LITURGICAL LIFE

QUESTIONS OF THE WEEK

First Reading

We hear how Job struggled to find meaning and hope in his life. How does your faith help you get through difficult times in your life?

Second Reading

Paul speaks of his singular desire to preach the "gospel" (the Good News of Jesus Christ). When do you share the gospel message with others?

Gospel Reading

We learn that from the beginning of his public ministry Jesus was very purpose-driven: healing the sick and preaching the good news. How intentional is the practice of faith in your daily life?

GOSPEL MEDITATION

Encourage Deeper Understanding of Scripture

If I only knew then what I know now, how different life would be. This sentiment, expressed in myriad ways, is found on every human being's lips at one point or another. Life may have brought us to a vulnerable place where we see some of the poor choices we made and the effects they are having. Perhaps we fell into some destructive and dysfunctional relationships or behaviors and are finding how they held us captive. Our zeal and passion for life may have drifted away and we are waking up to the reasons apathy has taken hold. Life can be hard. In fact, some would describe their lives as a drudgery. They walk through each day with an anxious unsettledness, wondering when their restlessness will cease. There is a temptation to believe that what I see is all I will get. Mortality and hopelessness await the dawn. If I could only have known what would come in the future, I could have made better choices and avoided all of this misery!

Really? While we can certainly give into weakness, sin, impulsiveness, and idiosyncrasies that cause us to stumble over ourselves, life is really a journey. If we don't make the mistake of wallowing in the mire of self-pity and realize the new life God is calling us to, then there are thrills, adventures, surprises, and soul-searching graces we can surely miss. We are not tethered to our past nor are we bound to the ills life can bring upon us. We are never hopeless or helpless. The problem is that our myopic vision only allows us to see the misery and misfortune that is before us, not the potential that can come from choosing healthier and more life-giving options. Jesus came that we might have fullness of life. We need to learn how to reach for Jesus' hand and let him help us to our feet.

We need to allow God into our pain and heal our past. We have to wrestle with our histories, agonize and search and cry out for the Divine healing we need to restore our faith, hope, and love. Job could not see how his story would end or trust the guidance of the God who called him. We live in that same blindness and suffer from the same lack of confidence. Once we allow ourselves to be touched by God's healing power, we begin to see that all of the pieces of our lives are necessary parts of a greater whole. Along the way of our lives, God uses our omissions and failures to create new things and possibilities. When doors close, others open and we can be amazed by the joyful and unexpected surprises we receive. Once we know the power of God's creative, healing, life-giving, forgiving, and dynamic presence, it is no wonder we want to put ourselves at the service of others and show them what life can be.

Dear Friend,

In July 1958, the French physician, Dr. Jérôme Lejeune, became the first person to discover a link between Down syndrome and chromosomal abnormality. He then dedicated the rest of his life to researching treatments to improve the lives of people with Down syndrome as well as defending their dignity at all stages of life. Dr. Lejeune died in 1994 at the age of 67.

This month the Vatican officially recognized his life as one of "heroic virtue" and declared him Venerable Jérôme Lejeune. He is now just one step away from beatification. In the wake of Venerable Jérôme's death, Pope Saint John Paul II wrote the following in a letter to the Cardinal Archbishop of Paris:

"Professor Jérôme Lejeune assumed the full responsibility that was his as a scientist, and he was ready to become a 'sign of contradiction', regardless of the pressures exerted by a permissive society or of the ostracism that he underwent."

Living a life of such heroic virtue has always been the lofty aim of human beings. It is the essence of pursuing and achieving sanctity which, ultimately, is the only true barometer of success or failure in life. As Gregory of Nyssa said: "The goal of a virtuous life is to become like God" (Catechism #1803). The Three Theological virtues — faith, hope, and love — are infused in us in Baptism and thus are of divine origin. Today I want to talk about the greatest of these: Love (I Corinthians 13:13).

One of the great lines of St. Paul is this: "and hope does not disappoint, because the love of God has been poured into our hearts through the Holy Spirit that has been given to us" (Romans 5:5). God's love, as the third Theological Virtue, is the zest of a life of faith and hope. And, as said, St. Paul elsewhere tells us that love is the greatest of these three virtues. This is ultimately because God is not faith or hope, but God is love (I John 4:8).

