Sometimes, we think we shall be saved simply because we are members of the right Church. Today's Mass tells us that the real people of God are those who do the will of God according to their opportunities. If God has given us countless opportunities of grace, He expects us to show tremendous fruit in His kingdom.

TODAY'S READINGS:

1st Reading: 2 Kings 5: 14-17 - Naaman the leper was a pagan foreigner and an army general accustomed to discipline and protocol. When he asked to be cured of his leprosy, he thought that the prophet Elisha would do something spectacular. Instead, the prophet asked him to wash in the dirty Jordan River. Reluctantly Naaman obeyed; because of his humble faith, he was healed.

2nd Reading: 2 Timothy 2: 8-13 - If Christ has risen from the dead, our lives must be different. If He has given us every grace and blessing, He expects us to be faithful even through hardships. If we are willing to die with Him, we shall live with Him. But if, by our indifferent lives, we deny Him, then He will deny us.

Gospel: Luke 17: 11-19 - The "good news" today tells of the healing of the ten lepers. Only one person, a Samaritan, returns to thank Jesus. His humble gratitude brings about a spiritual and a bodily cure. God's people are those who hear His word and respond with wholehearted, humble faith.

Today's Reflection: Healed by Jesus

When my daughter was seven, she cut her thumb badly while trying to make a fruit salad. When she cried out for me, I quickly dressed her younger sister and we went to the hospital for stitches. She was in pain and crying when the doctor injected the anesthetic into the hand to numb the pain. With a firm, but quiet voice he looked at her and said, "Katy, does it still hurt?" She stopped all at once and said with a voice of wonder, "No." He proceeded to stitch up the thumb and congratulated her on being brave. She thanked him and then talked about him for the rest of the day. I still remember the surprised look when she finally realized her thumb no longer hurt. She didn't know that the anesthetic had taken effect because she expected to still be in pain. The ten lepers who met Jesus knew they couldn't approach anyone and they had undoubtedly called out to others to help them. When Jesus told them to show themselves to the priests, they went their way not expecting to be cured and still deep in their isolation. Some inner voice made one leper suddenly aware that he had been made clean. He stopped, full of wonder. The priest would still have to inspect him before he could return to his community, but his desire to look at Jesus one more time and give thanks for his mercy had to come first. We don't know what made him so mindful of his healing, but his response inspires us. How has Jesus touched and healed you? How will you thank him, and who will you tell? +Mary Katharine Deeley

 That I love but what is holy.

Strengthen me, O Holy Spirit,
 To defend all that is holy."

A Word from Pope Francis

Often it is better simply to slow down, to put aside our eagerness in order to see and listen to others, to stop rushing from one thing to another and to remain with someone who has faltered along the way.

October is Respect Life Month

"Christ Our Hope: In Every Season of Life"

Our Christian Identity

To understand more fully how to defend and protect human life, we must first consider who we are, at the deepest level. God creates us in his image and likeness which means we are made to be in loving relationship with him. The essence of our identity and worth, the source of our dignity, is that we are loved by God: "We are not the sum of our weaknesses and failures; we are the sum of the Father's love for us and our real capacity to become the image of his Son."

We are called to divine intimacy, true communion with God, and we can grow in this closeness with him through daily prayer, reading the Scriptures, and frequent participation in the sacraments, especially Confession and the Eucharist.
