The military chaplain who pretended to be a criminal to rescue a boy from organ trafficking

This priest came up with a daring plan to rescue a vulnerable child from a horrifying death.

By Francisco Veneto

A priest who pretended to be a criminal to rescue a boy from organ trafficking was recently highlighted in an article in the Spanish newspaper El País, a periodical generally not given to praising the Church and the clergy.

The story of Fr. Ignacio María Doñoro de los Ríos, however, is hard to ignore. The 57-year-old former military chaplain was nominated for the Princess of Asturias Award for Concord for working for 25 years on behalf of young people who are victims of extreme poverty and the abomination of human trafficking.

“Defective merchandise”

In the 1990s, Fr. Ignacio was part of a special mission of the Spanish National Police in El Salvador. There he witnessed, to his great shock, an unexpected commercial transaction surrounding a “piece of defective merchandise.”

A family in abject poverty with five children was offering to sell their 14-year-old son, Manuel, who was suffering from paralysis, for just $25. With the money from the transaction, the family intended to buy food to feed their remaining four daughters. At the same time, the prospective buyers, by selling Manuel’s organs, intended to make a profit thousands of times greater than the investment made.

Although “defective” as a complete product, he would still yield sufficiently acceptable parts for sale. The boy would be “slaughtered”, dismembered, and packed into separate containers, like an ox or a pig in a slaughterhouse, to supply the demands of the international traffic in human organs.

Organ trafficking

Everything is shocking in this horrific true story. The misery of a family that reaches the extreme desperation of selling a child; the cataloging of a vulnerable and defenseless child as a defective product; the purchase of a human being by others—who are already consciously predisposed to murder him, butcher him and sell him in pieces within a network of murderers without even elementary moral parameters.

It’s also shocking to know that Manuel’s case is far from being an isolated aberration from two decades ago. Human beings continue to be traded in this way in the 21st century.

A tense rescue in the mountains

When he learned that a paralyzed boy was about to be handed over to an organ trafficker, Fr. Ignacio didn’t hesitate to risk his life to save him.

He went a week without shaving, rented a truck, and dressed in plain clothes. With extraordinary self-control, he drove to the poor family's home in the remote mountains of Panchimalco, posing as a human trafficking buyer. He offered the family a dollar more than the price agreed upon by the other buyer, took the poor boy, put him in the truck, and drove away.

Manuel had just been rescued from an abominable death.

Fr. Ignacio told El País:

In tenths of a second, I realized that this was a train that would pass only once in my life and you have to take it or leave it. And if you take it, it will take you where you never thought you'd go ... I was very aware that that child was going to change my life.

But what about the family that sold their own child? Did they know what he was being bought for? Did they know that it was organ trafficking? The priest simply comments:

One thing you learn over time is that you can't judge them. That child was going to die and they sold him out of desperation.

Manuel, however, just needed the right help to avoid what seemed like certain death. Father Ignacio got him the treatment he needed, with intensive rehabilitation therapy, to not only survive but recover from his paralysis.

Twenty-five years later, Manuel is alive and grateful for the blessing of life. And Fr. Ignacio, back in his native Spain, was made sure of this when he received a letter from Manuel declaring that the priest had been "the most important person in his life."

Fr. Ignacio did not stop after Manuel's rescue, nor did he stop at the borders of his country.

In the Peruvian Amazon, he and a group of local partners founded Nazareth Home, an institution entirely dedicated to caring for orphaned children and the children of desperate families, like Manuel's in El Salvador. These families find themselves facing an overwhelming battle against poverty and are vulnerable to falling into the most tragic attempts at escape: prostitution, crime or, still today as 25 years ago, the horror of human trafficking, dead or alive.

Fr. Doñoro received the 2021 Solidarity Award earlier this year from Telva magazine. He used the $20,000 prize money to buy farming equipment to plant rice, part of a project to make Nazareth House self-sufficient through agriculture.

