Mission Statement

The Church of St. Luke is joyful, welcoming, caring, active family of believers striving to grow in knowledge of and love for God and each other.

Challenged by the Word, nurtured by the Eucharist, and enlivened by the Spirit, we seek to live the message of Jesus in serving the needs of others both within our Parish and in the larger community.

EASTER SUNDAY

FIRST READING: Acts 10:34a, 37-43

SECOND READING: Col 3:1-4

GOSPEL: Matthew 28:1-10

Reflection: What words or phrases caught your attentions as the Gospel was being proclaimed on Sunday? What connection do those words or phrases have to your day-to-day life? (Why do you think they caught your attention?) What might God be trying to say to you through these words or phrases? What response should you make? What action should you take?

Alternative: Share about/reflect what is your Galilee. Were to you live and work and play, specifically? Reflect upon/share about your experience of the Lord in your Galilee. What change can you make in your life so that you might experience the presence of the risen Lord more often?

PARISH PASTORAL COUNCIL

Parish Pastoral Council normally meets on the 3rd Tuesday of the month. Visitors/observers are welcome. If you wish to have an item placed on the agenda, contact a Council Member to present it for you, or contact the Parish Office.

FROM THE PASTOR

Gospel: Matthew 28:1-10
Then go quickly and tell his disciples, 'He has been raised from the dead, and he is going before you to Galilee; there you will see him.'

The instruction to the women to tell Jesus' disciples to go to Galilee where they will see Jesus is given twice in this Gospel, once by the angel (Mt 28:7) and once by Jesus himself (Mt 28:10). What is so important about those words? The same instruction appears in Mark's Gospel (Mk 16:7) given by the angel. Luke's Gospel reports that the angels said, "Why do you seek the living one among the dead?" (Lk 24:5) In John's Gospel, which is commonly considered more spiritual than the others, Jesus tells Mary Magdalene to tell the disciples that he is going to the Father, God, in heaven (Jn 20:17b).

I'm convinced that the instruction to go to Galilee is important to Matthew. The Apostles were born in Galilee. Galilee is where they were raised, where they lived and worked and played. Luke's question, "Why do you seek the living one among the dead?" is completely in line with this. The risen Lord is to be experienced in our day-to-day lives, where we live and work and play.

John's Gospel puts the risen Lord within the realm of the spirit. But, if we do not separate our life in the spirit from our life in the world, there is no conflict. And we shouldn't separate it. We should allow our life in the spirit to guide our life in the world. That is how we achieve the fullness of life, with the risen Lord guiding us by His Spirit.

Allowing the Spirit of the risen Lord to guide us on our day-to-day lives is not the easiest thing to do. The demands of living in the world pull at us. We are, oftentimes, consumed both physically and emotionally by the struggles of our engagement with life. We are distracted from thoughts of the spiritual and may not have any energy left for it anyway.

It may seem counter intuitive, but seeking the risen Lord within the struggles of our day-to-day lives is how we can energize ourselves within the struggle. The presence of the risen Lord is life-giving while living the day-to-day without His presence can be life-draining.

Many of us have friends or relatives who are life-giving to us and we turn to them when we are particularly down. The Lord is there, in that relationship but He is also there in the midst of our struggles if we learn to open ourselves to His presence. How do we do that?!

The path to continual relationship with the Lord is probably different for each of us. One thing that is probably common to all of us, though, is the need to let go of the things that keep us from experiencing the Lord. We need to let go of fear and we need to let go of anger. We need to let go of our desire to be in control of everything in our lives, our desire to be God. We need to let go of clinging to substitutes for God, power, wealth, pleasure and honor (as noted by Thomas Aquinas). We need to trust and pray the prayer Jesus prayed in the garden, Father, if you are willing, take this cup away from me; still, not my will but yours be done." (Lk 22:42)

Another suggestion I can offer goes beyond the general letting go of things that keep us from experiencing the presence of the Lord. It is called practicing presence. Whatever situation we are in, whether it is with an individual or a group we can practice presence. It requires letting go too.

Practicing presence requires letting go of our efforts to control the present situation. It requires letting go of whatever anxieties we brought into the moment. It requires hearing the other, letting go of our pre-conceived judgments and refraining from developing a response while the other is trying to communicate to us. It requires us to "feel" the other, not just hearing the words but non-judgmentally feeling their emotion and psychological state.

