PASTOR'S LETTER

Dear friends of St. Philip,

Perhaps the most important thing we do as a parish is to pray. Prayer is first and foremost a conversation with God, and by association, with the blessed in Heaven who have life in Him. The purpose of prayer, at its fullest, is to draw us into the life of grace which is the life of God Himself. As a parish, we pray together in the prayer of the Mass, and the devotions of the Church year. In our common prayer we share in the work of the people of God, that is the Church. Our common prayer is our first response to the duty of a creature in love of the Creator. Our common prayer is a work in justice before God, who is due our praise.

In the common prayer of the Church, we are also formed in a sort of school of prayer. The prayer of the Mass, especially, is a pattern that we can follow to learn how to pray individually before God. While regular Sunday Mass attendance and participation is a duty of faith, it is also a habit that moves us to greater ability to pray as we ought. This is one reason why it is good for Christians to know the Mass well in its various prayers and parts and to participate actively and attentively, most especially by joining in the responses of the people and joining our thoughts to the prayers of the priest.

Another part of the common prayer of the Church is the Divine office, also called the Liturgy of the Hours. This prayer that is prayed by every priest and religious in the Church is also the prayer of the people of God. The priest or religious promises to pray this prayer daily for the good of the Church, but the laity are also encouraged to participate in this prayer. It was the expressed desire of the bishops at Vatican II that this prayer should be a part of parish life, at least in larger parishes, especially Sunday vespers (evening prayer). The Divine Office has as its principle part the prayer of the Psalms, as well as canticles from the Scriptures and writings of the saints. Divided over the course of the day and following a four week cycle in its modern form (monks still follow the more ancient pattern of praying the Psalms in a one week cycle) the Liturgy of the Hours helps consecrate the day in prayer. This most ancient form of prayer forms the Christian mind in the Word of God. A beginner in the Liturgy of the Hours could easily start with the morning and evening prayers in about ten to fifteen minutes each.

These ways of prayer that form the public prayer of the Church help instill a habit of conversation with God that fills the day and keeps the Christian mind and heart tuned to Him. From these flow the life of personal prayer and the growth of one's relationship with God. What better work could there be?

"Pray for me and I will pray for thee, that we may merrily meet in Heaven" - St. John Fisher

Rev. James Richardson
