Prayer for Protection

O Mary, you always shine on our path as a sign of salvation and hope. We entrust ourselves to you, Health of the Sick, who at the cross took part in Jesus' pain, keeping your faith firm. You, Salvation of the American People, and all people, know what we need, and we are sure you will provide so that, as in Cana of Galilee, we may return to joy and to feasting after this time of trial. Help us, Mother of Divine Love, to conform to the will of the Father and to do as we are told by Jesus, who has taken upon himself our sufferings and carried our sorrows to lead us, through the cross, to the joy of the resurrection. Amen. Under your protection, we seek refuge, Holy Mother of God. Do not disdain the entreaties of we who are in trial, but deliver us from every danger, O glorious and blessed Virgin. Hail Mary (3x) Adopted from Pope Francis.

Help us, Mother of Divine Love, to conform to the will of the Father and to do as we are told by Jesus, who has taken upon himself our sufferings and carried our sorrows to lead us, through the cross, to the joy of the resurrection. Amen. Under your protection, we seek refuge, Holy Mother of God. Do not disdain the entreaties of we who are in trial, but deliver us from every danger, O glorious and blessed Virgin. Hail Mary (3x) Adopted from Pope Francis.

Act of Spiritual Communion

My Jesus, I believe that You are present in the Most Holy Sacrament. I love You above all things, and I desire to receive You into my soul. Since I cannot at this moment receive You sacramentally, come at least spiritually into my heart. I embrace You as if You were already there and unite myself wholly to You. Never permit me to be separated from you. Amen

LITURGICAL NOTES

Entrance Antiphon: The Lamb who has been slain is worthy to receive power, and divinity, and wisdom, and strength, and honor; let glory and dominion be his for ever and ever.

Christ the King is a splendid follow-up to our miniseries on liturgical music. The feast itself is quite new, having been established in the early twentieth century in response to Communism and atheistic government rule. Originally it celebrated the social kingship of Christ, i.e., He has rightful dominion over our governments and society, which means that they must all be subject to Christian principles. After the Vatican Council, the feast was moved from October to the end of the liturgical year, now focusing on Christ's eschatological kingship, i.e. His dominion over all creation. The former feast reminds us that the liturgy and its music are a living tradition that undergo gradual additions and alterations and are not static per se. The latter feast brings highlights what we see already in the Entrance Antiphon (Introit); the reign of Christ as depicted in this scripture is in the context of a heavenly liturgy. The book of Revelation offers us insight into that which the Mass is a foretaste of. There is incense, singing, worshipping, acclamation – all in the presence of the Thrice Holy Trinity. Revelation reminds us here on earth that the public worship of the Church ought to participate in the solemnity, majesty, and awe of heavenly worship. God is not a fuzzy concept that is nice to think about to make us feel good about ourselves; He is the Lord of creation, the maker of all things visible and invisible out of NOTHING. He wants us our love, but we also owe Him everything, and our worship ought to reflect that totality of self-offering. Happy feast day!

FROM THE PASTOR

ETERNAL REST GRANT UNTO THEM, O LORD, AND LET PERPETUAL LIGHT SHINE UPON THEM

Part V

Very Rev. Joseph Mary Lukyamuzi, V.F.

“May Christ, who called you, take you to himself;
may angels lead you to the bosom of Abraham.”

When we hear St. Faustina Kowalska’s name, we immediately think of the Divine Mercy devotion. Yet she also had experiences with souls in purgatory. One encounter came right on All Souls Day in 1936. That evening she went to the cemetery. After praying for some time, she saw one of the sisters who told her: “We are in the chapel.” “I understood that I was to go to the chapel and there pray and gain the indulgences,” Faustina said. During Mass the following day she observed “three white doves soaring from the altar toward heaven” and “understood that not only the three souls that I saw had gone to heaven, but also many others who had died beyond the confines of our institute. Oh, how good and merciful is the Lord!” One night in a dream, a young woman came to see Faustina and informed her that she needed prayers. Faustina prayed at once, “but her spirit did not leave me,” she explained. “Then I thought to myself, ‘If you are a good spirit, leave me in peace, and the indulgences I will gain tomorrow will be for you.’ At that moment, the spirit left my room, and I recognized that she was in purgatory.”

Faustina also received a visit from Jesus concerning the holy souls. She saw him upon the cross, his Sacred Blood flowing from his hands, feet, and side. She described, “Jesus said to me, All this is for the salvation of souls. Consider well, My daughter, what you are doing for their salvation. I answered, ‘Jesus, when I look at Your suffering, I see that I am doing next to nothing for the salvation of souls.’ And the Lord said to me, Know, My daughter, that your silent day-to-day martyrdom in complete submission to My will ushers many souls into heaven.”

St. Catherine of Genoa depicts purgatory not so much as a place but rather as a process through which the effects of sin – referred to as the “rust of sin” – are purged away. Although the idea of divine punishment is not to be disregarded in her account of the souls in purgatory, what comes to the forefront, nevertheless, is the application of God’s burning love for the soul. This is to be the context in which purgatory is considered. The idea of a torture chamber, portrayed in so many books, is not the main theme in her writings. As St. Catherine says, “The souls who are in Purgatory cannot, as I understand, choose but be there, and this is by God’s ordinance who therein has done justly.” In fact, the soul sees this purification as an act of God’s burning charity and would rather suffer this a thousand times rather than go straight to heaven. Again, she says, “Never can the souls say these pains are pains, so contented are they with God’s ordaining with which, in pure charity, their will is united.”

It needs to be said, however, that purgatory is not a state of lamenting sins. According to St. Catherine, focusing on past sins would be a form of imperfection. As such, “They cannot turn their thoughts back to themselves, nor can they say, ‘Such sins I have committed for which I deserve to be here,’ nor, ‘I would that I had not committed them for then I would go now to Paradise’, nor, ‘That one will leave sooner than I,’ nor, ‘I will leave sooner than he.’” Therefore, after having seen its sins and imperfections upon death, the soul no more considers them. From here on out, the object of the soul’s vision and orientation is the beauty and glory of God. Let us continue to pray for these souls who need and deserve our prayers and sacrifices so that soon they may enjoy eternal happiness with God.