A spiritual writer that I really appreciate, even though I've forgotten who it is, said that when we practice this kind of presence, we feel a mysterious third presence. Try it. It's true, and to experience it, brings excitement and life to whatever situation. That mysterious presence is the presence of the risen Lord, made present through the Holy Spirit.

He has gone to the Galilee of our day-to-day lives and there we can see him, if we believe. I'm reminded of Jesus's comment in the story of the raising of Lazarus, "Did I not tell you, if you believe you will see the glory of God."

In His Service,

Fr. Ron

LIVE THE LITURGY: INSPIRATION FOR THE WEEK

Our world wants us to believe that life is only what we make of it. Today, we realize how untrue that is. Life is ultimately about what God makes of it, and the resurrection of Jesus reveals this. Alleluia, Christ is risen! Who do you understand yourself to be? What we did yesterday, are doing today, and may do tomorrow pretty much determine how we perceive ourselves. We even perceive Jesus this way in limiting our vision of him to his earthly accomplishments. But, we know through today's triumphant celebration that Christ is much more than his earthly legacy. The transfigured and resurrected Christ is the beginning, the end, and the fulfillment of all things and every person. All that Jesus did stands in second place to who we now know him to be. Do we realize that this will be our journey too? Christ is risen. Alleluia, alleluia!

GOSPEL MEDITATION: ENCOURAGE DEEPER UNDERSTANDING OF SCRIPTURE

Easter Sunday of the Resurrection of the Lord April 12, 2020

When we awoke this morning, we found ourselves blessed with another day. It is Easter Sunday. As that thought crossed our minds, did we find ourselves saying "so what" or "alleluia"? For many, today is truly a day of alleluia. For others, it is just another day of "so what." Faith makes a huge difference. It not only makes a difference in how we understand today and the significance of what we celebrate, it also makes a huge difference in terms of how we understand ourselves.

Succeed, live well, be productive, find your niche, follow your dreams, make money, protect your social status, be politically correct, and keep your preferences to yourself are pretty good examples of the messages our secular life wants us to hear. In and of themselves, they don't sound all that harmful. But when really examined, they are. The life of resurrection embodied in the Gospel tells us a much different story.

Life keeps us busy. We are always connected, distracted, occupied, and working. For many of us, an agenda awaits us before we even start our day, and unfinished stuff is brought with us when we retire at night. Make the best of life and "find your own road to happiness are messages we all too easily believe. The "so what" response to the new life of resurrection is often the result of believing that life is only what I make it. What God has to say isn't important to me securing my next raise.

Sadly, we live as if the grave is the end. While we may give the wonder of heaven a blink now and then, its glory really doesn't impress us or matter all that much. It's all about the here and now and what I need to do today to get where I want to be tomorrow. We tend to put off considering the one significant "tomorrow" that will come the millisecond after we take our last breath. When that happens, will we want to be thinking "so what?" or "alleluia"?

There is only one Jesus, one mission, and one resurrection. There is also only one of us. Have you ever pondered what one solitary, humble human life can do? Faith, not our world, tells us how special we are. We are not robots. We are not replaceable. We have one shot. There are no do-overs. Love is at our core and unites us together as one with the God of love who so desperately wants us to be with Him forever. This may not match our secular agenda, but it ought to make our true inner agenda leap for joy. There doesn't need to be an end. I can live forever. Alleluia!

EVERYDAY STEWARDSHIP—RECOGNIZE GOD IN YOUR ORDINARY MOMENTS

Come to Christ

Life is perhaps God's greatest gift to each of us. Without life, we would be unable to experience all the wonder of this world, the love of family and friends, and the joy that comes from using our talents and skills. Life itself is more profound a gift than we can even truly contemplate. On Easter, we celebrate life. For on this day, Jesus Christ conquered death and gave to us the chance for a life eternal. The wonder, love, and joy of this world does not have to end. Through a life in Jesus Christ, these emotions are heightened, and we find even greater fulfillment in this world.

Maybe this Easter you are finding yourself open to taking a next step in your relationship with Jesus. This could be the moment you decide to follow Him more closely and take seriously all that he has given you. If so, welcome to the journey, where there are many other disciples on that same path who can help show you the way and share their stories. If not, hopefully it doesn't take a whole year for this possibility to be considered again. Jesus is alive and waiting to get closer to you. May this Easter season find you and Our Lord getting to know one another in a whole new way. Happy Easter!