On June 30, it was announced that the Princess of Asturias Award for Concord, for which Fr. Doñoro had been nominated, was being awarded to chef and philanthropist José Andrés, about whom we've written before, and his NGO, World Central Kitchen.

GROW AS A DISCIPLE | PRAY, STUDY, ENGAGE, SERVE

We have apps that monitor our sleep and calories, and remind us to get our steps in. Short on time? We order takeout or subscribe to a meal service. Yet, despite these modern conveniences, I would guess that most of us don't sleep enough or consistently eat well. And we pay the price, whether in the short or long term. Enter Elijah, who had reached his limit physically and mentally. Yet after an angel provided him food and drink, Elijah found the strength to walk 40 days and 40 nights. Impressive! But that's God for us! And in the provision of his Son, we have food and drink - bread from heaven - that not only sustains us for our journey on earth but offers the possibility of eternal life. This is our belief; this is what Jesus says to us. And that alone can give us strength, and hope, even when we're having an "Elijah" moment. For at each and every holy Mass, Jesus invites us to the table, offering us food that not only sustains but also transforms us. Taste and see the goodness of the Lord, indeed!

GO EVANGELIZE

PRAYER, INVITATION, WITNESS, ACCOMPANIMENT

Just as a good night's sleep and proper nutrition help us function our best, the Word of God and the Eucharist, and our communal life of faith, provide the spiritual nourishment we need as we strive to be imitators of God in our daily lives, as Saint Paul says. As we partake of Christ in the Eucharist, perhaps we can say a prayer of thanksgiving and ask Jesus to help us grow in the ways of love that Paul outlined: kindness, compassion, and forgiveness toward the people we encounter. It could mean letting go of a grudge, becoming more conscious of the needs of others, listening respectfully to someone with whom we disagree, or perhaps forgiving ourselves. The Holy Spirit will guide us.

REFLECT Think about the ways the Mass transforms you. It may be something subtle - the spirit of consolation and the feeling that things are right in your world - or you may have been particularly moved by the readings, homily, music, or silent prayer. Tell someone about it!

EVERYDAY STEWARDSHIP - RECOGNIZE GOD IN YOUR ORDINARY MOMENTS

What's Your Hearth Cake?

“Get up and eat, or the journey will be too much for you.” I’ve been to a lot of meetings in my years of work in the Church, and you can take my word for it: the ones with snacks just seem to go better.

I don’t know what it is exactly. Maybe it’s just that people are in a more agreeable mood if you show up with donuts. Or maybe it’s about the very real sense of community and camaraderie that is created at a table where people are engaging in that most human of tasks — eating — beside one another. I think a big part of it comes down to the simple fact that we’re all just nicer people when we’re fed.

This rings true spiritually, too. We simply must remain fed if we, in turn, are to feed others. Think of a time when you have neglected your relationship with God — when you haven’t fed yourself with whatever it is that you need to remain committed to the journey of a Christian life. Is it Mass attendance? Is it prayer or Scripture reading? Is it time with your small group, or conversation with a trusted friend who knows your soul? What sustains your ability to be a good disciple, a good steward? What inspires you to give more freely, to love more abundantly?

Whatever it is, that’s your hearth cake. That’s your jug of water. Don’t neglect it. The Angel of the Lord is nudging you in your sleep: “Get up and eat, or the journey will be too much for you.”

Prayer for Protection from Hurricanes

God, Our Father, Creator and Lord of the universe, you have set the earth on its foundation and all the elements of nature obey your command.

We humbly beseech you to keep us safe from all dangers and calm the storm that threatens us.

May we be secure in your loving protection and serve you always with grateful hearts.

We ask this through our Lord Jesus Christ, your Son, who lives and reigns with You and the Holy Spirit, One God, forever and ever.

Amen.

Prayer for Priests & Future Priests

Eternal Father,

we lift up these and all the priests of the world.

Sanctify them. Heal and guide them.

Mold them into the likeness and holiness of your Son, Jesus, the Eternal High Priest. May their lives be pleasing to You.

In Jesus' name, we pray. Amen.
