Volunteers Needed

We would like to offer Childrens' Liturgy each Sunday of the month at the 10:30 a.m. Mass. This is a wonderful Ministry for our young children who are excused to the Marian Room to enjoy the Gospel reading on their own level and enjoy a coloring page that reflects the readings. This Ministry provides parents the needed time to listen and reflect on the homily. Right now we have two parishioners who each take one Sunday a month, leaving two or three Sundays that no one is available for the children. Please consider investing your time and talent for the future of our parish's young children. Contact Pat Farley at the parish office, 740-432-7609.

On Thursday, January 30, the Cambridge Knights of Columbus Council #1641 inducted three new members. The three new members are seated in the front row. If you want to join or want more information, contact Grand Knight Jacob Padden at 740-421-1393.

we pray for the eternal peace and happiness of:

Pro Life

"The inviolability of the person, which is a reflection of the absolute inviolability of God, finds its primary and fundamental expression in the inviolability of human life. Above all, the common outcry, which is justly made on behalf of human rights - for example, the right to health, to home, to work, to family, to culture - is false and illusory if the right to life, the most basic and fundamental right and the condition of all other personal rights, is not defended with maximum determination...: (John Paul II, The Vocation and the Mission of the Lay Faithful in the Church and in the World, n. 38).

READINGS FOR THE SIXTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

February 16, 2020

In the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus sketches a new morality—a new way of relating to God and to each other.

Both the first reading and the gospel focus on fidelity to God's laws. The first reading tells us that God is not responsible for the evil in this world. We are free to accept God's ways or not. The gospel also insists on God's law, but takes it even further. Jesus insists on fidelity, not only to the external law, but the spirit of the law. Both call for a well-developed conscience.

Sirach 15:15-20

According to this bit of ancient wisdom, God has given us a stark choice and the freedom to face it. Am I able to say I "choose to keep the commandments?"

Oh, we're only human! We hear that often said when someone chooses to do something sinful. Next Sunday's Mass Readings remind us that God gives each of us the ability to choose to do what is right, especially with the promptings of the Holy Spirit that we receive from baptism, bringing us into life in Jesus.

Two passages from the Old Testament reinforce this understanding that it is God's plan for our lives that we grow in a God-given ability to do what is right. In Next Sunday's First Reading, from the Book of Sirach, we will hear, "If you choose you can keep the commandments, they will save you; if you trust in God, you too shall live."

Similarly, we read in Genesis 4:7, just before Cain chose to kill his brother, Abel, "If you act rightly, you will be accepted; but if not, sin lies in wait at the door: its urge is for you, yet you can rule over it."

Our Responsorial Psalm for next Sunday both reinforces that we have a capacity to choose for good and offers to help us by presenting to us the choice as an invitation, drawing us to what is right by showing its benefits. Choosing to follow the teachings of the Lord brings blessings. Indeed, "Blessed are they who follow the law of the Lord," is our responsorial verse.

In next Sunday's Gospel, our continued reading of Jesus' Sermon on the Mount draws us to consider the roots of sin in our hearts or, conversely, the roots of graced actions. Serious sins related to unbridled anger, lust and dishonesty all have their origins in initial thoughts or promptings in our hearts. Nevertheless, as St. Paul emphasizes in the Second Reading, from 1st Corinthians, chapter 2, "What Do I really know what the law of the commandments mean or have I only a childhood understanding?

1 Corinthians 2:6-10

In God's self-revelation, we discover a wisdom the world cannot supply.

What is the "wisdom" Paul speaks of to the Corinthians?

Matthew 5:17-37

Jesus takes his disciples by the hand (and by the heart) and leads them deeper into the meaning of God's law.

Do I mean "yes" when I say "yes" and "no" when I say "no"? What does this statement mean in light of the gospel reading?

has not entered the human heart, what God has prepared for those who love him, this God has revealed to us through the Spirit." Again, the promptings of the Holy Spirit, and responding to them, are key for our actions to be graced actions rather than sinful ones.

And, as the readings emphasize our ability to choose, they also reinforce our need to ask for assistance. In Psalm 119, King David calls out to the Lord saying, "Open my eyes, that I may see the wonders of your law." We need the Lord's assistance to appreciate his ways, even to see the wonders he provides. And, again, "Give me discernment, that I may observe your law and keep it with all my heart."

May the Lord help us to respond to the Holy Spirit's life-giving promptings, that we may live with renewed hearts our lives in Jesus Christ – and be truly and fully human!

Pastor's Letter

In last week's bulletin I mentioned that we would have an open meeting both for discussing concerns about the Church at its various levels, from parochial to papal, and for offering input on various goals and needs for us as a parish and diocese as we are beginning the process of making a new Pastoral Plan for the diocese. I appreciate the parishioners who participated in that meeting, which ended up being a "roundtable" discussion around one table in the Marian Room! Nevertheless, they represented a good cross-section of our parish.

Among the concerns and ideas expressed were ways of making the Sunday Mass experience ever more family-friendly. Many families with younger children might find it too embarrassing to bring their children to Mass knowing that they will most likely have to carry some of them out during the Mass. Perhaps a nursery could be available or some way of lessening how distant the cry room, way up on the second floor can seem at times.

Suggestions were offered for making homily recordings available or even filming and showing the 10:30 a.m. Mass online. Hopefully something like that could keep our home-bound better connected to the local parish community.

Another concern was expressed as surprise that audits of diocesan finances wouldn't have uncovered the practices that led to the misallocation of so many payroll tax funds.

In light of other concerns parishioners have expressed, I read a quote from Bishop Robert Barron's, Letter to a Suffering Church. He acknowledged the disappointment and wounds people have experienced over these past several decades. Then he offered encouragement about the Church having passed through similar difficult phases in its history, "John Henry Newman...made this rather startling and sweeping observation [in the mid 1800s]: 'The whole course of Christianity...is but one series of troubles and disorders. Every century is like every other, and to those who live in it seems worse than all times before it. The Church is ever ailing...Religion seems ever expiring, schisms dominant, the light of truth dim, its adherents scattered. The cause of Christianity is ever in its last agony'" (p. 42).

He then cites an encounter between Napoleon, after declaring himself the new Holy Roman Emperor, and Cardinal Consalvi, who was serving as secretary of state for Pope Pius VII. Napoleon declared that he would destroy the Church. Cardinal Consalvi "deftly responded, 'Oh my little man, you think you're going to succeed in accomplishing what centuries of priests and bishops have tried and failed to do?'" (p. 43)

May the Lord help us all to journey together ever more filled with hope, open to the working of the Holy Spirit, and always ready for the gift of eternal life.
