAL NOTES

We looked at the Gradual and Alleluia chants last week, highlighting their melismatic style (having many notes on the same syllable) as iconic of their role in the liturgy. Melismas draw attention to important words and also slow the pace of their delivery in general, calling us to meditate prayerfully on the text. The Gradual chant in particular does this beautifully, suspending time and dwelling with the Word. The Alleluia chant uses a specialized melisma called a "jubilus" in which the final, unaccented syllable of the word "Allelu-ia" is lengthened as a form of ornamentation and musical ecstasy. This encapsulates the joy of receiving the Good News and is a call to spiritual readiness to be formed at the feet of the Master, Our Lord Jesus Christ. Our final Proper is the Offertory chant. Like the Gradual and Alleluia, it is generally melismatic, though less so than the aforementioned chants. Offertories are the most thematically diverse of the chants, exhorting to praise, repentance, or petition, or reinforcing a theme of the season, or giving voice even to Our Lord (e.g. Good Friday: "My heart awaited reproach and misery; and I hoped for one that would grieve together with me, but there was none..."). The plethora of Scriptural material covered serves a meditational function that accompanies the preparations of the priest at the altar. The specific form of the Offertory chant is called a responsory. The "refrain" is sung without interruption, and then melismatic verses follow with partial returns to the refrain. This form allows the chant to provide material for meditation but also to end it quickly as needed. Incense in the Medieval liturgy was plentiful and those doing the incensing would often bless every cleric in the sanctuary, so the offertory got lengthy. Speaking of lengthy, I will defer the synthesis to next week and a brief mention of an additional Proper that is particular to Lent. To be continued! Daniel Kirkland, Director of Liturgy and Music

FROM THE PASTOR

ETERNAL REST GRANT UNTO THEM, O LORD, AND LET PERPETUAL LIGHT SHINE UPON THEM

Part III

Very Rev. Joseph Mary Lukyamuzi, V.F.

“May Christ, who called you, take you to himself;
may angels lead you to the bosom of Abraham.”

We have a long Catholic tradition of praying for the dead. This is regarded as such a vital obligation that every time we go to Mass we pray for the deceased during the Eucharistic prayer. As early as the ninth century, monasteries began to set aside a day to pray for their departed members. It was about this time that, Nov. 2 became the day we think of as All Souls' Day. Today many churches use the month of November as a time to enter the names of deceased loved ones into a “book of remembrance” to be prayed for.

As Catholics we believe that “all who die in God's grace and friendship, but still imperfectly purified, are indeed assured of their eternal salvation...after death they undergo purification, so as to achieve the holiness necessary to enter the joy of heaven” (CCC, 1030). If you believe in the power of prayer and that prayers of the living are a help to them, why should you not pray for the dead? Life is one, for as St. Luke says: “He is not the God of the dead but of the living” (20:38). Death is not the end but a stage in the destiny of man, and this destiny is not set at the moment of death. The love which our prayer expresses cannot be in vain; if love had power on earth but no power after death it would tragically contradict the word of Scripture that love is as strong as death (Song 8:6) and the experience of the Church that love is more powerful than death since Christ has defeated death in his love for mankind. We read in the Old Testament that “Judas Maccabeus made atonement for the dead, that they might be delivered from their sin” (2 Macc. 12:46). In the New Testament, we learn of Saint Paul offering petitions for a man who has died (Onesiphrous): “May the Lord grant him to find mercy” (2 Tim. 1:18).

Perhaps one of the most moving stories of praying for the dead is found in the Martyrdom of Perpetua, written in 203 AD. Saint Perpetua, imprisoned for her faith, describes a vision of her brother: “I beheld Dinocrates coming forth from a dark place, where were many others also; being both hot and thirsty, his raiment foul, his color pale; and the wound on his face which he had when he died...and in the same place where Dinocrates was, a font full of water, having its edge higher than the boy's stature...Dinocrates stretched up as though to drink... yet for the height of the edge he might not.” Shocked by this tragic scene, Saint Perpetua awakes and begins to pray for her brother, “day and night with groans and tears,” until she is shown another vision. “I saw the place which I had before seen, and Dinocrates clean of body, finely clothed, in comfort; and the font I had seen before, the edge of it being drawn to the boy's navel; and he drew water...And being satisfied he departed away from the water and began to play as children will, joyfully.” Not surprisingly, Saint Perpetua, who has been honored by the Church since her martyrdom, had a profound impact on the early Church fathers, the desert mystics and those who sought to clarify the Church's teaching on praying for the dead.

Why do we place such an emphasis on prayer for the dead? Part of this stems from the beautiful communion we feel with them. By praying for them, we are able to feel their presence in Jesus' mystical body, which is his church. Another reason we pray for the dead is because of our long Catholic tradition of purgatory. We need to get them out of there! So let us pray for them...