What is this love which was given us at Baptism? This love is fundamentally a loving of God for his own sake and a loving of our neighbor for the sake of God (Catechism # 1822). The key here is our motive. Just as God has loved us even to the point of sending his Son to die for us, so we love God and neighbor even to the point of self-sacrifice. Love is all about the other. It is not about ourselves.

John's Gospel records many times during the Last Supper that Jesus spoke about love. He first told his men, "This is how all will know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another" (13:35). Imagine! Our love would be such that others would see us as Jesus' disciples. This is because any love we exhibit is really Jesus' love for us. We are channeling his love, as it were (15:9). And Jesus told us that his love went to the extent of laying down his life for his friends, for us (15:13). He calls us his friends. That is why he gives us a command, "Love one another" (15:17).

Brothers and sisters, love is a word which seems to fall off our lips so easily, probably because we really do not think about what it means. Yet, St. Paul was clear: If I "do not have love, I am nothing" (I Corinthians 13:2). However, for it to be the Theological Virtue of love, it must be the love which God gives us and to which God unites us. This is divine love that we are given and called to manifest to one another. This is the point of the great judgment at the end of time when the Son of Man will bring us into the Kingdom of Heaven because "whatever you did for one of these least brothers of mine, you did for me" (Matthew 25:40).

Assuring you of my prayers, I am sincerely yours in Christ,

+ Earl

EVERYDAY STEWARDSHIP Recognize God In Your Ordinary Moments

The Audacity of Holiness

Do you know a holy person? I'm not talking about piety — that's important, too, in its own way. But right now, I'm speaking of holiness.

St. Therese of Lisieux called holiness "a disposition of the heart that makes us humble and little in the arms of God, aware of our weakness, and confident — in the most audacious way — in His Fatherly goodness."

The holy person sees a storm on the horizon of life, and rather than give themselves over to fear and despair (natural and understandable reactions), regards the gathering winds as an opportunity to rely more fully on God. The holy person takes a bad situation and sanctifies it with charity and understanding that defies our fallen human nature.

Peter's mother-in-law was still in the throes of a fever when Jesus grasped her hand. It wasn't until she took his hand and allowed him to help her up that "the fever left her and she waited on them." Before the fever could leave her, she had to commit to holiness — to put her trust in him in a most audacious way. She had to find it within herself to lift her weakened hand to grasp his — and as soon as she did, she was rewarded. Her bodily health restored, she gave thanks, and attended to his needs.

God's hand is always outstretched to us. Will we take it, even if the fever of sin and pride and worldly concerns rages in our souls? Will we muster the strength? Will we be audacious enough to have confidence in His Fatherly goodness?

WHY DO WE DO THAT? Catholic Life Explained:

Question:

Is it ever Ok to leave Mass before it ends?

Answer:

This is an interesting question because beneath the surface there seems to be an assumption that if it's okay, then why do we have to stay after we receive communion? The short answer is "no," but we definitely want to go a bit deeper as we consider why.

First, when we think about questions like this, we must consider this in adult terms. If there is something gravely important that we need to do, then we must attend to that. However, if it is a matter of convenience or preference, then we really have to stop and think again. First, while we always want to recognize the importance of sacramental communion in the Mass, we also need to understand how important the time of thanksgiving and prayer after communion is. This is summarized in the Prayer After Communion offered by the celebrant and then we are also commissioned to "Go forth" during the Dismissal of the Mass, reminding us that we have been entrusted with a gift - the Word of God and the Presence of Christ in the sacrament — and that we are to share that gift with others.

If we simply leave after we receive communion, we risk two things. First, there is the possibility that we will turn our reception of communion into a purely personal, individual experience that is separated from our common experience of worship — and communion in the fullest sense — and, second, we lose an opportunity for gratitude and serious reflection if we simply leave after communion. This time of thanksgiving, reflection, and, ultimately, missioning, are important and, in the end, an essential part of the celebration of the Mass.
