Prayer for Protection

O Mary, you always shine on our path as a sign of salvation and hope. We entrust ourselves to you, Health of the Sick, who at the cross took part in Jesus' pain, keeping your faith firm. You, Salvation of the American People, and all people, know what we need, and we are sure you will provide so that, as in Cana of Galilee, we may return to joy and to feasting after this time of trial.

Help us, Mother of Divine Love, to conform to the will of the Father and to do as we are told by Jesus, who has taken upon himself our sufferings and carried our sorrows to lead us, through the cross, to the joy of the resurrection. Amen. Under your protection, we seek refuge, Holy Mother of God. Do not disdain the entreaties of we who are in trial, but deliver us from every danger, O glorious and blessed Virgin. Hail Mary (3x) Adopted from Pope Francis

Act of Spiritual Communion

My Jesus, I believe that You are present in the Most Holy Sacrament. I love You above all things, and I desire to receive You into my soul. Since I cannot at this moment receive You sacramentally, come at least spiritually into my heart. I embrace You as if You were already there and unite myself wholly to You. Never permit me to be separated from you. Amen

LITURGICAL NOTES

Entrance (Oculi mei): My eyes are forever turned towards the Lord; for he shall release my feet from the snare; look upon me and have mercy on me, for I am abandoned and destitute.

Offertory (Iustitiae Domini): The ordinances of the Lord are right, bringing joy to all hearts, sweeter than honey or the honeycomb. Therefore your servant will observe them.

Communion (Passer invenit): The sparrow has found herself a home, and the turtle dove a nest in which to lay her young: at your altars, O Lord of hosts, my King and my God! Blessed are they who dwell in your house, they shall praise you for ever and ever.

All the chants this weekend are lovely in the variety of the their depictions of the texts! The Entrance Antiphon sweeps us off our feet with a beautiful upward motion on “Oculi mei” (My eyes), elevating us to a prayerful state of waiting for the Lord and slowly descending until the very end and settling on “abandoned and destitute.” It presents us with a rhetorical flourish that encapsulates the humble prayer of turning to God and begging for His mercy on account of our great need. On the other hand, the Offertory Antiphon presents us with a stable melody, circling around the fourth note of the scale (“Fa” – of the Do Re Mi variety), which feels very settled and beautifully captures the immutability of God’s commandments as an anchor in times of triumph and tribulation. Interestingly, the very last note of the chant settles just below that fourth note of the scale (from “Fa” to “Mi”) and leaves it feeling suddenly open-ended. God’s commandments are a source of stability, but will we observe them? The choice is ours. Finally, the Communion chant presents us with some literal text pining, featuring lightly fluttering patterns imitative of bird wings. The delicacy of the melody captures the smallness and humility of the sparrow and turtle dove, which were lowly offerings that poor could afford to offer at the Jewish temple. The sweetness of the melody captures the pure contentment in the certainty that there is a place for the lowly in the House of God. Let us reflect on our true dependance on God and approach Him with lowly hearts seeking His mercy. Jesus, I trust in You!

Haiti: Despite daunting challenges, Haitians beyond Port-au-Prince are finding a fragile yet profound sense of normalcy, bound by faith and resilience. In Saltadere, the St. Michel Parish stands as a steadfast beacon. By divine providence, the community is experiencing a promising "third crop" farming season, traditionally the least productive and recently marked by aridity. These blessings reflect God's grace and the strength of their labor. Despite tropical storms, the tin-roofed St Michel church remains a sanctuary, requiring minimal repairs over the years. The compound has grown, adding a security wall and modern conveniences. A future capital campaign envisions replacing the rectory to better serve clergy, and visitors to medical teams, and UVA students. In this Lenten season, St. Michel Parish inspires hope, faith, and perseverance. Blessings, Bob bobfromm@usairforce.vet

FROM THE PASTOR

LENT – THE WAY TO VICTORY WITH CHRIST

Part IV

Rev. Joseph Mary Lukyamuzi

Then Jesus said to his disciples, “Whoever wants to be my disciple must deny themselves and take up their cross and follow me”
Matthew 16:24

A lot of people give up something during the season of Lent. It is a long-standing tradition within Christianity that Jesus’ followers sacrifice something tangible in imitation of and appreciation for the ultimate sacrifice he made for the sins of the world when he died on the cross. It is also a practice of doing what Jesus instructed in the gospels when he said that one must deny oneself, take up the cross, and follow him if one wants to be his disciple.

Why is self-denial a good idea? Why is giving up something or sacrificing something during Lent a worthy pursuit? Is it because Jesus commanded it of his disciples? There is more to it than that! Jesus never said it should only happen forty days before Easter. He expects us to continuously carry it out for love of him and him only. St. Benedict writes in the 49th chapter of his rule that “the life of a monk ought to be a continuous Lent.” It is an invitation to every disciple of Jesus to take on certain Lenten disciplines, to wash away the negligence of other times.

There are many ways one can deny the self. Giving up a meal is probably the most popular one. Some give up television, etc. Some don’t use electricity or motorized vehicles between Ash Wednesday and Easter Sunday. Whatever it is you choose to give up, it is not about the act—the point is that we all will deny something we like to do or that consumes a lot of our time so we can take that time to focus on our relationship with Jesus. To deny yourself is an act of trust that Jesus is sufficient to meet the needs of whatever it is you are sacrificing in his honor. It is not meant to be a discussion point but a maturity point. In fact, when we fast, we are not supposed to advertise it to anyone (Matt. 6:16-18). We also must avoid giving up something because everyone else is doing it. Even though a lot of people may be fasting or denying themselves through the spring months, the focus is supposed to be on Christ, not human beings. Finally, we must avoid the trap of sacrificing something because we think the act of doing so makes us holy. The grace of Christ, our relationship with Jesus and our obedience to him bring about holiness.

To “deny yourself and take up your cross” invites us into what the cross really means—not just death and suffering, but God choosing human relationships. The cross represents God’s commitment to humanity. The cross represents what we do when we are not in a relationship with the other and think only of ourselves—because to be truly ourselves is to be sure of our connectedness. If we reject the cross, we leave each other. Lent cannot be just about ourselves and our sacrifices; we must define our identity as connected to Christ and a community of believers. We don’t do Lent alone. Lent is a radical communal experience in many ways. Lent is a denial of the self in the best way, not the solitary self that denies the need for Christian community or the self that thinks it can survive on its own. The solitary self rejects the most profound challenge of humanity—belonging.

Jesus’ charge, therefore, is not a demand to deny your true self. Instead, it’s an invitation to realize we need connection with others to be alive in God our Father
