Faithfully Educating God's

Easter Break is upon us and not a moment too soon. It has been a busy Lenten Season. Students have been enjoying the Lenten Season by attending Stations of the Cross each Friday, donating money to support Vishal at Mass, and contributing to the 40 Cans for Lent donation within their classroom.

The middle school students' Ukrainian Relief Project has been a great success and we are very proud of their efforts to help those in need. The students and teachers very much appreciate all the generous donations provided by the congregation and students in efforts to help Ukraine. Over $800 was raised! Thank you!

As we are coming to the end of the year in the Middle School, English class students are writing research projects on a famous person of their choosing and presenting them to their peers. Everyone from Former President Theodore Roosevelt to Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy to Musician Miranda Lambert is accounted for. The students have enjoyed their research and will begin presenting their projects to their classmates in the next week.

READINGS FOR THE SECOND SUNDAY OF EASTER

April 24, 2022

In the Gospel, Jesus appears to his apostles and offers them the gift of his everlasting peace. As Christians, we are called to bring God's gift of peace to all people. As we gather to celebrate the Easter mysteries, let us resolve to be of one heart and mind with Christ.

Both the reading from Acts and the Gospel passage focus on the presence of the Risen Lord. In the first reading, this presence is witnessed in the actions of the disciples; their life in "peace and unity," their miracles and their belief in the Resurrection. This witness leads more men and women to believe.

Jesus' first words to his disciples are of peace and forgiveness. "Peace be with you... if you forgive the sins of anyone, they are forgiven." Thomas represents those of us who find it hard to believe that Christ is truly present among us and that living in peace and unity is possible. To him, Jesus says, "Don't be unbelieving, but believe." The evangelist tells us that he has written this for us, so that we will recognize the signs of the Risen Lord and believe.

Acts of the Apostles 5:12-16

Many signs and wonders were done among the people.

When have you been aware of signs of God's acting in your need?

Revelation 1:9-11a, 12-13, 17-19

I am the first and the last, the one who lives.

How do you witness to others the salvation we have in Jesus?

John 20:19-31

As the Father has sent me, so I send you.

What is God asking of you at this stage of your life?

Throughout this week we observe what is called an "octave" for Easter. That means that to a certain extent each day over these upcoming eight days is celebrated as if it were another Easter. For example, usually for daily Masses we don't sing or recite the hymn of the Gloria. During the Octave of Easter, however, the Gloria is part of even daily Masses. The Mass readings, too, focus on the events of the Resurrection.

The Second Sunday of Easter is also called Divine Mercy Sunday. In the Gospel reading for next Sunday, we go back to the Upper Room with the apostles to where Jesus had eaten the Passover Meal as the Last Supper. They were hunkered down fearfully hoping that what had happened to Jesus would not happen to them. The door was closed securely with a huge wooden plank across the door.

In spite of this, Jesus passed through the door and appeared to them. This moment is depicted in the Divine Mercy images that are central to this devotion, like the one we have on the left side of the sanctuary at St. Benedict Church, near the Baptism font, and near the devotional candles on the right-hand side of Sts. Peter & Paul Oratory. In those images Jesus is depicted as just having passed through the Upper Room door with streams of light flowing out of the wound in his side that had been inflicted on him by one of the soldiers after his death. As Jesus greeted his surprised disciples, he said, "Peace be with you!" Jesus then showed them his hands and his side, still with the nail marks and the wound from the lance. He gave them a command to go and forgive people's sins. He gave them the authority to do so in his name. This moment, therefore, is one of peace to calm our fears about death. It is also a moment of mercy to help us hear God's words of mercy spoken through Jesus and through his apostles. So, this Second Sunday of Easter is fittingly called Divine Mercy Sunday.

A religious sister in Poland in the 1930s, St. Faustina Kowalska, received inspirations regarding the development of this devotion to God's mercy. This devotion had a positive impact on St. John Paul II, and he promoted it enthusiastically as a bishop and as pope. There is a form of prayer associated with this devotion called the Divine Mercy Chaplet which is prayed utilizing Rosary beads. Many people have found it to be a good complement to praying the Rosary.

The other readings for next Sunday's Mass also echo, at least indirectly, these themes of mercy and peace. For both the First Reading and the Second Reading, we will be progressing through two books of the Bible throughout the Easter Season: Acts of the Apostles in the First Reading and the Book of Revelation in the Second Reading.

In the First Reading, we hear about many healings occurring, including “those disturbed by unclean spirits” (Acts 5:16). Great peace and mercy are the fruits of physical and spiritual healing. In the Second Reading Jesus tells St. John, “Do not be afraid” (Rev. 1:17) because he holds “the keys to death and the netherworld” (Rev. 1:18). He has the power and authority to bring peace and mercy. And, the Responsorial Psalm declares that God’s love is everlasting. In the Hebrew language, there is much overlap in the meaning of the words for love and for mercy. May we, like the earliest Christians as well as like our Jewish ancestors in the faith, experience and become instruments of God’s abundant Divine Mercy!

Pastor’s Letter

I would like to echo some of the words of Pope Francis at his Palm Sunday Angelus Message this past week as an Easter greeting as well: “We are preparing to celebrate the victory of the Lord Jesus Christ over sin and death — over sin and death — not over someone and against someone else Why not allow Him [Jesus Christ] to win? Christ bore his cross to free us from the dominion of evil. He died so that life, love, peace may reign.”

May we rejoice in the ultimate victory that Jesus has won for us – victory over sin and death! May Jesus free our hearts from all forms of evil and instead may we experience life in Jesus with His love and peace reigning in our hearts!

Congratulations to those in our parish community who have celebrated sacraments of initiation at the Easter Vigil Mass this weekend! Welcome to new life in Jesus and to full communion with the Church! We are always grateful to the unique spiritual gifts that Our Lord Jesus gives to each of us for building up our faith community.

Please note that next Sunday afternoon, we are planning to offer a profound prayer service similar to one that was conducted several years ago. Some of you might remember the religious community called the Children of Mary, who conducted a prayer service for healing several years ago on a weekday evening.

We are planning to have a similar prayer service on Divine Mercy Sunday, April 24th, starting at 2:30 p.m. at St. Benedict Church. During that prayer service we will be asking Our Lord Jesus to provide healing graces as flowing directly from His Eucharistic Presence. During the Prayer Service for Healing, we will begin Eucharistic Adoration at 2:30 p.m., pray together the Chaplet of Divine Mercy at 3:00 p.m. and conclude with Benediction at 4:00 p.m. Confessions will be available between 3:15 p.m. and 3:45 p.m. with opportunities throughout the service for prayers for healing for each individual present.

Thank you to the generosity of all flowing both to the Easter celebrations – such as gifts to the Easter Flower Fund, musical talents, decorating talents – and flowing from the Easter celebrations – such as gifts to the second collection, For Those in Need. Our outreach to our greater Guernsey County community and beyond is substantial and impactful. Thank you!

May Our Lord Jesus Christ help us to experience the transforming power of His mercy as He helps us to be always ready for the gift of eternal life in Heaven!
